"Oh dear! Mother! I can't find my Spring Fashion number. Gracious I hope you didn't burn it up!"

"No! He's a brute! I haven't spoken to him for three days. After me all but killing myself cleaning every corner in the apartment I asked him if he could see the great change, if the place didn't even smell clean?" "He said no, he didn't notice any difference!"

THE DEN FOR BOYS

It's getting to be quite the fashion to "talk" at each other thru our page. Some of the talks are mighty busy—especially those that are out of that witch's cave. But now and then there is a regular Bouquet handed out. Here's one today that will make each boy smile and will be like a "Thanksgiving turkey."

AND IT'S FROM A GIRL!

FLORENCE NELSON

2946 Marquette Blvd., Berkeley

Dear Aunt Elsie: I don't like to hear the girls "slam" the boys all the time. There are lots of boys who are fine. Who were it who stood all day on the street corners last Saturday and watched to see that no one violated the traffic laws? 'Twas safety first week you know. Who was it who here a thousand voices hollering "BOYS!" Yes, and it is BOYS who do scores of other good things. Besides I think some boys are better story writers than girls. Girls begin their stories in that old-fashioned way "Once upon a time." Very few boys do that. But let me tell you, there are loads of nice little stories.

FLORENCE NELSON

I am not quite sure what is going to happen when the girls read that letter, but I'm almost positive that most of the boys will have to buy bigger hats.

CHARLES DORAN

2027 Franklin St., Oakland

Charles wrote several stories for that adventure contest. Here is one of them:

Chums.

It was a sunny day in summer. Two good friends, Paul and Ena, were walking toward an old shack.

"I wish we could run into an adventure like grown folks," said Paul.

"We probably will," said Ena. "He is said that a man was killed here and that on June 1st he walks around this house."

They then started to explore the shack with a sort of fearful pleasure.

Suddenly Ena heard a gasping cry and turned just in time to see a man disappear in a hole in the floor.

Crying "Paul! Paul!" she rushed toward him but too late. A trap door shut.

It was midnight. As the moon rose over the hills behind the shack, a picture curled up in the corner of the shack. It was Ena, watching the trap door! At last she was rewarded.

The door slowly lifted and a man's head appeared. Glaring at a piece of iron Ena dealt him a blow that made him unconscious.

Brought down the hole she saw Paul lying on a pile of straw, dead and badly beaten. Quickly she lifted him up and carried him home.

As he lay on his bed he told her that he had been doomed to die by some Bolshevik criminals as he was a "soldier's son."

"Ena, how can I thank you," he whispered.

"You needn't," smiled Ena.

There are many things about Charles' story that you will find you read it carefully. In both of our "den" but some of the writers make their characters "live" more than others do. You will notice that Charles does not take much time for fancy descriptions of scenery. Such descriptions are lovely but grown up readers have discovered that the things real people do are more interesting to readers than the loveliest lake or hillside. So they fill their stories full of "action" just as Charles has. The best way to tell a story is not to feel that it is a story at all. Think about what you want to write until you see the people actually performing about in your own mind and then tell, very quickly and simply, what you see them do. Talk pictures and sounds and smells and feelings and TALK MOVIES. You like the movies because they move—because you get right into the middle of things. That, too, is what a story should do. Your readers are not going to be "GUT THINK" but what the hero or the villain is doing—even if he is only digging fish worms.

WARREN JOHNSON

Box 171, R. 3, Chico, Calif.

It was a clear, cold night as a bunch of cowboys came riding up the silver path which the moonlight made upon the snow. Little did the happy crowd guess that around the next curve in the trail a band of Indians lay in wait. Suddenly "Whizz Bang" and the air was filled with flying arrows!

For a quarter of an hour the battle raged. The Indians outnumbered the white men, two to one. But the cowpunchers were not with their guns. They dropped from their ponies and lay on the ground fighting on and on for they had more than their own lives at stake. Amongst them were three girl friends. They must save them, and they would rather die in battle than let them be captured.

But the Indians were closing in! The chance of victory was growing less, but still they fought on. Suddenly there was an awful crash—the earth rocked and heaved—a terrible roar. Then all was still. Not an Indian was in sight! One of the cowboys had filled a sack with powder, attached a lighted fuse and thrown it into the midst. They were saved!

"SKEEDUNK!"

No Address Given

In an old town there stood a large gray house which people said was haunted. One day two boys decided to test it out so that night they went to sleep there. About midnight they were awakened by a pounding and the murmur of voices. It seemed to come from the cellar. The brave boys crept softly down the rickety stairs—and what did they see? There were a lot of men melting and hammering gold and silver into bars. While one of the boys ran for the police the other watched. When the sheriff came he captured the men. They were robbers who had stolen the gold and silver ornaments and were melting them to take away. They had played ghost to scare people away. The boys received a big reward.

Dear Aunt Elsie: I am a new chum eight years old and I want to join that Boys' Den.

Once Tom and Joe decided to take a walk in the woods. Suddenly they saw a dim light far off. Coming nearer they found an old house. They could hear voices talking. A round man was saying that if anyone came my boy! This war will soon end. Go now and fight to avenge those who have gone before!" With that, it vanished.

Duncan, still marvelling, and filled with new courage, went over the top at two. With a mad rush he landed in the German trenches. Noticing a small notebook he picked it up. On the first page was written:

"To whoever sees this—please help me! I am being carried off to Cairo."

The strange writing was vaguely familiar. Try as he could, however, he could not remember where he had seen it. So he pocketed the book he went on fighting.

Chapter 2

OVERBOARD

Three months had passed and peace had come. This day the army was demobilized. Duncan had set forth for Cairo.

"It will be some adventure at any rate—a romance, perhaps," laughed he to himself.

Over the miles sped the steamer, bearing Duncan. As he sat in his stateroom he pondered. Who could that be? How did that note get into the German trenches?

Suddenly to his delight he sighted an old friend—Joe Barnes. He rushed over to greet him. "Hello, Joe!"

Duncan might not have been so pleased to see Joe if he had noticed the man who was peering from behind a tunnel, or seen the secret gesture with which Joe motioned to him. He had not time for further welcome to his old friend. Suddenly he was grabbed from behind and thrown over the railing—into the sea!

Duncan struggled wildly and yelled for help but no one noticed. Soon the ship was out of sight. He saw no hope but to wonder if Joe had anything to do with his going overboard, and if he did, what could have been his object?

The struggle was beginning to tell. His strength was failing. Suddenly in the distance he saw an old wooden ship. Would it draw near?

The Boy Scout's Reward

Three boys, Ned, Bob and Donald, once lived in a little town. They organized themselves into a Boy Scouts Troop and one day started for a camping trip. They had reached a little island and were making camp when they heard rough voices say: "We'll rob the building across the river tonight."

Looking across the river the boys could see a flag floating from a big government building. At once they determined to defend their country. Flaring across "Don" and "Bob" stood guard while Ned hurried for the

A MYSTERIOUS NOTE

"If this cursed bombardment would only stop!" thought Duncan, our hero, as he lay in a trench in France waiting for the fatal hour of two at which time they were to "go over the top."

But instead of stopping the noise grew more deafening. Suddenly Duncan started in amazement. Thru the air a Vision—a Spirit—was preaching him—and as it came nearer he saw that it was GEORGE WASHINGTON.

Gently it spoke: "Be not afraid, the police. Soon the robbers came, but when they found the police were given a banner for their troop."

The Electric Spark Mystery

Hello! Wiggle-wiggles!

If you find a street that has a bank on one side (of dirt, not money) here's the way to have some fun.

Yank make a pit's cave in the bank—with an entrance at the top if you wish. It's lots easier than digging a cave in level ground.

Yank, McNelly! Here's a stunt for you. When your spark gap is going, blow on the spark. What will happen? Try it and see.

Lyndon Wood—watch me get funny with your name! If you try to tell me you can make LINEN out of WOOD I'll HEAVE you out of the Tribune's office.

Down to be he's only six stories high but a little thing like that doesn't matter.

The Electric Spark Mystery

I have a new idea for the Spark's cave idea for you but I would strongly advise you to dig in an old field rather than on a road. Once upon a time, down by the river, there was a girl named Ena, and a pal dug just such a cave in a nice clean street. And a big fat policeman nearly took her picture. Also a girl named McNelly. Here's a stunt for you. When your spark gap is going, blow on the spark. What will happen? Try it and see.

Airlane Contest

LISTEN PIRATES, WHO WANTS AN AIRPLANE? A little beauty of an airplane, that will take the air like a hummingbird? Do YOU? Then here's your chance. The MARINES are giving one away to the boy who will submit the best SLOGAN on the U. S. MARINE CORPS.

You all know who the Marines are. You all know the glorious way in which they "went up and over" for the honor of all America on that terrible fighting front. It makes your blood race faster just to think of the Marines, doesn't it? Then you put that feeling into some phrase that'll describe them with a PUNCH that's worthy of them. That's what a SLOGAN is—a short description with a punch. It must contain not over fifty words. Longer descriptions will be discarded. All slogans must be addressed to MARINE CORPS SLOGAN EDITOR, OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

All slogans must be mailed not later than May 16. The answers will be judged by officers of the Marine Corps and Aunt Elsie.

The winner will be announced on THIS PAGE MAY 30. Other clever slogans will also appear. ANY BOY, OF ANY AGE, may compete for this prize.

BOOK REVIEWS AND LITERARY NOTES

"Adventure at Panama"

Philippe Bunau-Varilla Claims Credit For Bloodless Revolution Which Made Canal a Possibility.

During the life of the late Theodore Roosevelt he was many times charged with responsibility for the revolution of November, 1903, which resulted in the establishment of the republic of Panama and the consequent loss of the Isthmian canal strip to Columbia. Smiling under the alleged wrong, Colombia is yet appealing to the United States for monetary satisfaction and some years back even demanded an apology. In "The Great Adventure of Panama," the author, Philippe Bunau-Varilla, proudly claims credit and assumes full responsibility for the bloodless revolution which made it possible for the United States to construct the great waterway across Panama instead of at Nicaragua. It must be admitted that he makes out a good case in proving himself chief conspirator.

Philippe Bunau-Varilla is a distinguished French engineer who was identified with the canal project as chief engineer for the French Canal Company. His great loyalty to France is attested when it is recalled that in fighting to preserve the very existence of that nation he lost a leg at Verdun. The author boldly charges and adduces evidence in substantiation that French intrigue prevented Colombia from ratifying the Hay-Herran treaty. He cites other conspiracies on the part of the Boche, of which Panama was the center, covering a period of fourteen years. The most interesting part of the book is that dealing with the Panama revolution and the important aid rendered by the author to the actual leaders of the revolt.

The Colombian Congress, after that government had taken the initiative in negotiating the Hay-Herran treaty that granted certain concessions including a right of way across Panama, refused to ratify the instrument. Fully realizing what the canal would mean to their country, and fearing Colombia might be forced to adopt another route, the people of Panama were in despair and felt that the hour for drastic action had arrived. Dr. Manuel Amador Guerrero, the leader of the conspiring forces and the first president of the new republic, came to New York to seek aid, but was making slight progress. At the most critical moment there came a telephone call from Bunau-Varilla. Dr. Amador not knowing that the distinguished Frenchman was in the United States, Dr. Amador, whom the writer of this review met on several occasions in Panama during the early days of the revolution.

appearance of being the leader of a revolution. He was a kindly old gentleman, mild in speech and retiring in manner, looking more the part of a typical country doctor. He was, however, a man of sterling character and held the confidence of that handful of Panamanian citizens who staged the revolt. Dr. Amador desired to seek the aid of the United States government. Bunau-Varilla knew that direct aid was out of the question, but he did realize the importance of informing government officials confidentially of the conditions of the isthmus and the probability of a revolution occurring. This information he diplomatically conveyed to President Roosevelt. Secretary of State Hay and Assistant Secretary Loomis.

The distinguished Frenchman felt that under the treaty of 1846 with New Granada, the predecessor of Colombia, in which the United States was granted a right of way across the isthmus and agreed to keep open and free the transit between the two oceans, that it was incumbent upon that government, in case of revolt, to keep transit open. Dr. Amador sought a loan of $5,000,000, a large part of which was to be utilized in purchase of a navy. How many ships that sum would purchase was not explained. Convinced the revolutionary representative that a navy was not needed, Bunau-Varilla finally agreed to personally advance $100,000 out of his own pocket for other necessary expenses. This was arranged. Dr. Amador sailed for Panama, the revolution came off according to program without the shedding of a drop of blood; the United States cruiser Nashville arrived at the opportune moment to protect American interests, the new Republic of Panama was launched and promptly recognized by the United States and other countries, and the distinguished French engineer, Bunau-Varilla, was chosen minister plenipotentiary of the republic and promptly negotiated the famous Hay-Bunau-Varilla treaty under the provisions of which the Panama canal was constructed and the dream of centuries realized. Unquestionably the people of this country owe a debt of gratitude to that patriotic citizen of France and that true friend of America, Colonel Philippe Bunau-Varilla. May we some day give expression to our gratitude in substantial form. A monument on the isthmus might be appropriate. J. R. K.

"Girl From Four Corners"

Rebecca N. Porter Writes Story of Human Emotions and Struggles—Scene Laid in San Francisco Bay District.

A railroad wreck in the tunnel near San Luis Obispo opens the way for a volume of love to the reader who can live a book instead of reading it. "The Girl From Four Corners" is not a book that one can read with enjoyment—it must be lived through because it is too human, too emotional and too expressive of sentiment to merely read. The Californian, especially one who has ever lived in the San Francisco bay district, finds in Rebecca N. Porter's new book many delightful spots because of the familiar scenes which it recalls. Oakland, Berkeley, Mill Valley, San Jose and other places in the bay section, are alluded to during that part of the book in which Freda Bayre lives in San Francisco.

Freda, "The Girl From Four Corners," is the daughter of a Mendocino county orchardist and a Los Angeles society woman who went to the home of her husband when she was married. Freda, upon arriving in San Francisco, becomes an apprentice in a hair dressing parlor, but she finds that she has many traits and tendencies in San Francisco as she did back home with her gruff father. Despite the opportunities which present themselves and offer her a life of ease through the medium of the "cupid war," Freda finds that the strong and fine qualities which she has inherited from her mother predominate in her nature. In the book there is a wonderful outlay of true California romance, and touches of the cosmopolitan nature which are common in the bay district. As well as keeping the pace at all times the fact that Freda and her associates are all perfectly natural and real, the book suggests that perhaps the authoress has not confined her work to fiction by any means. The Californian who fails to read "The Girl From Four Corners" is missing something more than a book, or a sermon, because the book is far more than either of these—it is a life, filled with naturalness and human emotions and struggles. There are a few places in the book which might have been improved, in that they drag just a trifle, but these are too insignificant to warrant more than passing mention. It is to be hoped that the authoress will be heard from again.

laws governing the international use of the waters of the world. Arranged alphabetically and with the information stated in concise and adequate manner this feature, which is but one in the work, will recommend it to a large number of business men. In the first part of the book there is a discussion of the relation of waterways to international communication. A survey of the inception and development of marine enterprise and a historical review of the efforts of certain world powers to secure exclusive enjoyment of the seas forms another part of the volume. The purpose of the book is to present the subject in its present and past and to afford, through the manual included, a means of determining the laws governing navigation on any specific waterway.

POETRY

Margaret Widdemer Compiles Anthology of Poems Which Deal With the Return of Spirits to the Earth.

Margaret Widdemer is one of the few persons who does a number of things well. In addition to writing verse which has won for her distinction and reward, she has two or three novels to her credit and a volume of short stories recently published which show her skill in another field.

Recognizing these possibilities one is interested in her collection of poems of other writers, which has just now, for, as its title suggests, it "The Haunted Hour." The anthology of verse which Margaret Widdemer has compiled is of especial interest just now, for, as its title suggests, it is a collection of poems that have to do with the return of spirits to earth.

The collection has included only poems which deal with the return of spirits to earth, not with a number of well-known poems which concern themselves with spirits in heaven or elsewhere. The book is a convenient size, and will doubtless find a large response now when great men are bringing messages from those who have gone, and when there is a tremendous call for comfort and communication with those "we have loved long since, and lost awhile."

The editor has included a number of the exquisite lyrics of Katherine Tynan and Theodora Garrison, most delicate and spiritual of poems, and has extended the range through the works of a score of well-known poets to the poems of Tom Hood and the uproarious Ingoldby Legends.

There are eleven divisions of the poems, beginning with those on Halloween night, the poems concerning little children, shadowy heroes, soldier ghosts, sea ghosts and cheerful spirits, the ghosts of haunted places and of love, shapes of doom, legends and ballads of the dead and a group of six poems which have been classified under the title, "You Know the Old, While I Know the New."

The list of poets represented includes the majority of the best-known and the highest rated of today's writers of verse, along with others whose songs have claimed attention in other days.

The book will fill an appreciable place in anthologies and will find ready response among large numbers of readers.

"STORIES OF THE SAINTS," HALL

The debt that humanity and literature owes to the stories of the saints is one that cannot be measured. Their sufferings and spiritual triumphs, their unquestioning belief, and their high idealism seem, in these days, to call for a child-like faith and in this call, they sound perhaps, the needed note. There can never be any question of the benefits to accrue in the reading of these old tales. For years Fox's Book of Martyrs has held its appeal and out of the stories therein have come legends and inspiration. As an aid to peruse the stories of these heroes of the cross, Grace Hall has collected under the title, "Stories of the Saints," some thirty or forty tales and has included a chronological order of the saints. The result is a book of loved stories simply told and such a book that will interest a child as well as the adult.

The book will find a ready welcome by those parents who like to see the best of literature put in the hands of children and who realize that that literature to hold the young attention must be written simply and with interest.

NEW LIBRARY OF SOCIAL SCIENCE.

J. Ramsay MacDonald, British statesman, is to edit a new library of social science, the first volume of which is his own work, "Parliament and Revolution."

Because MacDonald, in this work, attacks Bolshevism and urges democracy and representative government by authorizing certain radical writers to impugn the motives of the series and profess to see propaganda in its issuance. Until more of the volumes are out definite opinion on this question may be held. In favor of the honesty of purpose and genuineness of the argument it may be pointed out that the writer has not been considered, by any stretch of the imagination, a conservative. With Kier Hardy and John Morley he took sides against the war in England in days when man took his life in his hands to do so.

MacDonald is well equipped to discuss economics and government. In his book, which of course has the peculiar British application, there is much of solid meat and no few truths put in startling fashion. "The revolutionist is active and pure; his successor is not necessarily the one or the other," the author says in discussing soviet democracy and the autocratic measures taken to preserve it. A system of indirect democracy is a kind of reaction and not of progress. As a revolutionary necessity it may have to be adopted; as a normal procedure it ought not to be countenanced.

HENRY JAMES.

The interest with which the letters of Henry James are awaited by the whole literary world has been whetted by accounts of those who have been privileged to have a glimpse of the letters before they are given to the public. Certainly no letter writer ever had a more delightful group of men and women among his friends. The lists of names to whom the James letters are written sound like a catalogue of the most brilliant and talented minds of the day. Among his correspondents to mention only a few were James Russell Lowell, Robert Louis Stevenson, Mrs. Humphry Ward, Edith Wharton, William Dean Howells, Edmund Gosse, Charles Eliot Norton, Sidney Colvin, William James, A. C. Benson, Hugh Walpole and John Singer Sargent.

"Mercier"

Charlotte Kellogg, Stanford Woman and Member of Relief Commission in Belgium, Writes of Cardinal.

Charlotte Kellogg, Stanford woman and member of relief commission in Belgium, writes of Cardinal.

An admirable companion book to that "Life of Cardinal Mercier," which consists of the record he wrote into history with his correspondence with German governments in Belgium, is Charlotte Kellogg's "Mercier," the story and an interpretation of the man.

Mrs. Kellogg, who is the wife of Prof. Vernon Kellogg of Stanford, went to Europe with the Hoover relief commission and worked there during the war. Given unusual opportunities for study and observation, she has written a dozen or more books on various Belgian themes. Prof. Kellogg has also written out of Belgium and the two have fashioned no mean library.

In "Mercier" Mrs. Kellogg tells of the cardinal's quiet life before the war and of the manner in which he met the invasion. With a king and queen in flight and a country desolated here was a man upon which a terror-stricken community could depend for protection. Against the tyrant he was champion for the oppressed and his work for Belgium constitutes one of the greatest chapters of the war.

Mrs. Kellogg was given every opportunity to collect material for her story. She enjoys the friendship of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, of Cardinal Mercier, and of persons in all walks of Belgian life. The story is given an introduction by Brand Whitlock.

Tells Story of Archangel Front

Ralph Albertson is a Y. M. C. A. man who went with the allied expedition to the Archangel front. In his little book, "Fighting Without a War," he describes the hardships of that expedition, the differences of opinion and the friction between officers, the alleged "mutinies," and the work of propagandists on both sides. It is his opinion that most of the atrocity stories circulated concerning the Bolsheviks are not true and also his view that truths have been told concerning the Allied forces.

After the withdrawal of the American forces Albertson served with the British. His opportunity for observation was an unusual one and his account of the war is a vivid and ordinary. The story is a simple one and purports to be no more than one man's observations. It is accompanied by some photographs taken at the front in what was one of the strangest campaigns of the great war.

KIPLING IS CHOICE.

In the usual compilation of senior statistics the Princeton class of 1920 has selected its favorites. The Princetonian of twenty years ago would be surprised to see how many of his day have read, noticed one striking fact, the abiding popularity of Rudyard Kipling. Brown eyes give place to blue, Norma Talmadge has succeeded Maude Adams, the one-time idol of the undergraduate world, but Kipling remains unchallenged. He was the favorite poet of 1900 and is still the favorite of 1920, with "If" as his best favorite poem. Time has obliterated old land-marks, a new generation has sought new favorites, but the author of Danny Dever, Kim and Mandalay has the same human appeal today that he did twenty years ago.

"The Pembroke Mason Affair"

Detective Solves Baffling Mystery By Mysterious Mark.

Bromley Barnes, the famous detective, again has an opportunity to display his great skill in "The Pembroke Mason Affair," another of the fascinating mystery stories of George Barton. Pembroke Mason, a noted lawyer residing in Washington, is mysteriously murdered in his library as he sits studying the brief in a case he is to argue before the supreme court on the following day. Central station detectives, misled by a false chain of circumstantial evidence, arrest the assistant of Mason, Walter Miles, who had visited the lawyer's house late on the night of the murder, and who unfortunately had recently quarreled with his chief. To add to the complications, Miles had been seeking the hand of Mason's niece, Marian Cooper, and the girl's uncle had scornfully refused his consent.

Bromley Barnes now seeks a solution of the apparently baffling case of mystery. On the forehead of the murdered man the detective had discovered a peculiar mark which proved to be an Indian symbol known as the Swastika. By clever work, in which the services of a fortune teller are utilized, Barnes finally fastens the crime upon the partner of Pembroke Mason, on whose finger is found a ring with the Swastika as a setting. Miles is released, which brings happiness to Marian Cooper. The story is well written and the interest of the reader is held from the opening to the concluding chapter.

He has written a book which will be read by twenty million school children will be given education and which will be allowed to move toward its destiny under the tutelage of its destiny powers. The book is the best work of a man of whom any race might well be proud.

EPITAPH

Earth, draw thy coverlet over my face,
For I am weary and would rest a space.
I've played at hide-and-seek among the flowers
And thou hast kindled me with sun and showers.
Hast fed and held me happy on thy knee,
And like a mother thou hast played with me,
Now I would sink upon thy breast—
Lift up thy coverlet and let me rest.

A Few Moments in Which to Dust the Shelves

Miss Helen Hoyt, whose poems appear most frequently in "Poetry," and who is to be found in all of the anthologies of modern American verse, has been spending the winter in Berkeley. It is announced that the March number of "Poetry" will contain a collection of poems by her entitled "In a Certain City," and the friends she made in Berkeley are wondering if they are to contain impressions gained there.

The Pot-Boilers Club at the University of California represents the surest evidence of the campus desire for a closer relationship of its writers. Several times it has been a press club that has come into being to supply the need but always, with the shifting of classes, the interest dies within a year or two. The Pot-Boilers will hear Stewart Edwards White, Peter B. Kyne, and Peter Clark MacFarlane. They have already sold their first manuscript.

Granville Barker tells a story of his recent lecture in Berkeley. It went off unusually well, he says, and he talked at some length. When he had finished a address that occupied the greater part of two hours, he was approached by a newspaper reporter, who had been conspicuous in the crowd, and he said to him: "Have you anything to say?"

"That is the severest criticism I have ever received," said the British playwright.

L. Allen Harker, author of "Allergic," sent the manuscript across the channel from London to her husband Major A. W. Allen Harker, in Flanders. The dedication to the volume tells the story:

"My dear's alarm I sent it 1920 to London, as like thrown shuttle, to the weaving of the story used to go in ravaged Flanders—your—in London—me."

For a poet who announces herself with so much assurance that she is a pioneer and a break of convention, Marguerite Wilkinson is surprisingly puritanical. It was she who in her preface demanded to know:

The secrets women will not tell.<

UNCLE WIGGILY WENT WADING IN THE MUD PUDDLE. THE GOAT AND MONKEY BOYS HID HIS SHOES FOR A JOKE. BUT JUST SEE WHAT HAPPENED AFTER THAT. OH, MY!

Text by HOWARD R. GARIS
Author of the Famous UNCLE WIGGILY BEDTIME STORIES

One day, when the early spring rains had made some lovely puddles of muddy water in Woodland, Uncle Wiggily saw some of the animal boys and girls in wading. As he watched them, Billie Wagtail, the goat chap, said to Jacko Kinkytail, the monkey chap: "Wouldn't it be fun if we could get Uncle Wiggily in wading, and then we could yell that the Skeezicks was coming?" Jacko wanted to know what fun that would be. "Why," spoke Billie, "before we yell that the Skee is coming, we'll hide Uncle Wiggily's shoes!"

"It will be a good joke on Uncle Wiggily to hide his shoes, and then yell that the Skeezicks is coming," said the monkey boy. "But he won't believe us unless he sees the bad chap." Billie said that would be easy. "We'll make a scare-crow of a Skeezicks out of some tree branches and our caps," Billie told Jacko. "Come on, let's get Uncle Wiggily's shoes now. Leave ours where they are." So while Uncle Wiggily was teaching Jennie Chipmunk to wade in the nice mud puddle, Jacko and Billie sneaked over to the bunny's new shoes.

While Uncle Wiggily was having a good time in the mud puddle, teaching Jennie Chipmunk to wade, Jacko and Billie, the monkey and goat boys, took the bunny gentleman's yellow shoes and hid them behind a bush. Then Billie and Jacko made a make-believe Skeezicks out of a tree branch and some other things. "When we sneak up, with this, and howl like the Skee after Uncle Wiggily's souse, he'll run out fast," bleated Billie. "And when he can't find his shoes—Oh! he'll get so excited as never was," Jacko said.

"Now our make-believe Skeezicks is all done," said Jacko to Billie. "Yes," answered the goat boy. "We'll hide behind it and carry it toward the wading mud puddle. We'll howl like the Skee hollers for Uncle Wiggily's souse. Then he'll run for his shoes and they won't be there. Oh, what a joke it will be!" Uncle Wiggily, knowing nothing of what was going to happen, had made a sail boat for Jennie. All of a sudden the little chipmunk girl and the other children saw the pretended Skee coming along and they yelled,

No sooner had Billie and Jacko approached the mud puddle with the make-believe Skeezicks, and had howled as that bad chap used to howl when he was after Uncle Wiggily's souse, than, all at once the REAL Skeezicks came hopping along. "Ah, ha!" said he. "Here's where I get a lot of shoes, as well as the bunny gentlemen's souse!" The children rushed out of the pond, and the boys dropped their make-believe Skeezicks. Then along came Mr. Stubtail, the bear gentleman, with Uncle Wiggily's old shoes he had been mending.

As soon as the Skeezicks had gathered up in his skinny paws all the shoes of the animal children, he started to run away with them. "I'll hide these," howled the Skee, "and then I'll come back and get Uncle Wiggily's souse. I wonder where Uncle Wiggily's shoes are? I don't see them." As the Skee ran away the animal children felt very badly because their shoes were taken. Billie and Jacko were sorry they played that trick. Uncle Wiggily put on his old shoes, Mr. Stubtail took a club and cried: "Let's chase the Skee!"

"Are you all ready, Uncle Wiggily?" cried Mr. Stubtail, the nice bear gentleman shoe-mender. "If you are we'll chase the bad Skeezicks and make him give back the children's shoes." Uncle Wiggily, having put on his old shoes which the bear gentleman had brought, said he was ready. Away they started after the bad Skeezicks, who ran so fast he dropped one or two shoes. "He has my new ones, I guess," said Uncle Wiggily, as he threw stones at the bad chap. "Well, we'll soon catch him," roared Mr. Stubtail.

After a short race Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Stubtail caught up to the bad Skeezicks. Uncle Wiggily wasn't afraid of the skinny chap now, when the bear gentleman was with him. Taking the Skeezicks by the back of his neck, Mr. Stubtail shook the unpleasant creature until he dropped every shoe he had taken from the wading pool. "Pick them up and we'll take them back to the children, if you please," said Mr. Stubtail. "I will," said the bunny gentleman. "But the funny part of it is I can't find my new shoes! Where are they?"

After Mr. Stubtail had nearly shaken the liver-pan out of the Skeezicks, he let the bad chap go, over the hills to the poorhouse. Then the bear gentleman and Uncle Wiggily carried the animal children's shoes back to them. Billie the goat and Jacko the monkey brought Uncle Wiggily's new shoes out from behind the bush where they had hidden them. After the boys had tossed the make-believe Skeezicks into the mud puddle and all the shoes were on again, Mr. Stubtail laughed and said to Jacko and Billie: "That was some joke!"

LOWDEN AND WOODSONG TO JOHNSON

Californian's Candidacy Is Aided by Growing Conviction That Rivals Cannot Land Prize, Survey Shows

President's Name Mentioned With Increased Frequency; Palmer's Situation Gives Added Impetus to McAdoo

Special to THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE. (Copyright, 1920, by The Washington Post.) WASHINGTON, April 24.—Although delegates to both the Chicago and San Francisco conventions are now being elected almost daily, there is not any appreciable clarification of the political atmosphere. There is no indication that in either convention will there be any candidate for the presidency who is not a member of the "big game" group. It is accepted as a foregone conclusion that in neither convention will there be any one with enough pledged votes to assure his nomination on the first ballot. The result is that practical politicians are beginning to talk of dark horses. Despatches to the Star from its political correspondents show that the conditions of casting ballot is not confined to either party or to any geographical section. It is a fact of high significance that in both parties are maintaining a masterful silence.

NEW YORK NOMINALLY FOR MURRAY BUTLER

New York's big delegation in the Chicago convention will be headed by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, without any expectation that he will be the convention's choice. The men who will determine New York's name at Chicago are Dr. Butler, who has been complicated, are not saying who they are for, and it may be that they do not know, but there is widespread suspicion that the Republican leaders in New York are in close communication with the public leaders in other states with big delegations.

PHILADELPHIA RACE ENTERED FOR MAY

A peculiar situation in Pennsylvania is that the only candidate entered for the presidential preference is one Edwin Randolph Wood of Philadelphia, and as a number of candidates for delegates to the Chicago convention have pledged themselves to vote for the popular choice as indicated by the primary preference vote, they may find themselves tied up to the Philadelphia race regardless of their personal desires or the desires of the party chieftain.

JOHNSON FALLS HEIR TO PROGRESSIVE SENTIMENT

In other words, much of the conservative strength of the party is being shifted to Harding as the more likely candidate, and Senator Johnson is unmistakably falling heir of the progressive sentiment of the party. Wood campaign has been predicted.

OPPORTUNISTS ALERT FOR SIGNS OF OPPORTUNITY

The opportunists of both parties, who have been keeping their eyes peeled for the band wagon before forming connections with candidates, did not get much satisfaction out of the primaries and State conventions held during the week just ended. If anything, their "confusion is worse confounded," say early opportunists, and they are looking for the coming week in Ohio, Massachusetts and New Jersey, but the result in Ohio, where there is an anti-war boom, is pretty well discounted, and in neither Massachusetts nor New Jersey is there anything like a decisive contest.

WILSON MENTIONED WITH INCREASING FREQUENCY

The most noteworthy phase of the situation in the Democratic party is the increased frequency with which the name of Woodrow Wilson is heard everywhere. The belief that Woodrow Wilson is likely to be the choice of the San Francisco convention, the belief is based apparently on the increased frequency of the peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant as a campaign issue.

CONVENTION MENTIONED WITH INCREASING FREQUENCY

The convention is being mentioned with increasing frequency by the Attorney-General Palmer, and the fact that he had a hard fight on at home, with the possibility of a split delegation from Pennsylvania, has served to give an impetus to the boom of former Secretary McAdoo as a likely administration candidate and champion of Wilson policies.

WILSON MENTIONED WITH INCREASING FREQUENCY

From Colorado, New Mexico and elsewhere correspondents send word of McAdoo talk, especially in the case of organized labor. The Democratic candidates continue to be hounded with an "if," the afore-said "if" being whether Woodrow Wilson intends to take what the San Francisco nomination him-

Berkeley Flyer In Fatal Nose Dive

Inventor Falls At Antioch

While trying out a new airplane speeder device, Elmer Clark, 34, died today in a fatal crash. The crash occurred in the aviation service during the world war and one of the organizers of the Berkeley Allied Flyers' club, was instantly killed near Antioch, Contra Costa county, yesterday afternoon when his airplane made a 150-foot nose dive.

Clark had invented a device intended to accelerate the speed of an airplane and was engaged in testing it out when the accident occurred. His wife was at the family home on Hearst avenue in Berkeley when she received word of the fatal accident.

CURB PROFITEERS OR RESIGN, CRIES SENATOR CAPPER

FORECAST; POLES MENACE GERMANY

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Calling upon the "law enforcing officials of the government to resign" if they cannot "curb the profiteer and enforce the law," Senator Capper, Republican of Kansas, today addressed the senate on the question of the high cost of living.

Preparedness for the approaching "spring season" of sugar profiteering was urged by Senator Capper. Confiscation of all sugar in the country and distribution to consumers at cost was suggested by the Kansas senator.

"The war and industrial disorders have come as a result of rampant, long continued and unrestricted profiteering," Capper said. "If the law-enforcing officials of the government cannot enforce the laws they should resign."

Capper scored the department of justice for its methods in endeavoring to reduce the high cost of living. "No country can adjust itself to constantly increasing prices," Capper declared. "No country can be enriched by the gouge profiteer."

"The Kansas senator said recent government reports show that 78,624 American corporations, of which some have stockholders who are dodging the income tax through stock dividends," averaged gross profits of more than $500,000,000 each in a single year.

"It is illuminating to note that in just one year during the war the gross income of American corporations rose from thirty-five and one-half billions to eighty-four and one-half billions," Capper continued.

"You suppose that the people who are being forced to do without many things need in order that we may double the number here of our millionaires, thrill with patriotic fervor when they read a lesson on thrift and 100 per cent Americanism from one of these 1000 per cent tax dodgers?"

"The most brazen challenge of the government we have had in a long time," Capper said, "is the challenge of the sugar trust."

"The sugar trust is allowed to prey on the health of the nation every year by depriving the poor of opportunity to eat fruits and vegetables necessary to proper diet."

"American colonists went to war with George III for much less when they dumped his tea into Boston harbor."

"Congress has passed laws which if properly enforced would put the profiteers in jail," Senator Leuroot, of Wisconsin, declared at the conclusion of Capper's speech.

"The sugar trust has been punished by the present administration. If one was placed in jail the profiteering would end. One glaring example is that of the sugar profiteers who the department of justice refused to punish."

MANY OFFER TRIBUTES TO H. A. MELVIN

PALESTINE IS ASSIGNED TO BRITAIN

Bench and Bar, Members of Clubs and Public Office Holders Join in Extolling Character of Late Jurist

Funeral Services Fixed for Monday Afternoon From Scottish Rite Hall; Eulogies to Be Delivered by Friends

From all walks of life and from every corner of the state and nation words of condolence are coming in to the family of Judge Henry A. Melvin, who took his life yesterday morning at Merritt Hospital while suffering from mental derangement brought on by a protracted illness.

Particularly stunned by the word of Judge Melvin's death is that close circle of business and professional men who had claimed him as a close friend since the early days of his public life. In the legal profession the news of his death brought forth immediate and heartfelt tributes to his many sterling qualities and steps were taken to express in word and in solemn ceremony the place held by the jurist in the hearts of the community.

The superior court in Oakland and San Francisco adjourned early in the day and plans were made to hold services early in the week. Flags in all the Bay cities were flown at half-mast.

FUNERAL SERVICES MONDAY AFTERNOON

The funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Scottish Rite hall, Fourteenth and Madison streets. The services will be conducted by Exalted Ruler William J. Garibaldi and the other officers of the Oakland Lodge of Elks, of which Judge Melvin was one of the founders. Ray Benjamin, a past exalted grand ruler of the lodge and one of Judge Melvin's close friends, will deliver one of the eulogies.

The death of Judge Melvin created a profound impression in San Francisco, not only in municipal, state and federal courts, but in the minds of everyone generally, as Judge Melvin possessed the faculty of winning the respect, love and admiration of every one with whom he came in contact.

Both federal, city and county courts which were in session when Judge Melvin's death became known, stood out of respect for the eminent jurist.

Expressions of regret and sorrow were heard on every side both from citizens who never had seen Judge Melvin, but who had admired his attainments and kindly, upright character, and those who came into contact with him in the courts and in the more intimate intimacy of the judicial club life.

DEAD JURIST MOURNED IN CLUBS

In the clubs, particularly was Judge Melvin's passing the subject of remembrance. In the Bohemian Union League, the Athlone and the Athlone-Nile clubs.

Lauded for his big heart, his genial and his high regard for the rights of the people, his love for nature and for deeds of kindness, the tribute paid to the memory of Judge Melvin by his friends and associates is one such as has seldom been given in the community.

FRIENDS PAY TRIBUTES

Some of these expressions follow: "Judge Melvin was a man of great force and character," said one of his friends.

"The death of Harry Melvin has had a very big effect upon me. I have known him intimately for years. I have practiced law before him and he was admitted to the higher court. All these years of our association have created in me a high regard for his sterling qualities, his social nature, his loyalty and his other wonderful attributes."

"Harry was a man who was never behind in his work; he was an indefatigable worker."

"I believe that the fear of approaching blindness was one of the main contributing influences in his breakdown. Recently he had complained of a constant increasing dimness of vision. He tried glasses after glasses but without success, and he often expressed to me the fear that he was going blind and what a terrible affliction it would be."

"The year before the number of opinions he disposed of ran up to between eighty and ninety."

Bryan Starts For Convention; Says Treaty Is Issue

(By United Press) ST. PAUL, Minn., April 24.—William J. Bryan is getting an early start to the San Francisco Democratic convention. He was here today en route to the coast.

"The peace treaty, unless it is ratified by the Senate beforehand," he said, "probably will be made the paramount issue of the campaign."

"I believe I know as much about politics as any other man," Bryan said. "I am going to the San Francisco convention to do what I can on a great occasion."

VILLA ENLISTS WITH OREGON, FORMER ENEMY

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Francisco Villa, rebel chief, has definitely joined the Oregon revolt to overthrow President Carranza, despite the fact that General Obregon is known as the "only man who ever defeated Villa," according to an announcement tonight at the headquarters of General Alvarado, representative here of the revolution.

The news of the Mexican revolution available in Washington today was one-sided, practically all favoring the rebels.

Deputies here received today from Chihuahua City that Villa had sent assurances to Governor de la Huerta of Sonora that he would cooperate with the revolution against the Mexican federal troops in Chihuahua.

VILLA AGREES TO HOLD FEDERALS IN CHIHUAHUA

Villa declared that the federals would not be allowed to leave Chihuahua to invade Sonora.

The situation in Mexico caused by the rapid spread of the revolution against Carranza and by the doubtful condition of Americans in all coast towns and cities, points in the opinion of officials here to the early increase of United States warships in Mexican waters.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels announced today that the three ships Tropic, Iowanna and Iowanna, in the opinion of officials here, to the early increase of United States warships in Mexican waters.

Replicans Predict $1,500,000,000 Saving

Turks Join Reds for Revenge on England

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Congress by its drastic reductions in all appropriation bills will be able to save the taxpayers approximately $1,500,000,000 this year, Republican leaders of the House predicted tonight.

The saving represents the difference between amounts the various branches of the government are asked for and the approximate amounts of the appropriation bills as they are now being passed.

Thirty-Two Locals Ousted From B.R.T.; Probe Looms Over Strike In Oakland

W. G. Lee, President of Brotherhood, Cancels Membership of San Francisco and Los Angeles Among Others; Palmer Acts To Clear Up Order For Arrest of Strikers.

CLEVELAND, O., April 24.—Charters of thirty-two locals of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in all parts of the country have been revoked, due to participation in the insurgent railroad strike. W. G. Lee, president of the Trainmen, announced tonight.

The total membership of these locals exceeds 10,000. Lee said. The ousted locals include: Number 248 in San Francisco; No. 808, Los Angeles; No. 839, Salt Lake City.

Many of the men affected by the revocation of charters are not guilty of participation in the insurgent strike and will be transferred to other locals, Lee said.

San Francisco Teachers Must Quit Federation

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—A statement has been made here by members of the Yarmden's Union that the federal grand jury, the department of justice and the United States attorney's office are investigating the activities of the San Francisco and Oakland Yarmden's association as a result of the strike.

San Francisco teachers must quit the Federation of Teachers or resign their positions. This was the edict laid down here today by the department of education when it was reported that despite the department's ruling against teachers joining such a body they have organized.

The edict states that membership by teachers in any organization having the power to call a walkout or a strike will not be tolerated. The teachers are put upon the same basis as soldiers, being declared the representatives of all the people.

Bill To Stamp Factory Prices On Shoe Soles

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Senator McNary today introduced a bill providing that shoe manufacturers must state the price of all shoe soles made by them, in letters at least a quarter inch high, the name and address of the manufacturer, with the words "manufacturer received" and "price" followed by the price for which the shoes were sold.

Manufacturing plants in Illinois will be compelled to close tonight, tonight wired Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, that the situation was "serious."

Wilson Sends Hines Note of Appreciation

WASHINGTON, April 24.—President Wilson today wrote Walker D. Hines praising his services as director general of railroad strike relief. Hines is leaving his post some time after the middle of May, and his intention to resign is already known to President Wilson. The president's letter to Hines follows:

"I cannot let you retire from the duties of director of railroads without telling you how I have personally valued and admired the quite unusual service you have rendered the government and the country. I hope that the future holds for you something worthy of your ability and character. With warmest appreciation, Cordel Hines."

CARNAHAN TALKS OF JOHNSON VOTE

Commenting on the reports of the Montana presidential preference primaries, H. L. Carnahan, western Johnson campaign manager, yesterday issued the following statement: "The tremendous victory of Senator Johnson in Montana is another step toward his nomination by acclamation at the Republican national convention in June. Every state in which the people themselves have a chance to pass upon their choice for president has evidently translated it into action the California slogan of making it unanimous for Johnson. "Nothing more clearly demonstrates the responsive faith the people have in Johnson's candidacy than the Montana primaries, for Senator Johnson did not make a single speech in the state of Montana. "Montana again explodes the fiction which has surrounded the misty midday of Hoover. In Minnesota, Nebraska and Montana the Hoover vote has been of negligible character, clearly demonstrating the real feeling of the voters in the Eastern states, and the results in California will be a vindication of the attitude of the California electorate.

"Senator Johnson, by his repeated successes has thrown consternation into every reactionary camp. First it was Michigan that was to be the test, then Nebraska, and finally Montana was claimed as the turning point.

SITUATION UNDERSTOOD. "Now the claim is made that machine controlled New Jersey is to be the test. It is New Jersey that is a real primary, where a free expression could be had from its people, the issue there would be just as overwhelmingly decided in Johnson's favor, as it has been in every other state. Not only will there be no real primary, but New Jersey intensively organized by the reactionary element of that state aided by representatives of the great vested interest in New York who are spending unheard of sums to make their machine there more perfect, will make the free expression of a preference a mere mockery.

"This situation as well understood and will aid, rather than detract from the sweeping impetus which has been given Senator Johnson's winning fight throughout the country.

Nolan Asks Support For Johnson Californian Ever Labor's Friend

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 24.—In an open letter to Californian Congressman John I. Nolan today expressed doubt that there were Californians who "could have so short a memory as to forget the services rendered California by Hiram W. Johnson, and that they would support his political opponent at the May fourth primary.

His statement follows: "A few days ago I noticed by one of the San Francisco papers that a labor club was organized in San Francisco to boost one of Senator Johnson's opponents for the presidency and incidentally to oppose Senator Johnson in the California primaries. As one of the legislative agents of the labor movement in California both before and after the 1911 elections, I wondered if any of the workers of our state could have so short a memory as to have services rendered the toilers of California by Senator Johnson during his term of office as governor, is it not a shame that anyone can forget the many humane laws enacted during the 1911 session of the legislature in the interest of the men, women and children of our state, who up to that time had received absolutely no consideration in the matter of legislation dealing with the social problem? Let me forget I would like to enumerate a few of the laws passed at that session: Initiative, referendum and recall; women suffrage, eight hour law for women, child labor legislation, employers' liability, industrial accident commission, weights and measures, safety legislation for electrical workers and a large number of general laws of interest to the toilers. "I am sure the railroad men of California will not forget that a full crew bill was passed at that session, as well as other legislation in their interest such as anti-black list and anti-spotters legislation, and this record was amplified by beneficial legislation in 1913 and 1915. "The people of California should unite behind Senator Johnson irrespective of class or creed, and give him the greatest majority they can record any man in the history of our state. He is deserving of the united support of California and with it will land the Republican nomination for the presidency."

Secession By Bavaria To Avoid Red Dominance Feared

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

MUNICH, April 24.—(Special Cable Dispatch)—If the radicalization of the Berlin government continues, the Bavarian government may choose to secede from the Reich. It is a separatist party, rather than a separatist party, but New Jersey intensively organized by the reactionary element of that state aided by representatives of the great vested interest in New York who are spending unheard of sums to make their machine there more perfect, will make the free expression of a preference a mere mockery.

"This situation as well understood and will aid, rather than detract from the sweeping impetus which has been given Senator Johnson's winning fight throughout the country.

the Berlin government to enforce the order of dissolution, given as a result of the entrance demands under the Versailles treaty. "South German, democratic long before the revolution of 1918 which overthrew kaiserism, is today the main bulwark in Germany against radicalism. Last year north German troops drove out the Bolshevik regime in Munich and other Bavarian towns upon the appeal of the Bavarian government. South German will do the same thing for north Germany in answer to a similar appeal. "The above constitutes the substance made to me today by Dr. Heim, in a conversation I had with the famous Bavarian leader.

Officials Selected for Hoover Meeting More than two hundred men and women of Alameda county have been named to serve as vice presidents at the mass meeting of Hoover forces in the theater of the municipal auditorium tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Speakers will include Captain T. C. Gregory of San Francisco, Professor Thomas H. Reed of the University of California, Walter Yarrow, secretary of the California Oil Workers; Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, of Pasadena, and Captain J. F. Lucy, president of the National Hoover Republican club.

JOHNSON PRAISED BY SEN. FLINT

Former U. S. Senator Frank P. Flint declared in a statement sent yesterday from Los Angeles that the remarkable change in the sentiment of the people of California toward the candidacy of Senator Johnson for President has been brought about principally by the sudden realization of Johnson's great popularity and standing with people in the East.

"It has been nothing less than a wonderful revelation, even to those of us in California who have known Senator Johnson so well and have followed his official and political activities so closely," he says. "The movement really began right after the result of the primary election in Michigan became known here. It was sudden and certain. Thousands of Californians, with their pride in California renewed and stimulated by the news from Michigan, and their interest in California's favorite son aroused to a high pitch, signified their intention of supporting Johnson at the presidential primary election on May 4, who had not previously stated their position, and who had, perhaps, not taken any great interest in the outcome of that election previously. Among them were many Democrats, and large numbers of so-called old-line Republicans.

"Then came the added testimony of forty-five thousand men and women who wrote in Senator Johnson's name in Illinois, and now come the returns from Nebraska and Montana.

"In view of this great movement I look for California to give Hiram Johnson a greater majority on May 4 than he has ever before received in California."

100,000,000 Feet of Timber for Sale

PORTLAND, Ore., April 24.—First steps in the government's program for adding the paper pulp industry by making available supplies of timber in the Alaska forests were taken today when the Portland district forest service advertised for bids for 100,000,000 feet of timber on 10,000 acres in the Tongass national forest. By sale of this timber, which is suitable for paper purposes, the government hopes to establish resources that will prevent recurrence of the present paper famine.

Falling Meteor Rocks Buildings; Scares Farmers

(By United Press) RIVERSIDE, Cal., April 24.—A meteor falling near here about 7:30 o'clock last night, lighted up the eastern part of Riverside county and shook buildings when it fell. Passengers from Blythe on the California Southern had a clear vision of the fiery body as it dashed through the heavens from the northwest to the southeast. The meteor fell on Granite Mountain, a few miles out of Blythe. The people of the valley became alarmed, believing that an earthquake had been followed by the breaking out of a volcano crater on the Granite Hills.

MEXICAN BANDIT VICTIM'S WIDOW VISITING HERE

Mrs. August Morrill, whose husband, a United States vice-consul at Colima, Mexico, was murdered two months ago by Mexican bandits, has arrived at San Lorenzo, to visit her daughter, Mrs. C. S. King. Mrs. Morrill says her husband was killed while endeavoring to kidnap him and hold him for ransom.

Colima is near the west coast of Mexico and is in the center of the present disturbance that has resulted in United States sending warships as a protection for the Americans who are there.

Tiajuana Talk Too Much for City Clerk

A Spanish interpreter is needed in the office of City Clerk Cummings following the receipt of a puzzle through the mails yesterday from Chief Deputy Frank Merritt, who is in San Diego at a Native Sons convention.

The following mysterious message is scrawled on a postcard: "Era a Tia Juana, hoy. No tengo dinero pero solo mis vestides. Beto multas-bueno Trakajo Lunes. Otherwise I'm O. K."

The deputies and stenographers in the office got their heads together and finally figured out that the message had something to do with that haven of the thirsty, Tia Juana, and with money. Otherwise they're all at sea, but they gather that Frank is having a bully good time.

YOSEMITE LODGE TO OPEN MAY 1

With the arrival of an excursion party, made up of Eastern tourists who have been wintering in California, numbering 200 persons, the Yosemite National Park Company, of which A. B. C. Dohrmann of San Francisco is president, will formally open Yosemite lodge May 1. For the first time in the history of Yosemite National Park it served as a winter resort, which now puts it in a class with other California resorts, where the season extends from January 1 to December 31.

Yosemite Lodge, which is made up of rustic cabins and canvas cottages, facing Yosemite Falls, will henceforth become an all-year-round unit of the Yosemite National Park Company, operating in conjunction with the Sentinel Hotel and its cottage system. An intensive publicity campaign throughout the East is planned to attract tourist traffic to Yosemite, which up to this year was regarded merely as a summer playground.

In rapid succession, as the snow will permit, the Yosemite National Park Company will open the Glacier Point Hotel, Camp in the Big Trees and resorts at Tenaya Lake and other high Sierra points.

Oakland Exporter to Invade Orient

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Blythe H. Henderson, exporter and importer of Oakland, sailed for the China Mail steamship for Japan where he will establish agencies and then proceed to China where other branches will be installed.

Henderson said that recently the Orient is beginning to realize that Oakland is to be reckoned with as the coming industrial center of the bay cities and he will assist in persuading the Oriental merchants to do more of their business at the port where freight is handled direct between ship and cars without resorting to a bay transfer on barges.

"The Strange Boarder" Held To Be Successor To "Jubilo"

WILL ROGERS, who appears in "The Strange Boarder" at the American commencing this afternoon.

"They Said I Couldn't Do It," Says Star. "But I Thought a Bit—and Then Put It Over."

"Jubilo" broke all records, not only as a film attraction from the box office viewpoint, but as an instance of the best in "natural" drama. Now comes Will Rogers, who starred in the unique play, and claims to have broken his own record. This is "The Strange Boarder" at the American. It is a story with Will Rogers as a lovable, simple, human character in a boarding house full of thieves; a detective, a plot, and a romance. There are laughs and heart-throbs, and some of the characters who played with him in "Jubilo." It opens at the American today.

On the same bill will be Mary Mc-Laren in "The Road to Divorce," a charming little romance with a very charming star. Advertisement.

150-Mile Gun Maker Receives Decoration

LONDON, April 24.—London is taking a grimly humorous view of the fact that M. Delamare, inventor of the 150-mile gun, has been decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor, on "recommendation of the Minister of Health." The gun would make it possible for London to be laid waste from Paris.

How Present Methods of Living Sap the Iron From the Blood--- Causing Weak Nerves and Lack of Physical Strength

Alarming Increase in Iron Deficiency Among Men and Women of Today Leads Physicians Below to Explain Why They Now Prescribe Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—to Help Build Up Weak, Nervous, Run-Down People by Giving Them More

RED BLOOD STRENGTH, AND ENDURANCE
Nuxated Iron is Now Being Used by Over
3,000,000 People Annually

That the nervous and physical strain of present day life has produced as never before an alarming deficiency of iron in the blood is the belief of Dr. T. Alphonsus Wallace, physician of many years' experience and formerly of the British Naval Medical Service, who explains below why iron is absolutely essential to the greatest development of physical and mental power.

Dr. Wallace says: "In every age since the beginning of time people have fallen into certain modes of living harmful to their physical welfare and it has remained in such cases for a cure. Need, says Dr. Science, is to provide means that would help build renewed health and strength. Among the ancients coarse foods and outdoor life helped make rich, red blood to replenish the wasted forces and preserve high standards of health. But this opportunity for building up health is not open to thousands of men and women in civil life today whose wearing toils and iron impoverished foods sap their energy and vitality and make them weak, anemic, and all run down and often cause their blood to exude strange fat want of iron.

"Unless strength-giving iron can be obtained from the foods we eat it must be supplied in some form that is easily absorbed and assimilated and for this purpose I always prescribe organic iron which I have used with that I am absolutely convinced of its effectiveness for helping to build red blood, strength and endurance."

Dr. H. E. Vail, formerly physician in the Baltimore Hospital and a Medical Examiner, says: "Throughout my experience on Hospital Staffs and as a Medical Examiner, I have been astonished at the number of patients who have doctored vain-organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and surprised patients at the rapidity with which the weakness and general debility was relieved by a vitality. I took Nuxated Iron myself to build up new after a serious case of nervous exhaustion. The effects were apparent after a few days and within three weeks it had virtually restituted my whole system and made me in a superb physical condition."

No matter what other tonics or iron physicians. Unlike the other "bureau iron" products, it is easily assimilated and does not cause constipation, indigestion, headache or turer's name, "Nuxated Iron Co., Inc.," is stamped on the reverse of each tablet.

Manufacturers' Note—Nuxated Iron, which is recommended here, is not a secret remedy.

21 MOTHERS, 16 FATHERS LEAVE HOME

DETROIT, Mich. April 24.—Mother love, ordinarily regarded as the supreme symbol of constancy, proved to be a poor second to father love in Detroit during the last three months. According to figures given out by the St. Vincent de Paul Society, in that period twenty-one mothers ran away from home and left their children in the hands of fathers deserted in the same period. James Fitzgerald, secretary of the society, points out that although laws against wife desertion are considered entirely too lax, machinery can be set in motion to bring a deserting husband back in some cases. But he says there is nothing in the statutes to make a mother liable except in cases where infants are abandoned.

"The result seems to be," Fitzgerald declared, "that social workers generally view this new tendency on the part of mothers with a great deal of alarm. It is bad enough when a man forgets his duty and leaves his family in distress, but when a mother forgoes her duty and her instinctive desire to protect her young, what can society do so far as money goes, the children so deserted can be fed and clothed. But there is no substitute in the world for motherhood, and no effort which we can make to obtain a substitute ever really fills the bill."

In one case a mother deserted three children, leaving them in the hands of a family boarder. The husband was buying a house on contract and the wife's chief source of dissatisfaction was that she was obliged to care for one of the children who is paralyzed. Through free medical aid, the boy is now able to walk. The mother took with her the two-year-old baby, $100 and considerable of the house furnishings.

A large proportion of desertions are among young couples. A 24-year-old wife whose husband came here from Cleveland five months ago and is earning 60 cents an hour, ran away March 19, leaving a baby, less than a year old. An Italian wife who came to Detroit from Paris, France six years ago ran away in November leaving two children behind.

Wives Upheld for Making Men Cook

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., April 24.—It is not ground for divorce for a wife to make her husband cook his own breakfast.

Judge Alfred C. Lockwood, who presides over the Superior Court of Cochise county, has ruled to that effect.

"Did you ever have to cook your own meals?" an attorney asked an unhappy husband who sought divorce.

"Yes, I often cooked my own breakfast," was the answer.

"Then," Judge Lockwood said, "a man has to do that."

Marysville Overall Club Growing Fast

MARYSVILLE, Cal., April 24.—The Overall Club of Marysville was launched here by county officials early this week.

Sheriff C. J. McCoy needed a new suit. Seventy-five dollars, said one dealer. "This looks like a $25.00 suit you showed me before the war," said McCoy.

"It is the same suit and cost us $14.60 at that time. But if we had to buy it now it would cost $69," replied the dealer.

"Guess I'll join the overall club too," remarked McCoy as he passed through the door empty handed.

L. B. Cook, organizer of the club, reports all county officials enrolled.

Use Coquetry in Sales, Says College Professor

CHICAGO, April 24.—Salesmen, when approaching difficult customers, pause and consider the methods your wife employed to bring you to the altar. The armed with philosophy of salesmanship that cannot fail, take the prospect's order for a couple of million dollars worth of goods.

That, at least, is what Professor Frank Dignon head of the department of letters at La Salle Extension University declared in an address here.

"Coquetry in sales letters and the use of a subtle artifice that women have learned to use so successfully will bring home the bacon," he said.

"HARD CIDER" IS PROBLEM FOR DRY EXPERTS

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—J. R. Dodson has been held to the Federal grand jury, charged with violating the prohibition laws. Dodson is accused of setting cider containing more alcohol than the Eighteenth Amendment permits.

"It was sweet when I sold it," says Dodson. "How could I prevent it from getting 'hard'?"

Wants Marriage Ban Published at Large

LONDON, April 24.—Publication of the marriage bans is no bar on bigamy, says Sir F. A. Bosanquet, who advocated changing Britain's marriage laws so that all parties affected by an intended marriage would be properly notified.

If our marriage laws were so amended," said Bosanquet, "as to require a really public notice which would reach those most nearly connected with the parties a reasonable time before a marriage, there would be fewer undesirable and imprudent marriages and still fewer bigamies."

The law now requires posting the names of would-be-weds in a registry office three weeks prior to the ceremony.

Mexico Now Facing Shortage of Labor

MEXICO CITY, April 24.—Lucrative pay which is offered in the United States has attracted Mexican laborers across the border in such numbers that Mexico herself now faces a critical shortage in labor supply.

Farmers who have arrived in the capital recently from the central districts of Mexico declare that unless more farm workmen are obtained the harvest of wheat and corn will be a total loss this year. Every day, it is declared, Mexicans are crossing the northern boundary to accept the more comfortable, more remunerative life on American ranches, or even in railroad work.

GRACE TEA RANDY UNCLE TOM RANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually. Says a well-known druggist here, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Advertisement.

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 24.—For the first time in the history of the University of Vermont women are to be admitted to the medical college next fall. The announcement was made by Dean Henry C. Tinkham and acting-President Guy W. Bailey.

130 POUNDS WHIP 230

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., April 24.—Two wallpops do not make a divorce. Judge Ford of the circuit court held in refusing Joseph Grantham's plea for separation from his wife on the grounds of extreme and repeated cruelty. Grantham weighs 230 pounds and his wife 130. Grantham proved he received the wallpops.

CARD PARTY PLANNED

BERKELEY, April 24.—To raise funds for a scholarship in the University of California that women graduates are maintaining, a card party will be given at 2:30 o'clock next Friday afternoon at the Alpha Xi Delta Sorority house, 2739 Bancroft way, by the Bay Cities' Alumnae Pan-Hellenic Society.

MARRIAGE LAW ALTERED

STOCKHOLM, April 24.—The Riksdag has passed a bill permitting Swedish princesses to marry outside the ranks of royalty. The measure, amending the old royal marriage laws, merely stipulates that no marriage shall be allowed without the knowledge and consent of the king.

AGED PAIR DIE SAME DAY

SMITH CENTRE, Kan., April 24.—Death claimed Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pheasant, each aged eighty-six, within twenty-four hours of each other. The couple had been married sixty-two years and reared a large family.

URGES MORE AID FOR CHILDREN

BERKELEY, April 23.—Revision of California laws to provide scholarships for widows' children 15 to 18 years old, is urged in the annual report of Miss Jeanette P. Shafer, general secretary of the Berkeley Charity Organization society.

The report was rendered yesterday at the thirteenth annual meeting of the directors of the society. Miss Shafer bases her plea for more concessions for the children of the widows on findings among charity cases the past year.

Under present laws, state and county assistance can be given widows for children up to the age of 17. Miss Shafer emphasizes the need for financial aid in putting

Berkeley Baptists Arrange for Dance

BERKELEY, April 23.—Detailed plans for a campaign to raise $70,000, as Berkeley's share of the $100,000 needed by the Northern Baptists were arranged last night at a meeting of the First Baptist church.

C. A. Cross was chosen campaign manager with the following captains: C. M. Hill, C. R. Graham, J. E. Trenery, J. W. Porter, H. L. Caldwell, W. A. Wann, George Collins, Randolph Martin, W. I. Thompson and Mrs. L. Dawson.

Frank M. Spoonover, San Francisco realty dealer, with residence in Berkeley, was unanimously re-elected president of the society at the annual meeting. Other officers chosen are Mrs. Almerice Coxhead, secretary, and John D. Galloway, treasurer. Miss Shafer retains her office as general secretary.

ALAMEDA WINS DRAMATIC PRIZE

BERKELEY, April 24.—Richard Onions, an Alameda high school boy, and Elsie Matthews of Hollywood high school carried off first honors in the second annual Shakespearean contest for high school students of California today in the Greek theater under the direction of the music and dramatic committee of the University of California.

A boy and girl participant from each of forty high schools in the state took part in the contest, for which a preliminary match was held in the morning in California hall. Among the ten boys and ten girls who were chosen in the final contest in the amphitheater the following were declared prize winners:

Boys—First prize, Richard Onions, Alameda high school; second prize, R. Carroll Nye, Covina high school; third prize, Lucien Self, Oakland high school; honorable mention, Frederick Cassidy, Polytechnic high school, San Francisco.

Girls—First prize, Elsie Matthews, Hollywood high school; second prize, Helen Whitney, University high school, Oakland; third prize, Helen Lewis, Berkeley high school; honorable mention, Edwin Osborn, Alameda high school.

The judges were Professor Samuel J. Hume, director of the Hearst Greek Theater; Charles D. Neumayer, associate professor of public speaking; Guy Montgomery, instructor in English and assistant dean of the summer session.

TRADE INTERESTS ASK PROTECTION

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Passage by Congress at this session of the act for Federal incorporation in China of American commercial and other interests in that country was urged in telegrams sent out today by the foreign trade committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce following a meeting in the Commercial Club at which the matter was discussed in detail.

A. R. Hager, chairman of the delegation from the American Chamber of Commerce in China to the Foreign Trade Convention in San Francisco, said:

"Where five years ago there were but twenty-five American firms in Shanghai there are now at least a hundred and twenty-five American firms."

"Three years ago there was but one American bank. Now there are six American banks. All of these American enterprises in China are a unit in favor of Federal incorporation laws for firms abroad."

Practically all supporters of the proposed legislation favor elastic laws which will permit practically complete control by the United States officials placed in charge of the Federal incorporation.

EASTERN TOWN ASKS BERKELEY FOR SNOW LAW

BERKELEY, April 23.—City Clerk Briggs received a request from City Clerk W. A. Minnick of Twin Falls, Idaho, for a copy of "Berkeley's snow ordinance."

Since this part of sunny California is as much separated from snow as an Eskimo is from a cannibal, the city authorities frankly admitted they were stumped for the first time in supplying the wants of eastern cities.

Almost a hundred requests from other communities have been received by City Clerk Briggs the past two years for copies of Berkeley laws. This is the first time an information seeker has been disappointed.

DENVER GETS BEET SUGAR AT 15 CENTS

LEASING WIRE TO TRIBUNE.
DENVER, April 24.—The nation's sweet tooth will be the most expensive sugar filling in history this year, beet sugar refiners here stated today, predicting soaring prices as a result of a world-wide shortage.

This city and most of Colorado, however, is enjoying probably the lowest retail sugar price in the country—15 cents a pound for beet sugar—in consequence of government watchfulness against profiteering and a readiness on the part of Colorado refiners to conserve supplies for local needs. Manufacture of sugar from beets of the last crop cost not to exceed seven cents a pound, according to one Denver refiner.

"The sugar market is terrible and is going to get worse," said J. E. Bundick, sales manager of the American Beet Sugar company. "There's no relief in sight until next fall when the new crop comes in."

The Great Western Beet Sugar company is today selling sugar here in 100 pound bags for $12.81. The beet sugar retailer here is for $12.82. The retailer sells it over the counter in from one to ten pounds for 15 cents a pound, but to discourage hoarding asks $15 for a bulk, 500 pound bag.

PRICE MAY ADVANCE.
The hundred weight price may be advanced soon, and retailers also complain their margin is too small on pound sales. The refiner is refusing to sell Colorado jobbers all they demand, thus conserving the supply and preventing the sugar from being grabbed up by speculators.

United States District Attorney Harold T. Dedrow, stated one dealer might buy a bag or two of sugar wherever he could obtain it and shipping carloads east.

The Holly Sugar corporation and the American Beet Sugar company say they have disposed of contracts of all their surplus beyond surely enough to supply local needs.

Record sugar beet acreage is being this season following a $2 advance per ton in the price refiners will pay for the beets.

Socialists Didn't Clear Shirts, Speaker Says

ALBANY, N. Y., April 24.—In addressing the assembly here today, Speaker Sweet referred to the action of that House in connection with the ousting of the five Socialists.

"There never was a moment during the period the Socialist organization was on trial before the judiciary when I did not make it plain to all clear that my clients and my party were endeavoring by so-called peaceful means to obtain the overthrow of our present government."

NAME 'BAYER' ON GENUINE ASPIRIN

For Toothache, Neuralgia, Pain, Colds, Headache!

You want relief—quickly and safely! Then insist on Bayer Tablets of Aspirin, stamped with the "Bayer Cross."

The name "Bayer" means you are getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years and proved safe by millions of people.

For a few cents you can get a handy tin box of genuine "Bayer" tablets of Aspirin, containing whole tablets. Druggists also sell "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacturing of Monacocaducator of Salsolacid.—Advertisement.

Glimpse of the grammar school track meets, in which 10,000 Oakland school children participated at Buskrod park yesterday. The upper picture shows the final heat in the 70-pound relay that won the morning meet for Franklin school, and the others are scenes at parade preceding p. m. meet.

Germans Will Be Bidden to Early Parley of Allies

(By Universal Service)
SAN REMO, April 24. (Special Cable Dispatch.) In the capital of Belgium, a representative of the German republic will for the first time meet the allied statesmen on an equal footing, if a plan broached at today's session of the supreme council is carried out.

Brussels will be the scene of the conference of the powers in the near future, and it is proposed to invite Germany to send a representative to outline exactly how she means to fulfill the reparation clauses of the Versailles treaty. It is expected Chancellor Mueller will personally undertake this task, he is premier being equal in rank to Lloyd George, Millerand and Nitti.

G. O. P. LEADERS RUNNING CLOSE

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASING WIRE TO TRIBUNE.
NEW YORK, April 24.—The race for the Republican presidential nomination has tightened up until the three candidates now leading are practically on an even keel.

The standing to date on the basis of instructed delegates is: Major General Leonard Wood, 78; Governor Hiram Johnson, 73; Senator Herbert Hoover, 33; Senator Robert Owen, 28; Senator Gilbert Hitchcock, 19; William J. Bryan, 10; and Charles McNary, 8.

Meantime the Democratic situation has shown no indications of becoming clarified. Instructed delegates are evenly divided between the two candidates.

Herbert Hoover, 33; Senator Robert Owen, 28; Senator Gilbert Hitchcock, 19; William J. Bryan, 10; and Charles McNary, 8.

Jugo-Slavia Swept by Reds; Dynasty Totters

BY Universal Service.
BELGRADE, April 24.—A Communist wave is sweeping over the kingdom of Jugo-Slavia and the Karageorgevitch dynasty is tottering. Overthrow of Prince Alexander, the regent, and establishment of a soviet republic are the chief aims of the strikers, who have almost completely tied up this capital. Transport is paralyzed, and only one newspaper, the Communist organ, is being published.

BY UNITED PRESS.
LEASING WIRE TO TRIBUNE.
DUBLIN, April 24.—Political prisoners in Wormwood Scrubbs prison have decided to go on a hunger strike beginning tomorrow unless they are released unconditionally. It was understood here today.

TO MEET AFTER 62 YEARS.
CHICAGO, April 24.—Two brothers will meet for the first time in 62 years here next week, when George Payne, 84, Waterloo, Iowa, astronomer and poet, calls on his brother, B. M. Payne, 72, a city accountant.

$15,000,000,000 For Luxuries in Year Is Estimate

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 24.—The American public will spend $15,000,000,000 this year for unnecessary luxuries, David B. Houston, secretary of the treasury, estimated today in condemning "riotous, extravagant conditions."

"If the public would spend this money for government securities, it would go a long way toward paying the national debt," Houston declared.

Taft Says He'll Not Run to Save Treasury

CHICAGO, April 24.—William Howard Taft, former president, has eliminated himself definitely from the Republican presidential race, according to a letter written by him to David Harriott, retired newspaper publisher, announced here tonight.

Taft's letter was in answer to an appeal from Harriott to enter the Republican presidential race in support of the peace treaty.

The letter to Harriott, which was sent from Augusta, Ga., reads as follows:

"I have yours of March 20 and am glad to know you feel as I do in respect to the treaty. Your suggestion of a remedy I value as a compliment but not as a possible solution. My attitude toward the treaty places such a proposal outside the ring of possibilities."

King George Writes to Former Kaiser

LONDON, April 24.—The first known post bellum communication of King George and the former Kaiser has just been made in connection with the marriage settlement of the late Duchess of Connaught, of which the late King Edward and Wilhelm II were co-trustees.

The duchess's children, Prince Arthur of Connaught and his two sisters are petitioning for the return of their father's property and King George has had to write to the erstwhile German emperor requesting him to appoint a trustee in Germany who can carry out the sale and wind up the trust.

Mines Hoisting Ore Under Soldier Guard

BUTTE, Mont., April 24.—Butte passed a quiet day under protection of federal troops on duty in the mines' strike today. The funeral of Hugh Hearn, shot Thursday at the Daily Bulletin office by a fellow miner, was attended by a thousand people, but there was no trouble. A few mines hoisted ore today and some men returned to work. Normal operations are predicted for Monday by Anaconda Copper Company officials.

Doctor, Suicide for Young Wife, Buried

WALSBERG, Colo., April 24. (By United Press.)—The body of Dr. K. L. Klock, 53, who killed himself to free his 19-year-old wife, who was his niece, was buried here today. Mrs. Katherine Klock, the widow, declared his ill health and fear that his advanced age would make her the family bread winner, drove him to take his life. Mrs. Klock will return to her parents in Kansas City, she declared.

Thirty Missionaries Depart for China

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Draper of Oakland have sailed on the China Mail steamship company's liner China for the Orient.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper are bound for the Straits Settlements where they will do missionary work for the next few years. The China carried more than thirty missionaries, all going to scatter Christian faith among the peoples of the Far East.

DAMN CASE DRAWS COURT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 24.—The damn bankruptcy case damned the stream of business in federal courts here on the China Mail steamship company's liner China for the Orient.

Mr. and Mrs. Draper are bound for the Straits Settlements where they will do missionary work for the next few years. The China carried more than thirty missionaries, all going to scatter Christian faith among the peoples of the Far East.

Many Records Broken In School Meet Ten Thousand Youngsters See Contests

The Franklin school of East Oakland won the first two track meets given by the Oakland Recreation Department at Buskrod park yesterday morning and afternoon. The Franklin school is the winner of the junior meet comprising a group of ten schools which have classes only up to the sixth grade.

The afternoon meet was won by the Franklin school, which defeated the other schools by a score of 100 to 0. The morning meet was won by the Franklin school, which defeated the other schools by a score of 100 to 0.

Ten thousand children saw the contests. Playground officials agreed that the most successful of the grammar school track meets yet given. Dressed in school colors, carrying pennants and banners, the mass of children presented a scene of youthful enthusiasm.

Particularly thrilling was the morning contest when Frick and Franklin schools passed each other alternately as the events of the meet were recorded. The two schools were tied when the 70-pound relay, the last event, was started. The relay was ended and Frick won by a point—but a Franklin had fallen in the race so the event was postponed.

In the repetition the Franklin school won out and the meet was snatched from the Frick school into the hands of the Franklin. The winning school, goes possession of a large loving cup for a year on which the name of the school is engraved with winners of previous years.

Both morning and afternoon meets were preceded by a parade of the students taking part in the track meets garbed in track suits adorned with the colors of the school and carrying school banners. Prizes were awarded to the schools making the best display in the parades. In the morning parade the Cleveland school was given the first prize and the Harrison school the second.

In the morning meet two of the records established in previous city track meets were broken. The students breaking records were awarded gold medals as special recognition for their achievements. With Shannon in the 55-pound running broad jump, 12 feet 6 1/2 inches. He is a student of the Frick school, Willard Henderson, a student of the Franklin school, bested the previous record in the 70-pound high jump by one inch in jumping 5 feet 10 inches.

MORNING RESULTS

Stutz "Short" Over, Wall Street Easier

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Stutz controversy which has been throwing sensations into Wall Street, appeared to be cleared tonight, following the agreement reached between brokers and Allan A. Ryan.

It was estimated by followers of financial news that Ryan stands to clear something over $2,000,000 as a result of his alleged action in cornering the short interest.

Turks in Anatolia Plan Organized Resistance to Domination of Outsiders

By SIR PERCIVAL PHILIPS,
Staff Correspondent of Universal Service.

ADALIA, Anatolia, April 24.—The whole of Anatolia seems to be infected from Mustafa Kemal's headquarters at Konia. Mustafa's emissaries have been touring the country preaching a revolt against the Allies and declaring that a carefully organized movement has every chance of success, as Europe is unable at this time to undertake a new and costly campaign in Asia Minor, and also pointing to the withdrawal of France from Marash as evidence of the results to be obtained by a rising on a greater scale. A colonel from Kemal's staff visited Adalia a few days ago and had secret interviews with influential Turks at the local club. He said the army was ready to fight for the integrity of Turkey and promised a coup at Constantinople within a month, as a result of which the provinces would be guaranteed liberation from European domination and the freedom of the capital would be secured. The propaganda is undoubtedly influencing the people.

I found the attitude of the Turks here one of thinly veiled hostility, while a number were openly offensive in the bazaars, in contrast to the natives of Marash, where a strong French colonial force, with machine guns and artillery, holds the port. The railway service to the interior is irregular and unsafe for foreigners. Armenians continue to flee to the coast by train and road, and there has been an exodus from Adana.

Jazz and Shimmy Banned After 10 P. M.

PASADENA, Cal., April 24.—Tourist devotees of terpsichore, or shimmying jazz music, will have to seek other diversion here on nights after May 1.

A drastic ordinance forbidding dancing or the playing of dance music between the hours of 10 p. m. and 1 a. m., recently adopted by the city commission, becomes effective on that date in Pasadena, one of the country's most popular tourist centers.

The new ordinance applies to halls or homes within twenty-five feet of any dwelling.

Any person playing a dance music record within twenty-five feet of a dwelling during the restricted hours could be arrested.

DEATH NEAR ON JOURNEY INTO DESERT

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Death Valley with all of its horrors and phantom scenery lies in a can in the home of Milton Moore, 1849 Tamarrind street, Hollywood, who with Millard K. Wilson has returned from their nearly fatal trip. The can contains motion picture negatives of the burning sink which almost claimed the lives of the two men, and the memories of which still haunt them like a terrible nightmare.

"I'll never go back into that gruesome place again as long as I live," said Wilson.

Said Moore, who has fallen a victim to the lure of the valley, "I might go back some day—my wife coughed portentously, and he hastily added, 'perhaps.'"

"We might have both been out there now, along with the countless others, whose bones, bleached and white, are a common sight, but for the fact that we had been here."

"If two mules hadn't escaped their corral at the Furnace Creek ranch, and began to eat up all of the hay in the barn."

BOTH ARE OVERCOME

"It was early in the morning, and Denton, foreman of the ranch, came out to put them back in the corral, and found Milt and myself lying on the ground unconscious. Our machine had gone into the mud of the sink, thirty-eight miles down the valley, and we had finished a four day march afoot. We sighted the ranch on that morning, and were so thirsty and worn out, that when we saw the water running cool and fresh in the little stream we both fell in a faint. I guess it was the water, for we passed out the same time."

"And say," broke in Moore, "it sure was funny, come to think of it, when I first saw the ranch. I didn't hardly believe my own eyes, but I said to Milt: 'I can see palm trees and cottonwoods in the distance.'"

"Milt" laughed, and said, "you see he—! It's another one of those mirages we've been seeing all along."

After straining our eyes we decided they were right, and put off for the ranch. Denton said it we had been out until noon that day, he would have had sad news to send home."

Then they told of the way in which a prospector, who had persisted long ago, had indirectly saved their lives.

"The second day out from Johannesburg, we struck a sand storm. We stopped and got on the side of the machine until the fury of the storm went by."

"When things cleared up, we saw a pick sticking up in the sand not more than a few steps away. On investigation we found the bones of a man near the pick. We took the pick along with us. Later, we struck the crystal deposits of the sink, and broke our shovel in making a road for the machine, but with the aid of the prospector's pick, we made our way through."

"One of the weirdest and most gruesome sights was the poison well. A large rock rose abruptly out of a desert, and beneath it was a pool of water, and most tempting pool of water you ever saw. We were about to drink, and fill our canteens, when we noticed a human hand with the flesh partly hanging to the bones, pointing down into the water. Near it were some more bones, and a wooden sign which bore the legend, 'Beware, poison water.'"

"Gosh," said Wilson, with a shudder.

"Something worse," said Moore, "trying to rub the memories away, by stroking his head."

Mountaineers Have Big Families Corn "Likker" Believed Healthy

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 24 (By the Associated Press).—Engineers from here who have been in the coal and timber sections of the mountains in Mingo county bring back stories of prodigious families that are being raised in that section—families of such size that a Rooseveltian heart would swell with pride to know there was such a place.

There is one man on Hart's creek who has a total of 22 children to his credit. They are all of the sturdy mountain type peculiar to that section and in the best of health.

The children range downward from 24 years. The large family is equally divided between boys and girls and there is a large number of grandchildren scattered about over the mountains. The parents are both a little over fifty years of age.

This is not the only large family in that section of the state, though it is believed they are the largest of the many large families. It is not an uncommon thing to run into mountain families where there are from 12 to 20 children. Mountaineers and their families of that section are of the hardy, rugged type; usually healthy, they never deviate from the ways of living of the pioneers who entered the mountains years and years ago.

They live a simple life; most of them are deeply religious and care of each other in a most generous manner. Though willing to meet a stranger courteously, they will brook no "crooked" action on the part of those who come into their country.

State prohibition officials claim the Hart's Creek section is the greatest "moonshine" country in the state. Some believe that the corn "likker" manufactured by the mountaineers has a great deal to do with their healthy lives.

Finds Pay Lead and Zinc in His Back Yard

WEBB CITY, Mo., April 24.—As a result of the operations of Joseph Lewis at the rear of his home here, back yards are being turned into mining fields.

Lewis uncovered paying leads of both zinc and lead when he sunk an eighty-foot shaft in his yard. He is shipping ore regularly from the shaft.

I hate to get up I hate to get up I hate to get up in the Morning

Unless you are constitutionally lazy, there is a reason why the morning call is unwelcome. You, undoubtedly, are afflicted with some form of catarrh from which ninety-seven percent of the people suffer. Perhaps your stomach is deranged, liver sluggish, bowels irregular, catarrhal poisons in the blood, all of which tend to slow up the human machinery and bring on a condition we call Spring Fever. You need something to wake up and cleanse your entire system. By starting now, your health will be improved and you will be better able to resist disease and the enervating effects of hot weather to come.

PE-RU-NA WAKES UP THE BODY, DESTROYS CATARRHAL POISONS

For fifty years, Pe-ru-na has been the favorite Spring medicine among all classes. You, at once, notice its good effect upon the stomach and bowels. It helps nature throw off the poison accumulations of winter, and stimulates a normal, healthy action in every organ. Life giving nourishment, in the form of rich, pure blood, is carried to all the tissues. Raw and quivering nerves are soothed, the nerve centers revived and stimulated.

You will lose that listless, always tired feeling, and, instead, will realize a new vim and vigor, a punch and a push, a desire and ambition to be up and doing.

Clear away the health destroying, stagnating poisons and wastes of catarrh. Listen to the bugle. Begin taking Pe-ru-na today.

SERVICES TO
PLANS GROW

That the memory of the heroes who fell in France during the great war may be fittingly honored with those who gave their lives in the Civil and Spanish-American wars, citizens of Oakland will be asked to participate in one of the greatest memorial services ever to be held in the bay district next Decoration day, according to the announcement issued today by the general memorial committee, which is in charge of the services.

Preliminary plans were made and committees selected for the Decoration day services yesterday at a meeting of the committee in the Memorial hall of the City Hall. Representatives from the Grand Army of the Republic, the American Legion, United Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Women's Relief Corps of the G. A. R., and the Daughters of Veterans were present at the meeting.

CO-OPERATION SOUGHT

W. W. Saverell of Lyon Post, G. A. R., was chosen chairman of the committee and Harriet M. Clifford of the Wyman Circle No. 22, was elected secretary. Col. Ralph J. Faneuf was appointed grand marshal for Decoration day.

The committee will hold another meeting at 10 o'clock Friday morning, April 30, in the same hall. All patriotic organizations are asked to send representatives to this meeting and all citizens of Oakland are requested to pledge their support in making Decoration day one that will be remembered in Oakland.

COMMITTEES NAMED

The following committees were appointed:

Program committee: Carrie Hoyt, W. R. C.; J. C. Scott, G. A. R.; W. S. Dillier, G. A. R.; W. J. Hutchinson, War Veterans; George E. Price, American Legion; Agnes Evers, W. R. C.; Sadie S. Thompson, W. R. C.; Emma W. Hale, Wyman Circle No. 22; J. W. Crow, Lyon Post, G. A. R.; Rose Sturtevant, Lyon Post, G. A. R.; Ruth Ward, Daughters of Veterans; and O. McFarland, Spanish War Veterans.

Finance committee: J. R. Scupham, Porter Post, G. A. R.; Simon Peter, Appomattox Post; Mary Hughes, Lyon Post; George Hodgeman, Lookout Mountain Post; H. G. Lefferman, Aster Post, Foreign War Veterans.

Press committee: Martin Connor, American Legion; Charles Fuldner, Oakland Post No. 5, American Legion.

Music committee: Jack Asher, American Legion.

Transportation committee: W. W. Dornham, Lyon Post No. 8, G. A. R.; D. E. Brewer, Spanish War Veterans; W. S. Dillier, Appomattox Post No. 50, G. A. R.

Flowers committee: Daughters of Veterans.

Flag committee: H. A. Longfellow, Sons of Veterans.

New Ship Launched in Northern Yards

TACOM, Wash., April 24.—The Todd shipyard's twenty-first vessel, the 7500-ton steamer Panama, was launched at 7:45 a. m. today, and workmen at once began preparations for laying the keel of a third scout cruiser for the United States navy.

Baker Asks Soldiers to Write Mothers

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Secretary Baker today said that every officer and enlisted man of the army should write a letter home on Mothers' day, May 9, as an expression of the love and reverence we owe the mothers of our country.

ALL KINDS OF GLADSOME KIDDIES ENJOY
AUNT ELSIE PARTY AT AMERICAN THEATER

Program Composed of Dance, Song, Pictures and Music.

You should have seen it—World—that Aunt Elsie party at the American theater yesterday. The pictures were the best ever—and so were the entertainers! How those fairy girls could dance and sing! And then the audience—kiddies with faces aglowing and eyes fairly popping to take it all in. Rows and rows of 'em—every kiddie in town it seemed! And how they yelled and cheered and then, when community singing came—HOW they sang!

There were big kiddies and little kiddies there. But they all looked as alike as two peas—because way down in their hearts—THEY WERE GLAD.

This is the program arranged by Mrs. Turrell:

2—Edgar's Hamlet.

3—Willma Bradbury—Specialty dance.

4—Alberta Blair—“Freckles” and “Vanity” dance.

5—Dorothy Lossman—Girl in Yellow—Catching Fling dance.

6—Florrie May Tyrell and Baby Janice Scott—Band Box Novelty and dance.

7—A few minutes with Aunt Elsie.

Rich Widow Is Lost From Chicago Depot

CHICAGO, April 24.—Harry H. Kurrie, president of the Monon railroad company, went to Chief of Police Garrity today and asked him to begin search for Mrs. H. E. Higgins, a wealthy widow of Hutchinson, Minn., who arrived in Chicago yesterday morning and disappeared after taking a taxi cab from the Union station to the Kurrie home.

Mrs. Higgins carried a considerable sum of money and valuable jewelry. Mr. Kurrie is afraid that she may have met with foul play.

CONVALESCENT
BE GIVEN TRIP

One hundred convalescent veterans of the battlefields of France will be guests today of the Labor League of Ex-Servicemen, which has arranged for the men a trip in automobiles from the military hospital at Palo Alto to the Boy Scout camp in Diamond canyon.

Monte Maher, Oakland's blind soldier boy, will act as host. Luncheon will be served to the wounded men by the Girls' Division of Community Service. Plans are being made to make the luncheon similar to the parties for service men given frequently during the war.

After luncheon the program for the rest of the day will be “up to the boys.” A vote will be taken on several entertainment plans which will be proposed to the guests. The party will return in the late afternoon.

NOTE TELLS
IN GERMANY

Food that the entente is sending into Germany is being grabbed up by the big restaurants and hotels to sell at exorbitant prices to the rich while the poor go without. This is the statement which came last week from Mrs. Evelyn Trent Roy, Stanford graduate, who with her husband is touring Germany. Mr. and Mrs. Roy are touring the world on their honeymoon. They reached Germany a few weeks ago. Mrs. Roy is the author of a popular book, “Mexico and Her People.” She is a member of the Alpha Phi sorority. Her sister is Mrs. Helen Power of Piedmont.

The high cost of living in Germany has reached a crisis, Mrs. Roy writes. Even the entente may cut off the food supply should the people use the power of a general strike again. She writes: “It is either strike or starvation—work and starve or it remains to be seen which the Germans will do. While we congratulate ourselves on getting off much cheaper than we do at home, the middle class finds itself hard pressed to pay at all and the poor and working class go without.”

“There is nothing real in Germany. Eggs, butter, bread, milk, meat, sugar are all made out of substitutes. There are few vegetables, no potatoes, no fats, and if you can pay extravagantly—a slice of meat, a little rice and fruit. Most people eat one thin slice of meat once a week—the rest of the time vegetable soup.” Scarcity of practically everything and the political uncertainty which threatens upheaval at any time are Germany's tragedy, according to the California woman.

The fat, good natured German of the United States and pretty girls are obsolete, Mrs. Roy writes.

UPSETS ROOM

ANNISTON, Ala., April 24 (United Press).—“Here one of you women forgot your baby,” yelled Deputy Sheriff Newt Lindsey the other day just after adjournment of the circuit court.

The deputy's statement was correct. A woman witness in a case had forgot her baby and left it in the courtroom, the youngster yelling with loneliness as soon as everybody except the deputy sheriff had left the court.

Red-Haired Girl Leads

Los Angeles Bandits

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—A woman known to the police only as the “red haired girl bandit” leader of a band of burglars, early today directed four men in the robbery of a downtown clothing store. Clothing valued at $1500 was taken. The robbery was effected by a ladder from a second story window. A night watchman discovered the woman perched on the ladder as a “lookout” but he was not quick enough to prevent the robbers escaping in an automobile.

for Clothing Haul

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Overlooking $1000 in Liberty bonds burglars today ransacked the room of Bert de Vault of Fresno at the St. George hotel and stole several hundred dollars' worth of clothing and other valuables. The bonds were in a carton in de Vault's suitcase. After removing the contents of the suitcase, the robbers placed the carton on a shelf in the room with the bonds untouched.

NAVAL BASE
FURNISHED

Additional information as to the provisions of the naval appropriation bill under which the naval base is to be constructed on San Francisco bay is made available through the receipt of copies of the amended bill and the report of the Senate naval committee.

That the original appropriation for $1,000,000, recently favored by the Senate committee on naval affairs, is to be for the proper maintenance and care of the Pacific fleet, which consists of one-half of the navy, is stated in the report which reads:

“The committee deems it essential that adequate docking and repair facilities on the west coast be developed immediately and has recommended such additional appropriations in this bill as it believes will secure the desired action.”

The report was prepared by Chairman Page of the Senate committee. The measure is known as H. R. 13108, and was reported April 9 to the Senate with amendments. It makes plain that the matter of decision for the docking and repair plant, which is to be the start of the naval base, lies between the Alameda and Hunters Point sites, the text of the amendment reading:

“Toward the establishment of a docking and repair plant for capital ships in San Francisco bay, including the development thereof with necessary facilities, $1,000,000—provided, that the secretary of the navy shall appoint a naval board to advise and report to Congress as to which of the two sites, Alameda, California, or Hunters Point, California, shall be most advantageous for the government, and the estimated cost of each, said report to be made not later than October 1, 1920.”

OFFICIAL TO VISIT
Mrs. H. G. Tardy, president of the Second district, California Congress of Mothers, will be the guest of honor at the Monday meeting of the McClesney Parent-Teacher Association. The installation of officers will be a feature of the program. Mrs. Ward Campbell succeeds Mrs. Ira N. Allen as president.

WITNESS IS SOUGHT IN Tabor Murder Case
PAWPAW, Mich., April 24.—Search for Joseph Virgo, now the chief figure in the trial of Mrs. Sarah Tabor in connection with the death of her daughter, Maud Tabor Virgo, was redoubled today when a recess in the trial was taken until Monday in the hope of locating him and bringing him here to testify.

It was learned that Virgo left his home at South Bend, Ind., on learning that he was wanted as a witness at the trial and that he has not been seen since by anyone knowing him.

Mrs. Tabor, the aged defendant in the manslaughter case, was on the verge collapse when the edict “Get Virgo” was announced.

SIXTY-SEVEN NEW HOMES

In This Beautiful Residence Park Go On Sale Today

BROADMOOR HOMES, EACH A DISTINCT AND INDIVIDUAL DESIGN, ARE BUILT ON QUARTER AND HALF ACRE SITES

Different from any other, Broadmoor is one of the most highly developed residence parks close to the heart of the city. Every homesite is a quarter or half acre.

Situated on the eastern boundary line of Oakland, sheltered from cold winds—free from fog with pure balmy air. Broadmoor climate averages 5 degrees warmer than surrounding bay residential districts and has a uniform temperature the year round—a condition found nowhere else around San Francisco bay.

Beautiful and abundant shade trees dot the property. Winding 80-foot boulevards, costing over $100,000 and bordered with evergreen trees and flowering shrubs, give a charm to Broadmoor that affords an individual setting for each home.

At Broadmoor you get pure artesian water at half the city prices—and the taxes—ARE LOW. Less than one-third of those in the city.

A home in Broadmoor enjoys every advantage that could be possibly offered: Quick local transportation (20 minutes to 12th and Broadway), and transbay service (less than an hour to San Francisco via S. P. electric from Broadmoor station in the park); good building restrictions and splendid schools—High School a short walking distance and a new $45,000 grammar school on the property; nearness to shopping center, the finest type of street and development work; plenty of sunshine, invigorating climate and freedom from the congested city. At Broadmoor you are not crowded against your neighbor; a splendid environment and plenty of play area for the children.

Broadmoor is the Ideal Home Place—

“A Country Home in the City with All Conveniences”

THE PRICES RANGE FROM $4250 TO $5500

COME OUT TO BROADMOOR TODAY—AMONG THE BLOSSOMS, FLOWERS, SUNSHINE

Present rents make home buying in Broadmoor a real economy—and do you realize that you can have a half acre home in Broadmoor for the same price (or less) that a home on a small city lot would cost you?

Terms as low as $500 down—and the balance at $45 a month. These convenient payments may be had if desired—in fact you can take a period of 12 years in which to pay, if you wish.

Each home situated on a one-quarter acre or one-half acre site of the finest soil in Alameda county. Broadmoor was the Luther Burbank exhibit garden during the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in 1915.

The easiest ways to reach Broadmoor:

—From San Francisco take the S. P. Melrose train at the Ferry Building and get off at Melrose Station—take the East 14th Street car direct to our Broadmoor office.

—From Oakland take the East 14th Street car direct to our Broadmoor office, East 14th Street and Broadmoor Boulevard.
—Automobiles at your service if you telephone the office.

THE DARDANELLES.

As far as can be judged by the brief cable reports from the conference of the Allied premiers at San Remo, the principal European Allies—France, Italy and Great Britain—have reached an agreement as to the disposition of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus. This important commercial highway of the world is henceforth to be open to the free use of all nations.

According to the plans approved by the San Remo conference two international commissions are to regulate affairs in this quarter of the Byzantine peninsula. One commission will control and administer the waterway between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean and the other is to direct an Allied military force, to be maintained in the vicinity of Constantinople, for the preservation of peace and order, and to protect the European side of the strait against Turkish attacks.

This or a similar scheme is necessary to the giving of effective freedom to the Dardanelles. Five centuries of experience have demonstrated that no mere agreement with Turkey would suffice so long as Turkish sovereignty over this maritime highway was permitted. To dispossess the Turk of his civil dominion and then withdraw all military protection from the district would be equally futile. The decision of the Allies to maintain a military organization adequate to enforce its edicts is therefore both necessary and praiseworthy.

Opening of the Dardanelles will be a continuous ally in the history of civilization. It is to be something more than the mere readjustment of political and military and the facilitation of commercial intercourse. By giving to Russia the advantage of free communication with the world it will remove one of the age-old handicaps to Russian economic and intellectual progress.

Russia has needed more than anything else a maritime frontier. Trade and commerce are the greatest of civilizers. A country isolated from the rest of the world is inevitably backward. Considering her great expanse of territory and the bulk of her population, Russia has been practically isolated. Her North Sea ports, Archangel and the others, have been closed half the year by climate; her Black Sea ports by the Turk and the latter's former allies, England, France and Italy. Her maritime business has been pitifully small and very primitive.

With the great southern door open to the world, with the merchant ships of all nations journeying every day in the year to the southern ports with commodities to exchange for the immense store of raw material awaiting to be developed, the truly modern age of Russia will open. The Black Sea provinces will become industrious and will be stimulated thereby to intellectual development. They will become a new cultural center from which better influences will spread to the interior to lift up the peasant.

It is from this larger viewpoint that America should look upon the breaking of the artificial and vicious political barriers that have so long held Russia back, a landlocked nation strangled and subdued to medieval effort of mind and hand. In doing this it is necessary to regard the present reign of Bolshevik tyranny as only temporary, to maintain confidence that the Russian people will soon throw off their despoilers and oppressors.

ANOTHER DEFEATIST GUILTY.

Former Premier Caillaux of France was shown much mercy by the French senate, sitting as a high court, which tried him for disloyal activities during the war. He was let off with a sentence of three years' imprisonment, banishment for five years and loss of civil rights for ten years. The prison term has already been fulfilled by the incarceration pending trial. Thus Caillaux is to undergo henceforth only the mental punishment of knowing that he is adjudged unworthy the rights of a loyal French citizen.

To ninety-nine out of every one hundred Frenchmen this would be a crushing penalty, as harsh as death. But Caillaux must have been prepared for it. He could not have failed to foresee it as a probability when he conceived and launched his defeatist plot to end the war by a victorious peace for Germany. If he had drawn the death penalty he would have had no cause for disappointment.

Many other Frenchmen have been caught in the Caillaux trail. Bolo Pasha was executed, Senator Humbert was tried but not convicted and less known individuals were sent to the firing squad or to prison in France. Several of Caillaux's confederates in Italy have been brought to trial. In America the associates of Bolo Pasha and other agents of the Caillaux plot have drawn the opprobrium of being held in distrust and contempt by their fellow citizens. Some of these feign to be callous braggarts for the present, but the memory of their infamy will not pass as quickly as they think.

Altogether the defeatist plot has brought ruin to many of its actors, but in view of the danger it held for the Allied cause not to enough of them.

MR. JUSTICE MELVIN.

In the death of Mr. Justice Henry A. Melvin of the California Supreme Court the citizens of Alameda county have lost a distinguished citizen, one who had rendered them no small measure of service and to whom they could look with admiration and pride. He not only represented this county in the highest judicial position in the State; he also stood for the best in public service and civic righteousness, ever ready to perform his part in advancing the interest of his community.

Judge Melvin was a member of the editorial staff of THE TRIBUNE thirty-five years ago, and during this employment continued his study of law. Admitted to legal practice, his rise was rapid. After brief terms as police court prosecutor and police judge he became, in 1893, deputy district attorney. Subsequently he was elected to the superior court bench and in 1908 to the supreme court. While engaged in these public duties he, bound time, in his abundant industry, to act as professor of legal medicine in the Oakland College of Medicine, and to participate in many enterprises for the public welfare.

The manner in which Judge Melvin passed away is specially sad. But he had been seriously ill for several months, a fact known only to a limited circle of his friends. This illness forced him into idleness, a condition which weighed heavily upon his mind and made recovery doubly difficult.

Well may the whole State mourn for Judge Melvin. Among its useful and beloved personalities he stood at the top of the list. His friends were legion. His enemies, such few as he may have had, admired his honesty and frankness, his trustworthiness and his loyalty. In the courts and legal fraternity he was a power for knowledge and integrity, to which all others looked with confidence and respect.

ALASKA WANTS SQUARE DEAL.

The demand of Alaska for a square deal of the United States government which has appeared to be mainly interested in perpetuating jobs and influence was commented upon some time ago in THE TRIBUNE. It is a growing demand that is not to be downed and one which, unless given administrative attention, is destined to become more and more embarrassing.

Alaska's plight is due largely to its remoteness. There is little understanding of the situation in this country and the repeated appeals have been neglected for what appeared to be more pressing business. Then, too, those in office in the north are said to have exerted their powers of office to keep the state of affairs from being known.

It is said that sixty percent of the people in Alaska have abandoned their homes and sought new lands within the last ten years. The figures may be high but if the actual number is but one-sixth there is cause for action. Alaska asks that the bill introduced in the House by Representative Curry of California and in the Senate by Senator New be changed so that it will not only provide for a switch in local governors but will permit the people to elect their own governing board. Alaskans argue that executive appointment of these board members will be but a change of position and will not afford relief. They present the case as a desperate one and say that the feeling in the territory is becoming bitter and ominous.

In part this feeling is attributed to the fact that the law creating a legislative assembly for Alaska, and which promised a solution, was nullified by the inclusion of a forgotten statute which denied territories the right to pass laws. The assembly was made no more than a plaything and a feeling of relief became one of chagrin.

Alaska is pressing her demands right now with an almost desperate insistence. She asks for that investigation without which no accurate opinion as to the justice of her complaints may be formed. It would appear that the least she is entitled to is some such enquiry.

Contra Costa county vineyardists have been guaranteed $50 a ton for their grapes in the New York market with the privilege of sharing in any advance that may be made before September. Offers as high as $110 a ton have been made in the Lodi and other districts for table grapes. As a result of these prices a number of vineyardists are putting in evaporating plants.

"Why should a woman feel guilty after she has purchased a $75 suit when her husband comes rolling home in a $2,000 new automobile?" asked a woman at a recent club convention in Oakland. And why should a man feel the same when he rides home in the street car every night and explains that he has not yet ordered that $2,000 automobile?

NOTES and COMMENT

A very short time ago the idea of introducing wooden shoes in the United States as practical footwear would have been scoffed at. But now it doesn't look so impossible. After the overall fact it wouldn't seem incredible people should suddenly conclude that they could settle an economic question by clumping about in timber footwear. At the present price of lumber, however, the wooden shoe would not be economical.

The quotations of sugar are interesting. Before the war it was 4 1/2 cents a pound. As recently as January 1 of the present year it was 9 cents. On April 7 it was 15.3, and on the 23d the price was jumped to 20.3. These quotations are all wholesale. That the price will go to 25 to the ultimate consumer is not the surdity that some regarded it when the declaration was sprung a few weeks ago. The question that now arises is, What are we going to do about it?

A poor hop man is having just another such experience as the poor vineyardist, whom the whole State was commiserating a year ago on account of the eighteenth amendment. The poor vineyardist is contracting his grapes at about double the price he ever realized before, and now the poor hop man commands a dollar a pound for his product.

The first railroad to take the action that might have been expected is the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific. During the 24 months of government domination its property was not exactly wrecked, but the representation is that it was permitted to run down something scandalous. However, recovering money from the government on such a claim will probably not be an off-hand task.

An account of 24 women weighing 201 pounds each, making a concerted effort to reduce, is headed up, "Two and a Half Tons of Chicago Women Begin War on Fat." It may be the Chicago way to take its female census by the ton, but it isn't gallant.

Story of the homeless Berkeley policeman being selected by competition to guard a sorority house is at hand. Interferentially, the lack of public spirit is considered desirable for the safety of the charges. Just who infers it does not appear. It is safe to conclude the co-eds do not consider that their well-being depends on having a homey man around.

Gingham Club is the feminine for Overall Club, and truth compels the admission that it doesn't do such violence to the sense of appropriateness. Almost any woman can rightly wear gingham, but many men cut a figure when they get into overalls.

Mr. Root is for a weaker beer and a stronger League of Nations. W. L. W. then, that the Root beer idea will not be as popular as the Root league idea—Richmond News.

Looks somewhat as though there may be a purpose to erect bulwarks against a drop in the price of spuds in the West. Women are planting potatoes in the delta region. It would seem to require an elemental visitation of some sort to keep prices where they are now.

Just how they are going to keep the price of lumber up to the point to which it has been "kited" is not plain to the unblinking person. That well-known explanation about a failure of the gear crop is not likely to be accepted unanimously.

The strike slogan was "O. E. U. It stands for 'One Big Union' which is what the I. W. W. want—One Big I. W. W. Union. Railroad and other qualifying words would soon be left out once they succeeded in putting their effort over.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

That there is abundant interest in the proposal to drill strictly San Bernardino oil well in territory immediately adjacent to this city, was amply attested when, in response to the announcement in the Sun of such a possibility, many people called at the office of the Security Investment Company to voice their interest, to make inquiries, and some of them to say they would be willing to take stock in the venture. —San Bernardino Sun.

A sentence of five years in the county jail was expended over F. F. Petersen of the Rio Piedra district by Justice F. W. Bunnell late yesterday on condition that he keep his minor child in school the remainder of this term. Petersen was charged with keeping the child out of school, to which he pleaded guilty, promising to observe the regulations hereafter. —Bakersfield Californian.

While political campaigning is not likely to be refined into kid-glove nicety, yet the pitch-pots should be ruled out of political fights. Let the fight be earnest and spirited but without clean and fair. The people cannot be influenced in favor of any party or candidate by abuse of the opposing party or candidate.—Grass Valley Union.

A Bolshevik was in here last night and explained to us just exactly how the whole world ought to be run. We offered to bet him a new hat, which he needed, that he did not have enough saved up to bury him if he died tomorrow. He did not take the bet.—Richmond News.

Should we have another seasonable rain the much dreaded grasshopper pest will not materialize this year. The reason for this is that grasshoppers must have very dry conditions to thrive in, according to the statement of Earle Mills, county horticultural commissioner. —Oroville Register.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK

HOW SHOES ARE MADE

Shoes for the feet we took for granted until their higher prices made them weigh heavily on our minds.

A study of its making transforms the humble shoe into an epic of American ingenuity and skill, according to William Joseph Showalter, who writes to the National Geographic Society as follows:

There are four general types of footwear, according to the manner in which the soles are attached to the uppers. The leading type is the welt. It has a small strip of leather sewed fast, first to the upper, and then to the sole, so that upper and sole are not joined directly. Welt soles are used mainly in higher-grade men's and boys' shoes and in women's walking shoes.

"The McKay sewed shoe is the second type. In it the sole is sewed directly to the upper. The cheaper grades of stiff-soled sewed shoes are made by this method.

"The turned shoe is the third type. In it the sole is joined to the upper with the whole shoe made out, then turned inside out and the sole made in this fashion.

"The nailed, pegged or screwed-on sole represents the fourth type and goes with cheaper grades of shoes.

"As uppers leather comes into the factory it has the irregular outlines of a hide or skin, as indicated as the trigonometry through long process of calculations, but a machine has been invented that can calculate more areas in half a minute than a mathematician could in half a day.

"Fifty machines, a hundred people, and two hundred processes are employed in the making of a pair of shoes.

"In the linings department are big machines that cut uppers cloth, twenty to forty thicknesses at a clip, as easily as a cake-cutter cuts dough.

"Beyond is the uppers leather department. Here a trained man, with stubby-bladed, razor-edge knife, takes the skin, lays it on his cutting board, and, running his knife around his several aluminum patterns, cuts out vamp and quarter and toe pieces with accomplished art in getting the maximum of pieces out of the minimum of skins. When he has finished with a skin it looks like shapeless strings bordering a series of irregular holes.

"In cheaper grades of shoes the leather also is cut by 'dinking' machines—mechanical cake-cutters applied to shoemaking. Only one ply is cut at a time, but there are series of dies for the different parts.

"After the quarters, vamps, toe caps, etc., have been cut the leather must be 'skived,' so as to prevent any raw edges showing in the finished shoe. The edges are fed through a machine that shaves the unfinished side down to a bevel. This is then covered with cement and the thin edges folded over, much as a seamstress lays a hem.

"The linings go from the assembly room to be transferred from individual pieces into the canvas counterpart of the leather upper. The quarters are joined at the back and stayed with a reinforcement. The vamps are cemented into shape ready for inclusion in the finished upper.

"The tips go to the toe-cap room, where they are perforated at the edge to give them a pleasing appearance on the foot of the wearer. Fourteen different processes are required to transform a piece of tip leather into a finished cap, with its box to hold the shape of the shoe and canvas lining to protect the hose of the wearer.

"The joining of the quarters and vamp must be done with great care, so that there is neither unevenness nor roughness. It is the most difficult task in the making of the upper.

PERILS IN IMMIGRATION

In a cable dispatch from Edgar Ansel Mowrer, staff correspondent of The Daily News in Rome, comes information that should have particular interest for the federal immigration officials for the national immigration conference in Washington and for the congress of the United States. Never has the tide of emigration from Italy toward American shores been stronger, Mr. Mowrer reports. Thirteen thousand Italians left for America in January and 17,000 in February, while in March the passports of 29,000 more were vied at the American consulates. The rush to America is limited only by the capacity of the departing ships. However, of far more importance than the quantity of this emigration is its quality. Mr. Mowrer quotes the following very significant statement from a speech by Sig. Treves in the Italian chamber of deputies: "Emigration has again become a safety valve. The police would like to sweep out these people as quickly as possible while there are no restrictions."

There are, of course, restrictions in the American immigration law that would serve to protect the nation from criminals and similar undesirable such as foreign police usually seek to deport if these restrictions were applied with knowledge and intelligence. It is natural enough for Italy to wish to be rid of evil men, but the United States is not willing to accept them. Apparently there has been some connivance by Italian officials in this matter, for Mr. Mowrer reports that in numerous cases emigrants whose passports had not been vied at any American consulate because their papers revealed criminal records have reapplied later with new papers giving them clean records and have been regarded as an act of friendship and good faith on the part of the officials who furnished the false papers.

Undoubtedly the United States needs a moderate number of immigrants to fill the depleted ranks of labor in industry, on the farm and elsewhere. But it does not need foreign criminals or paupers from Italy or any other land. Such immigration and that is certainly he must carefully selected by American authorities, not by foreign, and always with a view to the possibilities of good citizenship in the immigrant. If we continue to accept what the countries of Europe seek to rid themselves of in their battle against radicalism, unemployment, pauperism and criminality there is danger that we shall become, as Mr. Mowrer suggests, a penal colony for foreign countries.—Chicago Daily News.

A CALL FOR WIDER ROADS.

A prominent engineer who has had much to do with highway development says that it will be necessary before long to widen county, state and national roads everywhere. Increase of automobile and truck traffic will require it, he says. He urges that much traveled routes between busy cities shall have their paving widened to at least forty feet, in order to give plenty of room for two streams of traffic going each way at the same time. He points out that in many sections the high ways carry more freight than the railroads.

One phase of this recommendation, at least, will have a universal appeal, without much regard to the actual amount of traffic. Most paved roads have so narrow a strip of paving that it is difficult for two automobiles or other vehicles to pass each other. One is often forced over the edge into deep mud, and at best there is an unnecessary amount of care and strain imposed on the drivers, to avoid each other. Only three or four additional feet would make an improvement in the usefulness of the paving out of all proportion to the additional cost.—Concord Monitor.

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

Bright's Disease—What It Is and Ways to Avoid It.

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSHBERG
A. B. M. A. M. D.
(Columbia Hospital University)

Bright's disease is the name of several maladies which inflame the kidneys. The ailments may have existed for months without discovery. Sometimes they have gone a long way in development before being noticed and have probably reached by that time the stage of incurability.

The malady may be acute; that is it is apt to come suddenly to plague you, and cause some unpleasant consequences. Perhaps there was a predisposition for the ailment left by some other disease. Maybe it is just lower vitality which culminated in Bright's disease. It comes, however, most commonly in a slow, sly, stealthy manner and you could not even imagine that anything was wrong until your regular examination by your doctor discovers it in time.

Bright's disease often follows from poor or interred skin conditions, a sudden stop of perspiration may swell and inflame the kidneys. The skin does not throw off waste matter efficiently, nor get nourishment from the outside air by proper aeration and sufficient cleansing the kidneys may suffer.

Residence in damp, dark quarters liable to interfere with the general health of the skin and bring on the malady. Repeated attacks of "colds" many times bring on Bright's disease. Insufficient nutrition is also a guilty agent. Worry without a let-up or exhaustion of the emotional fiber due to great excitement, may also be forebears of Bright's disease.

Physical overwork predisposes to the ailment, and persons in delicate health sometimes fall subject to it. Of all causes of Bright's disease infection and intemperance are perhaps the most common. This means excess of any kind, play, work, food or drink.

Bright's disease, if checked as soon as suspected, need not be dangerous. Congestion in the kidneys must be removed and the normal function restored. It is essential that the action of the heart be normal so that blood pressure may be lowered. Hence calmness and absence of all excitement should be the lot of the patient. Under these conditions the weakened kidneys can work under little or no strain.

The digestive apparatus must be kept in proper order. If this is recognized as an essential duty to the anatomy, whether its health or ailments, much care must be taken. Complications with other malady are thus made less possible.

Persons who suffer from Bright's disease should be very careful of their diets. Rich soups, meats and hot broths must be avoided. These only add to the congested condition of the kidneys.

Feed on bananas, potatoes and cheese have too much starch or protein, and cause the kidneys to work too hard. Because they bring too much of a certain kind of nutrition to the circulatory fluid. The result is further congestion of the kidneys. Malt, ice cream, bread, ice, sweets, tobacco and coffee have also their baneful influence on the digestive tract.

Milk soup with rice, paprika or vermicelli is a good form of diet. J. Vermorel is enough yet not too much nourishment.

Fresh white fish, raw oysters and clams are good food for persons who suffer from inflamed kidneys. Toast or stale bread, oatmeal, sugar, rice, cornmeal, hominy, and animal products are recommended form of diet.

All kinds of green vegetables are good for persons subject to Bright's disease. They should be boiled and eaten in abundance. Fresh fruit stewed or raw, prunes and jellies are to be considered as part of the diet. Plums, cold water, between meals acts as a cleanser. Hot water half an hour before meals, is equal to be recommended. Seltzer and milk used moderately as a drink are good for subjects of diabetes. Mineral waters also are highly recommended as a beverage. These act as cleansers to the alimentary tract.

INCREASE IN NEEDY LARGE IN BERKELEY

BERKELEY, April 24.—Where $32,472.53 was expended to care for needy residents during the year of 1918-19 more than twice that amount was necessary to meet calls for help during the year just being brought to a close.

In her annual report to the board of directors of the Berkeley Charity Organization Society, Miss Jeanette Schaeffer, the secretary, shows the sum of $71,251.34 expended for relief activities in the year 1919-20 as against $32,472.53 for the year 1918-19.

Representing funds received from the city and county governments and from other sources, the high cost of living and failure of wages to increase accordingly is held by Miss Schaeffer to be the dominant cause of the great growth in the number of charity cases while the death of bread-winners in the influenza epidemic aided in increasing the number of families seeking a whole or partial support from the charity organization, which represents in its scope all aid societies of the city.

Miss Schaeffer places the increase in expenditures for the past year at 31 per cent. Children, she says, make up the chief increase in dependents upon the bounty of the city and county. During the year 119 children have been under the care of the bureau, with 89 on April 1 of this year still looking to the organization for aid. Of these 11 are being boarded in foster homes, 1 in institutions, 7 in free homes for adoption, 6 boarded in own homes or with relatives and 13 with commitments held for legal control. Almost 400 pairs of shoes were provided, while hundreds of garments were supplied not only to children but to adults.

The largest hot springs in the world are at Thermopolis, Wyo.

'Old Home' Songs Are Rehearsed at Boy Scout Camp

Three hundred Oakland musicians of the Community Chorus, with their friends and relatives, made the hills about Diamond Canyon resound with music yesterday when they held a picnic and rehearsal of the "Old Home" song festival to be held at the auditorium next month. Songs which have held their places in the affections of the people for decades were sung, and in the evening after a picnic supper a campfire song festival was held, the Boy Scouts furnishing the camp fire. Special musical features were given by many campy singers, including the Rotary Club Quartette.

THE MEDDLER

Miss Adele Hopken entertained a number of her friends last Saturday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hopken of Tenth avenue, the evening being spent in dancing and later a supper served to the guests. The guests were the Misses Annette Krohn, Mary Van derloot, Jupe Plunkett, Doris Grove, Hannah Sorenson, Myrtle Oelander, Alice Black, Adele Lindira and Rose Hopken, and Messrs. Neal Plunkett, Bob Chapman, Bert Herford, Joe McCarthy, Gwinn James, Henry Gebe, Morris James, Lucard Hopken, Mr. Van derloot and Mrs. Krohn and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Huy.

The wedding of April 10 of Miss Adele Hopken to Mr. Jack Huy and John Garding Crafts, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Crafts, was an event of interest to many Eastbay folk, where both bride and groom are well known.

As a compliment to Mrs. Walter Tiscania of Chicago, who is here guest, Mrs. J. Arena entertained last week at a musical and art exhibition in her home in the Lake district.

Mrs. Arthur Giacomini has returned from Kansas City to join her husband here. For the time being they will be guests of the latter's parents.

Miss Barbara Souza of this city, is to become the bride of G. F. Little of Stockton. W. W. Terry will serve as best man and Mrs. E. R. Little will be matron of honor. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Southern California.

A birthday party was given for Miss Josephine Luis by her mother, Mrs. Isaac Gloria Luis, at her home in Washington avenue, San Leandro, recently.

Among the guests were Mrs. M. J. Gloria, Mrs. Mae Madura, Mrs. M. C. E. Freitas and the Misses Mabel Garcia, Madeline Duarte, Olympia Flossie Trombas, Leona Calhoun, Talma Encarnacion, Amalia Luis, Leonida De Gloria, Milie Enos and Josephine Luis.

Messrs. T. J. Cunha, Louis J. Praga, Raymond Hooley, Charles Nelson, Dr. A. N. Sweeney, Harold Williams, Rufus Trovantes, Louis Garcia, Lyle Foss, Myron Sherman, Isadore Madura.

Miss Luis will leave today for Los Angeles to spend a month with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Enos, formerly of San Leandro. Miss Luis will accompany her relatives back to San Leandro the latter part of next month.

The wedding of Arthur Baldwin and Elodia Blake was solemnized Thursday at 3 o'clock in Sacred Heart church, this city. Father Sampson officiating. Miss Mabel Larsen was bridesmaid and Edward Baldwin best man. The bride is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Berlin. The couple have left on a motor tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Vernon Perry gave a dinner dance at their home in Forty-first street last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Edna McCarthy, who leaves soon for Portland, Ore. Tomorrow evening Miss Dorothy Angelich will entertain for Miss McCarthy. The guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Strohm, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Klemm, Mrs. Fred Varney and the Misses Dorothy Angelich, Edna McCarthy and Vere Hanahan.

Messrs. Carol Smith, George Williams, Joseph Soto and Frank Ellis.

Miss Evelyn E. Collins has been visiting Mrs. C. A. Locan for whom the hostess entertained recently at her home in the Lake district. Miss Mary Collins shared the honors. Miss Collins has been a guest at the Stuart over the bay.

A jazz dance will be held Tuesday.

Drillers Find Gas
City Main Is Tapped

PITTSBURGH, April 24.—What promised to be one of the most unusual gas wells ever drilled in Pittsburgh proved to be only a "blowout." The drillers had sunk only six feet when they struck a kow of several hundred thousand cubic feet. Investigation soon showed that a main of the local gas company had been punctured.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid, which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood when you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended with a sensation of colding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used by generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so that no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

ARMY AND NAVY RAISE AGREED ON

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The House and Senate conferees today agreed on increased pay for the army, navy and marine corps. Enlisted men of the navy personnel are to receive an average increase of 23 per cent and those in the army 20 per cent. Ratios allowed to army men will practically equalize the pay of the two services, members said.

Increases will be granted officers up to the rank of colonel in the army and captain in the navy, but figures have not been agreed upon. All increases will date from January 1, 1922, and continue until June 30, 1922, it was agreed.

Boy's Prank Shooting With Rifle Puts Movies to Flight

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—A story of how members of a moving picture company screamed in terror, hurried to cover behind trees and finally fled in automobiles when a youth who fired twenty shots from a rifle brought their film scene to an abrupt halt, came to light when a suit for $5000 damages was filed in the superior court here by John J. Hayes against "X. Y." Bixby. The latter is said to be David Bixby, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bixby of Long Beach.

The complaint alleges that the boy "assaulted wantonly and maliciously the plaintiff and by firing bullets in close proximity to the plaintiff put him in fear and terror for his life and causing a nervous shock and great mental anguish."

The film actors assert bullets were striking mighty close to them, and Hayes is quoted by friends as having declared he was never so frightened when facing Hun shellfire in France. The film company had made arrangements with the caretaker at the place to stage a picture scene in front of the south entrance to the Bixby estate, one that is well known throughout Southern California. They had barely started to work when the youth appeared and began shooting.

Mobilized Women Fighting H. C. L.

BERKELEY, April 24.—The Mobilized Women's Organization, headed by Mrs. Lewis Hicks are doing their bit to sway the high cost of living for working women and foreign-born residents of the city, according to a statement issued today in an appeal for help for their work.

STAR STAGES INCORPORATE AS A COMPANY

Organization Will Own Equipment in Common and Will Issue Bonds to Buy More Stages for Their Routes

This Concern Has Been a "Co-operative Partnership" and Will Now Take Its Place With Regular Corporations

The Star auto stages, which has operated as a "co-operative" organization, is to incorporate. This auto stage association, which operates out of Oakland to various parts of the state, has been composed of individuals who owned their own stages and operated upon an agreed schedule. As the State Railroad Commission grows upon this arrangement it has been decided to incorporate and operate as a regular company. "Part of the members of the old co-operative partnership will keep their equipment and take over certain routes which they will operate as individuals, while the balance will form a regular corporation and operate as such. The details of the arrangements are announced by the State Railroad Commission as follows:

That the Star Auto Stage Association, a co-operative business organization operating auto lines throughout the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, the mining district and also in the bay territory, plans reorganization and incorporation is shown by an application filed today with the Railroad Commission in which authority is sought to transfer the operating permits held by the members of the association to the Star Auto Stages Company. Permit is also sought by the Star company to issue 1575 shares of stock to fourteen of its members in exchange for their cars, which are valued at $183,500. These cars are to be incorporated into the new company. It is also proposed to issue 500 shares of stock to provide funds for the purchase of new equipment and improvement of the company's stations and agencies.

As part of the reorganization plan the commission is asked to transfer the following operating permits held in the name of the association to the members who are not to form part of the new company:

- Modesto to Oakdale, to George Weisner.
- Modesto to Newman, to J. P. Smith and A. L. Parker.
- Modesto to Lathrop, to C. J. Chad.
- Stockton to Groveland, Stockton to Sonoma and Sonoma to Toulumne, to B. K. Young.
- Stockton to Angels, to Turner Little.
- Stockton to Jackson, to J. Smalley.
- Plumpton to Jackson, to M. H. McGary.
- Sacramento to Auburn, to C. J. McCall and T. Shaves.
- Sacramento to Placerville, to A. J. Richardson.
- Stockton to Walnut Grove, to E. M. Huston.

Following is a list of the members of the association who are to form the new company: Sanford, E. L. Hewitt, S. C. Bouch, G. W. Tattersall, J. Rutherford, Lambert, Brock, W. Irwin, C. L. Spickard, H. Buck, J. H. Maurer, Cal Crews, A. W. Hewitt and C. L. Thacker.

WIDE USE OF PURE GLYCERINE

There's a new bird on bonnets this spring. Or, rather, it is an old bird that is recreated through the combined efforts of chemist and milliner and milliner and chemist. It is a bird that is as graceful as the milliner, being quite smart, the girl who seeks a new hat now will select, say, a charming crown of straw, trimmed with long sprays of ostrich. The ostrich has been used for years as graceful as the milliner, being quite smart, the girl who seeks a new hat now will select, say, a charming crown of straw, trimmed with long sprays of ostrich. The ostrich has been used for years as graceful as the milliner, being quite smart, the girl who seeks a new hat now will select, say, a charming crown of straw, trimmed with long sprays of ostrich.

This is but one of many uses of glycerine. Where now some domestic girl is buying glycerine, she is realizing what made possible those terrible barrettes that ran for from twenty-four up to seventy-two hours. And now that the same girl that helped her the shell enabled the girls to fire rapidly and long, and has been used to alleviate pain in chapped hands, now makes possible a snappy trimming for that last girl's new turban.

Glycerine is a by-product of soap making. It is produced during the early stages of boiling the soap components, and it is refined highly before being marketed. During the war the Government required vast quantities of glycerine, and the Colgate factories supplied great amounts. This company supplies glycerine with glycerine which tests 3 per cent above the standard set in the U. S. Pharmacopeia, the legal guide book of the pharmacist who fills prescriptions when the family needs medicine.

SIXTY-SEVEN NEW HOMES COMPLETED IN BROADMOOR

Home Construction on a Large Scale Has Attracted Much Attention to This Tract

Broadmoor, one of Oakland's ideal residence parks, becomes the center attraction today to those who are looking for homes in the Eastbay district, where ideal climatic and splendid soil conditions meet the best of home surroundings. Sixty-seven new homes located in Broadmoor are today offered to a waiting public already rent ridden and landlอร์ด enticed, and it is not expected that this installment of homes will even meet the demand.

When it became evident some months ago that the demand for homes was going to continue, and that the way to resume building was to meet the demand, Broadmoor was already well built up, but there were still some choice lots left in a tract that has proved one of the most popular ever offered upon this side of the bay. So Broadmoor's owners undertook the final improvement of Broadmoor, and they began the construction of one lot of 67 homes, all conforming to the general standard set for the splendid suburban residence park that is so well known.

Work was prosecuted faithfully upon this large lot of new homes, and the open winter allowed much more rapid work than was originally anticipated. The entire sixty-seven homes are now completed, and are offered to the public. In making so large a construction contract the owners of the property were able to make very considerable saving in the purchase of building materials of all kinds, both lumber and hardware. But in the whole-side construction they did not sacrifice the high standard set for the residence park. The general planning and designing of these homes was placed in the hands of Omer P. Darling, who studied the exact location of each building with reference to the immediate neighboring houses. As every home is built upon not less than a quarter of an acre of ground, and from that up to half, or even whole acres, Mr. Darling was able to make the most artistic as well as practical arrangements.

As the climate of Broadmoor is one of its boasts, special attention was paid in the case of every one of these new homes to light and sunshine. With the large lots and free spaces between each house, the best results could be obtained, and from some angle during the entire day.

Broadmoor is already well known. It is understood how $100,000 was spent in the development of this tract, in boulevards of special width, and in the finest kind of shade and decorative trees. The Southern Pacific Company is building a new station on the property, which is the terminus of its suburban system to the south and east of Oakland. It is as easy to reach San Francisco from Broadmoor as from other tracts closer in, but with a change of cars to make for this trip.

Broadmoor being just at the boundaries of the city is exempt from the city tax rate and water rate. Water rates at Broadmoor are one-half the city rate and the tax rate is less than a third.

It was Broadmoor during the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915, that Luther Burbank selected for his exhibit garden, because of the fine quality of the soil and this explains today the abundant vegetation on this residential property.

It is as easy to reach San Francisco from Broadmoor as from other tracts closer in, but with a change of cars to make for this trip.

Broadmoor being just at the boundaries of the city is exempt from the city tax rate and water rate. Water rates at Broadmoor are one-half the city rate and the tax rate is less than a third.

It was Broadmoor during the Panama Pacific International Exposition in 1915, that Luther Burbank selected for his exhibit garden, because of the fine quality of the soil and this explains today the abundant vegetation on this residential property.

Home Construction on a Large Scale Has Attracted Much Attention to This Tract

Broadmoor, one of Oakland's ideal residence parks, becomes the center attraction today to those who are looking for homes in the Eastbay district, where ideal climatic and splendid soil conditions meet the best of home surroundings. Sixty-seven new homes located in Broadmoor are today offered to a waiting public already rent ridden and landlอร์ด enticed, and it is not expected that this installment of homes will even meet the demand.

When it became evident some months ago that the demand for homes was going to continue, and that the way to resume building was to meet the demand, Broadmoor was already well built up, but there were still some choice lots left in a tract that has proved one of the most popular ever offered upon this side of the bay. So Broadmoor's owners undertook the final improvement of Broadmoor, and they began the construction of one lot of 67 homes, all conforming to the general standard set for the splendid suburban residence park that is so well known.

Work was prosecuted faithfully upon this large lot of new homes, and the open winter allowed much more rapid work than was originally anticipated. The entire sixty-seven homes are now completed, and are offered to the public. In making so large a construction contract the owners of the property were able to make very considerable saving in the purchase of building materials of all kinds, both lumber and hardware. But in the whole-side construction they did not sacrifice the high standard set for the residence park. The general planning and designing of these homes was placed in the hands of Omer P. Darling, who studied the exact location of each building with reference to the immediate neighboring houses. As every home is built upon not less than a quarter of an acre of ground, and from that up to half, or even whole acres, Mr. Darling was able to make the most artistic as well as practical arrangements.

As the climate of Broadmoor is one of its boasts, special attention was paid in the case of every one of these new homes to light and sunshine. With the large lots and free spaces between each house, the best results could be obtained, and from some angle during the entire day.

Broadmoor is already well known. It is understood how $100,000 was spent in the development of this tract, in boulevards of special width, and in the finest kind of shade and decorative trees. The Southern Pacific Company is building a new station on the property, which is the terminus of its suburban system to the south and east of Oakland. It is as easy to reach San Francisco from Broadmoor as from other tracts closer in, but with a change of cars to make for this trip.

OAKLAND AS TIRE CENTER OF THE COAST

By HOMES IVES.

What peculiar virtue is there in the soil, climate or geography of the East bay that has made it a monopoly by that section of the automobile tire manufacturing business for that material employed in the manufacture of the tire is shipped through the San Francisco port to the eastern factories, and the tires are shipped back to the East bay by the same peculiar virtue of California cotton has brought it into great demand for the manufacture of the fabric and yet it is employed only in eastern factories. What is there to prevent the manufacture of tires here on the coast of at least the 12 per cent of the tire output used here?

Those are questions that revolved in the minds of a group of men experienced in the business with the result that the Pacific Coast Tire and Rubber Company, an Oakland enterprise, was launched.

The men interested in the Pacific Coast Tire and Rubber Company figured out that an automobile tire company making its goods on this coast ought to be able to have an advantage over the plant in the East, if it was only on the matter of freight rates. Very much of the raw material used in the making of automobile tires either originates on this coast or is imported through the port of San Francisco. Very much of the rubber is in this latter class, while Imperial valley cotton with its peculiar long staple is the choice material for the fabric.

An estimate made of the automobile tires used on this coast showed that if only 8 per cent of the tires used here were manufactured here that it would take a plant as large or larger than that proposed by the Pacific Coast Tire and Rubber Company. We drew a line fifty miles from the site that we have purchased in Oakland and our figures show that if we can sell just 8 per cent of the tires used in that district that we will run to capacity. In other words the field is right here and we can fill it and propose to do so.

There is no use in going into the arguments that are advanced for Oakland in general manufacturing. The conditions are absolutely the best in the United States. This, coupled with the fact that we can get our rubber and raw material right at our door, and that we have a field within a radius of fifty miles that ought to take care of our output, makes Oakland a natural tire manufacturing center—I might say THE natural tire manufacturing center of the coast.

The chief purpose in the founding of William and Mary college in Virginia was to educate the freedmen.

Big Concern Recognizes Oakland

One of the big eastern institutions that recognizes Oakland as the center of its California trade is the Fuller Brush Company of Hartford, Conn. The Fuller Brush Company has distributed California brushes into two parts, the north and the south, and the northern district is the "Oakland District." The Oakland District includes every thing north of Fresno and south of the Oregon state line.

The sales force of the Oakland District has recently been reorganized by W. H. Metcalf, the western manager of the company. Metcalf attended the general convention of the sales force of the Fuller Brush Company and at this convention he presented the future of the Pacific Coast branch of the company, and backed his statements up by so many facts and figures, that extensive reorganization and enlargement of the coast force was determined upon.

The San Francisco branch office has been placed in charge of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Greeninger, this being a special mark of recognition for the Fuller Brush Company's organization. E. B. Perkins takes charge of the Oakland office.

The Fuller Brush Company has been conducting a vigorous advertising campaign in the OAKLAND TRIBUNE which Mr. Metcalf says has been highly productive for the company.

WOULD 'SELL' OAKLAND TO EASTERNERS

Mel Anderson, junior member of the firm of Ballard & Anderson, accompanied by Fred McCauley of the same house, left Friday morning for Chicago and New York for the purpose of carrying the story of Oakland and the Eastbay district to the big houses with which the Oakland firm does business, particularly to "The House of Kuppenheimer," the great Chicago institution which Ballard & Anderson represents in Oakland. The two Oaklanders fortified themselves with a large amount of data from the Chamber of Commerce and with copies of THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL, for it is their intention to talk Oakland to several large eastern manufacturing concerns who now do business through San Francisco, or who send their traveling men only to the city across the bay. Ballard & Anderson is convinced of the importance of Oakland and their trading territory as an independent business center, and, being convinced themselves, they want to convince others. Fred McCauley is an experienced textile man, and designer, and he always places orders for original designs of his own, but it was to boost the stock of Oakland that Anderson went along.

"We are going to sell Oakland to our manufacturers," said Jim Ballard, the member of the firm who remained at home. "The firms that will be visited are already sold to us for we represent them in this city, but we want to sell Oakland to them. There is no reason why an eastern firm should send its men to San Francisco and have the Oakland merchant go over there to place his order, and there is no reason why the eastern firms should do their business in Oakland, through San Francisco. What we want is full recognition of Oakland, and that is why Anderson made the trip this year with McCauley. They took Oakland along as their main line of goods.

The earliest Roman coinage was that of the republic.

The Evolution of a Dollar

A DOLLAR spent in the purchase of a tire is well spent, but it is spent just the same. The same dollar invested in a tire security will bring constantly increasing returns. Look up the records of the most conservative Rubber and Tire Companies. Their dividends in money and stock have exceeded the greatest expectations. TIRES are the solution of many transportation and freight problems which have become less and less serious as motor transportation has been improved.

97% of the tires used in the United States are manufactured in the East. 12% of these are used on the Coast. The saving of interest on investment in Raw Rubber and Cotton Fabric in transit, the saving in freight to the East and on manufactured product to the West is sufficient to substantially add to dividends.

THE CAPITAL STOCK OF THE COAST TIRE AND RUBBER CO. consists of 50,000 shares of 8% participating preferred stock of a par value of $10.00 per share; and 50,000 shares of common stock of a par value of $10.00 per share. Both classes of stock are being sold and issued as fully paid and non-assessable.

MISS SERVICE TO GET BIG WELCOME

Miss Community Service, personified by a beautiful, accomplished woman, will make her initial appearance in the city Tuesday morning, at the city's needs and especially those of the neglected soldiers and sailors who fought for democracy.

Tuesday will mark the beginning of an intensive, ten-day battle by the Community Service in Oakland to prove to its population the value of the organization. The first day of the campaign will be devoted to the organization will be worked out in these days.

Following their campaign, Community Service today is entering the city's hospitals to visit the wounded soldiers and sailors who are being treated in the city's hospitals. The organization is represented by a group of women, including Miss Service, who will visit the wounded men.

Miss Community Service will be portrayed by Miss Rose, who has the same name as the organization. She is appearing with William Mack, in Oakland today. Miss Rose is the daughter of Emil Rose, Oakland violin teacher. Mr. Rose will be represented by an 18-year-old man with a fine war record.

Miss Service's arrival Tuesday will be impressive. She will be accompanied by a group of soldiers from the front and the 66th band from the Naval Training Station. Miss Community Service will arrive at 10 a. m. on a Key Route train, and first to Hotel Oakland. From there she will journey to the city hall and meet Mayor John L. Davis and other officials.

Forger, 11, Paroled; Grocer His Victim
ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 24 (by United Press).—Milton Jaeger, 11, declared by police to be St. Louis' youngest confessed forger, was released to his parents today.

Jaeger, according to authorities, passed a check on a grocer, who remembered a similar one that was had a few weeks ago. Other forged checks, which the police said the youth admitted writing, after saying his companions gave them to him to pass, were found in his pocket, it was asserted.

All Building Trades Stop in La Crosse
LA CROSSE, Wis., April 24.—All building tradesmen remaining at work were halted off of jobs today following a meeting of the Trades and Labor Council. This action was taken because of the refusal of the Master Builders Association to announce the names of members.

Building workers left six big jobs a week ago. The tieup of building operations here is complete today, 700 men being on strike.

Sugar Price Raise Reported in South
LOS ANGELES, April 24.—Retail sugar prices rose to 23 cents a pound here today, with 20 cents in sight for the near future, according to announcement of California and Hawaiian Sugar Company officials here today. The price to jobbers was announced by the concern at $2.50 a hundred. Refiners agreed today that the 25 cent figure would prove the peak of high prices.

Scotch Golf Specialist Imported Proposed Berkeley Links Praised

BERKELEY, April 24.—William Watson, golf expert of Scotland, has been brought from across the sea to develop the newest Eastbay golf course, to be situated in the Contra Costa hills on the recently acquired site of the Berkeley Country Club.

Arriving this week to begin his work, Watson has pronounced the Berkeley Country Club location one of the finest in the world, declaring that the course to be developed will probably surpass every other one of its kind in the state. Watson's advice is being paid for at $50 a day, and under his direction the exact location of the course will be decided, and other details arranged to prepare for immediate development of the Country Club project.

HOMES FOLLOW INDUSTRY WAKE

East Oakland in and beyond the Melrose district will be essentially a section of attractive homes despite its promise of becoming the throbbing industrial center of the city, Oakland real estate dealers believe, as a result of the continued popularity of the various tracts in that locality.

A number of inquiries were received by the Layman Real Estate company, according to Will J. Layman, on homesites in Key Route Melrose district, he says, the direct influence being the work done last week of the purchase of a seventy-three acre aviation field by the Durant interests.

Layman has plans for the immediate construction of 100 bungalows in Key Route Acres, some of the homes having been already sold from specifications.

Oakland to Rival Rose Festival of Portland in Great Spring Flower Show

Because of the lateness of the season the Spring Flower Show originally planned to open today in the Hotel Oakland has been postponed to May 16, 17 and 18, by holding the show three weeks later the Alameda County Floral society, under whose auspices the coming flower show is to be held, expects to have many more entries and a much more exhibit than it had been held at.

Floral society members are popularly of east and west, and announces that three of the ten bungalows which he took over on Sixty-seventh avenue have already been sold. The structures are six to eight rooms, with a full bath, and are the most popular of those tracts, have enjoyed corresponding prosperity, according to Sales Manager D. Langhorne of the Henderson Real Estate company, agents for the tracts. The company is about to launch an enlarged construction program.

County Treasurer Is Sued for $30,000

SALINAS, Cal., April 24.—Charging defamation of character against County Treasurer James T. Taylor, Ralph F. Roberts, assistant cashier of the Monterey bank, filed suit here today for $30,000. The complaint alleged that Taylor had defamed Roberts' character in the defense of others even before the recent prosecution, when the banker was charged with stealing $10,000 from the county. The charges in that case were dismissed.

LONDONERS ARISE EARLIER.
LONDON, April 24.—Londoners are rising earlier now than they did during the war, a prominent doctor tells the Daily Sketch. The ex-servicemen cannot forget the routine.

Among one of the most interesting of these showings will be the orchid display of J. A. Carlson of Berkeley, and residents of the Bay region who grow flowers, either as amateurs or professionals, are invited to exhibit. While the greater number of awards for exhibits are for amateurs, prizes are also given to professionals.

FOOD NEED POSTPONES SPECTACLE

(By United Press.)

OBERAMERGAU, Germany (By Mail).—It will be impossible to hold the Passion Play this year.

Whether it can be held in 1921 is not yet known, but Anton Lang, who plays Christus in this world-famed spectacle, believes its presentation would go far toward creation of a new world spirit, a recreation of international reconciliation.

In a statement to the United Press, he declared:

"Unfortunately it is impossible to hold the 1920 Passion Play, partly because of the transportation difficulties, partly because of the shortage of foodstuffs. Yet, I continually have the feeling that no time would adapt itself like the present to holding of the Passion Play as it would tend to reconcile and unite peoples on a broad-gauged, Christian plane and turn their thoughts to new things. Even if the attendance were not as great as in 1900 and 1910, yet a start would be made toward union of the peoples which will and must again come."

Whether it can be held in 1921 is impossible to say in view of the conditions of the time. We live here peacefully far from the driving of the big cities; and we feel here that time will heal the wounds of war."

Incidentally, Lang, first informed through the United Press, that American friends were sending him food, expressed the warmest thanks and asked that the United Press bear his heartiest greetings to all his friends.

Lang and his family engage in home industry and are now busy. This little community has lost 70 men through the war, and as a result there is a labor shortage. Likewise the supply of raw materials and food is limited.

Another World War Predicted by Priest

NEW YORK, April 24.—Another world war within thirty years was predicted by the Rev. Peter Chan, a Catholic priest of Canton, China. At St. Ignace, Loyola's church Father Chan said that the conclusion of the late war was unsatisfactory all around.

Within twenty years, he said, if Shantung is still held by Japan, China will reclaim her lost province by force.

N. Y. Scientist Claims Cheap Gas Substitute Discovery

NEW YORK, April 24.—A substitute for gasoline which he maintains can be manufactured and sold profitably for five cents a gallon has been discovered by J. J. Chasler, a New York chemist. The product is a form of alcohol extracted from any vegetable matter containing starch, sugar and cellulose. Cane sugar stalks from which the sugar has been extracted are used chiefly by Chasler in his experiments.

The process, as described by Chasler, is as follows: "The cane stalks are put into a grinder and chopped into small pieces. From there they are placed into a large boiler, called a compression cooker. The mash is cooked for three hours under a pressure of about sixty pounds. After three hours the liquid is drawn off and put into a fermentation tank, where my special yeast is added. The refuse from the mash left in the compression cooker makes an excellent fertilizer. From every ton of mash about 350 pounds of fertilizer can be realized."

"The liquid must remain in the tanks for seventy-two hours to insure thorough fermentation. From the tank it is pumped into a distilling apparatus. The next step is to subject it to a process of distillation identical in almost every detail with that employed in the making of liquor. This changes it into a vapor, which is finally condensed."

"One more step remains before we have the pure product. During the distilling it is mixed with oil, which is taken out by passing the liquid through an ordinary cream separator. The oil can be used over and over again in the process."

"Surplus" English Woman Draws Her Own Black List

LONDON, April 24.—"Leave us alone. We're all right," comes the exasperated wail of one Rachel Ferguson, who admits she may be a surplus woman, but who, nevertheless, draws her own blacklist of "women who would not be missed." The surplus woman discussion has been too much for Rachel's patience, and she says as much in the Daily Sketch.

"It is to be unmarried renders you superfluous," she writes, "then the war has created a great number of"

Kansas Is Facing Famines in Preachers

CONCORDIA, Kan., April 24.—A preacher famine threatens in North-western Kansas. Five churches in Phillips county are without pastors. The same condition prevails in Osborne. Church boards are unable to find young preachers who will accept country charges made vacant by the resignations of many pastors. Services in many large churches have been discontinued on account of the preacher shortage.

Husband Fined for Slicing Wife's Shoes

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 24.—Cutting his wife's shoes to pieces following a domestic wrangle cost Frank Bruce $10 here a few days ago.

Bruce testified in court that his wife had lamed his clothing. He handed over the $10 on orders from Judge Haic, before whom the case was called.

SING SINGERS SINGING "SING SING" AS SONG

OSHING, N. Y., April 24.—Singers at Sing Sing are singing "Sing Sing" as the Sing Sing song. The Mutual Welfare League, composed of prisoners in the penitentiary, have adapted as the institution's anthem a song set to the music of "My Hero" in the "Chocolate Soldier."

The words are: "Sing, Sing, Sing for the singing the whole day long; Sing, Sing, voices are ringing with heart-felt song; Sing, Sing, whatever betide you, Sing for the day of the song that's inside you. Sing, for the song's the thing. Sing, loving the singing; just Sing, Sing, Sing."

Brothers Use Fists, Then Gun in Row

TALEQUAH, Okla., April 24.—George and Carlton Wankler, brothers, had an argument here the other day as to whether or not a "jackpot" in a card game had been opened.

Retiring behind a barn they tried to settle it with their fists. At the end of half an hour each man, bruised and bleeding, went his way. Meeting on a downtown street a few hours later each man drew a revolver and emptied it at the other. All of the shots went wild.

Friends say it has not yet been decided whether or not the "jackpot" was opened.

Woman Tries Suicide Gulping Razor Blade

NEW YORK, April 24.—Elizabeth Marcus, twenty-two years old, a Romanian, died in Bellevue Hospital from injuries received when she attempted to commit suicide on April 1 by swallowing a safety razor blade.

When the young woman was taken to Bellevue the blade was removed from her esophagus by Dr. Craig and for a time the physicians believed she would recover.

Women and Their Work

California Woman Pioneer In Immigration Work for U. S. Begins Long Journey

By EDNA B. KINARD

California still is the land of the pioneer. The days of "49" brought across the plains and over the isthmus, stately men and women, who were unafraid of the golden land. The twentieth century has raised on a new era of pioneers, men and women who have dared to press through into the untamed realms of thought and to lead new movements which a half century ago would have created revolution. The Californians who have been "first" to frame programs, to shape destinies, to stand leaders are well known. It is impossible to count so great is their number. The California women who have pioneered in untamed fields, who may be termed the "only ones" in their particular spheres are even as plentiful.

One left on Tuesday whose work has been recognized throughout the United States and who is not only the one immigrant inspector for women and girls in this country, but also the one woman in the United States who has a seat in the Board of Inquiry having to do with the aliens who enter a port. Mrs. Charles Spinks of Berkeley, a woman who has not only been a pioneer in her own right, but also a pioneer in the work of the United States Immigration Service, Department of Labor. A year ago she retired from that position to become an immigrant inspector of women and girls.

The story of her journey to Washington, D. C., perhaps has never been recalled, but it has its interesting phases although so long in the past. Mrs. Spinks was an ardent suffragist. She was active in the Congressional Equal Suffrage Association. However, she believed that the franchise should be extended through the states rather than through the Constitution of the United States. When Lucy Burns and the leaders of the Congressional Union party visited San Francisco during the Exposition year, Mrs. Spinks was their active supporter.

Later overtures were made which finally took the Berkeley woman on a journey to Washington, D. C., where she was appointed to the position of immigrant inspector of women and girls.

Men Barred at School Jinks

Men will be carefully excluded from the annual jinks of the Oakland School Women's Club, which already they have endeavored to bring their way in the Friday night show at the Technical High school. It will be strictly a feminine affair. The purpose of the jinks is to raise money for the club's fund. It is being held at the home of Mrs. Annie Kelly, Miss Joyce Lobner, Miss Ethel Gibbs and several others. The jinks will be a most enjoyable and profitable program for the club members and will be a most successful one.

New Head for Civic League

Although Oakland was in way of putting forth its claim to the annual convention, California Civic League, the invitation was not pressed before the rights of Palo Alto which was awarded the important session. The program committee has not yet determined upon any definite plan, but it is understood that the day will be given over to the interests of the organization. Mrs. Martha Jones of Berkeley will be the hostess. The convention will be held at the Hotel Berkeley, which is scheduled for Friday, May 21. Mrs. Frank G. Law of this city will be the president of the league.

3 Minute Journeys

THE RUBY COUNTRY.

When the ruby in your ring sparkles and glows, winking at you so friendly, the chances are that you never give a thought to its history—its personal adventures on its way to you.

If you "look up" the story of ruby mining, its history and the present methods of bringing these stones into use, you may be amazed at the wealth of interesting information with which you will be repaid. Some of the stories of the great rubies will enthrall your imagination, so fascinating and so adventurous are they. But it isn't the great stones alone whose antecedents are interesting.

For instance, that little ruby which shines in your ring very likely was cradled in the gravel of far-off Burma. For perhaps the greatest ruby mining center of the world is in upper Burma—Mogoke, to be exact.

There in the bed of a river diverted from its course, is found the gravel in which lies the rubies so many persons admire and wish to possess. From the quiet shrine on the ancient bank nearby, the many wells crowded together—each being served by an old-fashioned "sweep," with the aid of crude implements the Burmese miners separate the dirt and lift the rich ruby-bearing gravel to the surface. Then they take it away in buckets, one on each end of a stick slung over the shoulder. This gravel is carefully gone over so that not the smallest ruby is overlooked. Then the stones are graded according to quality and size. The "market" is now ready.

To this market, through foreign agents—our own country is now said to be the largest ruby-buying land—and by native experts, squatting on the ground in front of block tables on which rest trays of rubies, the buyers haggle with the sellers until the "finds" are all disposed of and are on their way to you.

RECIPES by DELMONICO'S CHEF

Chicken Okra Soup

Clean up well a young fowl and cut the meat in small dice. With the bones of the chicken, one pound of thin beef, one pound of veal bones, two quarts of water, some carrots, leek and a little celery, make a clear broth. Place in an oven and two green peppers, and two ripe peeled tomatoes cut in small dice, and one dozen medium sized okra cut in pieces crosswise. Try the dice of okra in three sauces of butter, and when half brown, add the onion and green pepper and let take a good golden color; moisten with the broth and let boil until the meat is tender. Fifteen minutes before serving, add the tomatoes and the okra, and let simmer slowly. When ready to serve, pour in one cupful of boiled rice and season with Worcestershire sauce.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

MAKING BREAD

Beginners often have difficulty in telling whether the dough is ready to be divided into loaves and put into pans. A good rule is to measure its volume, say home economics specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. When it is ready to be made into loaves, the dough for each loaf, if made out of hardwheat flour, should amount to 2 pints; if made from soft flour, to about 2 1/2 pints.

The levels to which these masses of dough will reach in the mixing bowl, can easily be determined before hand and thus the proper proportion: If one loaf of bread is to be made, before mixing it put 3 pints of water into the mixing bowl and mark the point to which the water comes. This will indicate the height to which the dough should rise.

When recipes direct that dough be allowed to double or treble in volume it is convenient to have a measuring glass to determine this expansion. An ordinary tumbler will do, but a glass of smaller diameter, like a small jelly glass, is better. Before the dough is set to rise tear off a small piece and pack it in the glass. Note the height to which it comes and mark the place it will reach when its volume has doubled or trebled, as the case may be. Put this beside the large loaves of bread and use it as an indicator.

GIVE CHILDREN WHOLE MILK.

Milk is the natural food for children. It is the best food we have. A quart a day for every child if possible, and a pint without fail, should be the slogan of every household. Milk gives children the body-building protein, one of the materials from which their bodies are made.

body proteins are changed and become part of their muscles and blood. Children need these because their bones grow so fast.

Milk contains lime and other salts which are needed for strong bones and teeth and for body regulators. Many children who do not have plenty of milk have soft or deformed bones and poor teeth.

Children are so active that they need more fuel food for their size than grown people do. Milk furnishes energy for the growing child. Besides these, milk contains certain substances which are essential to growth. These substances are called vitamins. One is the fat-soluble vitamin, so called because it is soluble in certain fats; this is found in the greatest abundance in the butter fat of milk. Butter is rich in this vitamin. It is also found to some extent in cheese.

In milk is found another vitamin, called the water-soluble vitamin, because it is soluble in water. These vitamins are found to some extent in certain other foods, but nowhere are they found in so great an abundance as in milk, according to the United States department of agriculture.

SWEET CURDS PIE. One of the delicacies that our grandmothers served when company came was sweet curds pie. It is just as good as it ever was, though served less often than in the olden days. The curd is obtained by adding rennet to warm milk and allowing the milk to stand until it hardens. The curd is then broken up and strained. To the curd from 1 quart of milk add 1 level tablespoon of butter, one-fourth of a cup of sugar, the yolk of 2 eggs, a few Zante currants or chopped raisins, and a little nutmeg.

They also was much used in earlier times and is still a favorite food with many people. It is employed especially in diets for invalids.

You are Welcome

To this way to white teeth

All statements approved by high dental authorities

You see white teeth wherever you look today, for millions of people use a new teeth cleaning method. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. You are welcome to a ten-day test, and you owe it to yourself.

Film dims the teeth

The teeth's great enemy is film. It clouds their beauty and it destroys the teeth. Most tooth troubles are now traced to it. Film is the viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Very few people escape the effects of it.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea, which attacks 95 in 100.

The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve film, so old methods fail to end it. Dental science has for years sought the right way to combat it, for tooth troubles have been constantly increasing.

The method has now been found. Convincing clinical tests have amply proved its efficiency. And now the way is embodied, for daily use, in a dentifrice called Pepsodent.

Three unique results

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digester of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.

Pepsin long seemed impossible. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. But now a harmless activating method permits its constant use.

Two other new-day requisites are also found in Pepsodent. So this tooth paste in three ways brings whiter, safer teeth.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coat disappears.

Results are clear and quick, and our book explains them. Make this test and judge them for yourself. Cut out the coupon now.

Clark Hobart Monotypes at Oakland Gallery

By LAURA BRIDE POWERS

The Oakland Art Gallery blossoms forth this week with a monotype exhibition by Clark Hobart, the two line, salons housing the colorful phantasies that are in their own line quite as fine as anything in the country in their own medium.

They possess the sparkle of spontaneity and dash of execution that give the monotype its significance.

These velvet things are painted upon a smooth surface—glass, or copper—and while the paint is wet, a soft, specially made paper is laid over it and run through the press. Out of it comes these beautiful things in color.

In "Solitude," Mr. Hobart has given us a charming bit in color, rhythm and harmony. Two exquisite nudes are suggested—merely suggested. Their faces are kept vague, thus permitting the greater interest to adhere to the figures, which, after all, form one of the essential elements of the composition.

Mr. Hobart reveals himself of a pictorial mind. He loves movement, and to clothe his women—he often doesn't clothe them, however—in the crinolined age of our grandmothers, and they are fascinating in their quiet garb, in rose and blues and yellows and great gobs of black that give accent to the whole. "The Country Gentleman" is of this type.

Among the interesting things is a monotype of "Bill," the inner poet who loves to skin mules, the same posture that obtains in the very fine portrait in oil in the current annual exhibition at the Palace of Fine Arts.

To spend an hour among these exquisite things is a privilege that every art-conscious person should avail himself of, particularly school children. These creative visions are a tremendous asset in developing the imaginative qualities.

The exhibition will remain for two weeks, 1 to 5 daily, in the Municipal Auditorium.

Through the experience gained in war work many women in England have taken up the optician trade as a means of livelihood. Manufacturing opticians are making inducements to have the women go into this industry where they can earn at least $25 per week.

HOW TO JUDGE A WOMAN BY HER HAIR

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness, or good taste. If you are one of the few who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisable to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some cantharox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also be light you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

ASK THE TRIBUNE

Questions pertaining to the application of the law to specific cases, such as collection of damages, divorce, probate and property rights, will not be answered in these columns.

Editor The TRIBUNE: Who was the author of the saying, "Such is life in the far, far west?"—G. P. HALL.

No one in particular. Mark Twain used it once at a banquet in New York and some are of the opinion that it originated with him. This is not true, however, as the expression was used long before that. It originated from the century-old expression, "Such is life." Just who tacked on "in the far, far west" will probably never be determined.

Editor The TRIBUNE: If taxes on property are not paid when due, how long a time elapses before the property can be sold for taxes?—OLD SUBSCRIBER.

If taxes for 1920 are not paid before June 1, 1921, the property is at once sold to the state. The state holds the property for a period of five years. If in that time the taxes for 1920 as well as the taxes for the following four years are not paid, the property is then sold to individuals at auction. After the property is sold to the state the owner may redeem it at any time within the five years.

Editor The TRIBUNE: If a banker loans money to a farmer and takes a mortgage on his land as security, who pays the city and county taxes? Also in case a person is writing a letter to a friend with pen or pencil is it considered a sign of ignorance if he writes on both sides of the paper? Why is it that newspapers ask people to write on one side of the paper only?—RICHARD RHELAN.

The owner pays the taxes unless otherwise agreed at the time the mortgage is given. The farmer is still the owner until the mortgage has been foreclosed. It is always better to write on one side of the paper when writing a letter so that if this paper is used the ink on one side will not blur out the writing on the other. If writing with pencil the point usually leaves a furrow which is embossed on the opposite side of the page and conflicts with the writing. Newspapers require writing on one side of the page in order that the manuscript or "copy" may be pasted onto another sheet of paper, which is often necessary when preparing it for the linotype; added legibility is another reason.

Editor The TRIBUNE: In a case where a bill, a running account, has not been paid in five years, can the money still be collected or is the bill outlawed?—SUBSCRIBER.

In California a bill is outlawed in two years, providing no part of it has been paid in that time.

Editor The TRIBUNE: What is done with the unclaimed dogs taken in by the society for prevention of cruelty to animals? Also, if one party obtains an annulment of marriage and the other a divorce, can they go into another state and marry?—OLD SUBSCRIBER.

Unclaimed dogs are given away. Application should be made at the city pound. Two parties obtaining an annulment of their marriage may remarry or marry another person any time after the annulment. In the case of divorce, if, for example, a man is freed from his matrimonial ties by annulment, and the woman whom he intends to marry has just been divorced, they must wait a year before they can marry. Even though they want to marry another State, they would still be governed by the laws of the State in which the divorce was granted.

Editor The TRIBUNE: Can you tell me how to remove gloves from clothes?—SUBSCRIBER.

The United States Department of Agriculture gives the following directions: Dampen the gloves with diluted ammonia and press through a damp pressing cloth, but do not allow the heat to dry the garment. Also use a fine-grained emery paper judiciously to bring up a new nap.

Editor The TRIBUNE: I have a small dog (licensed) and he doesn't attempt to bite anyone that comes in the yard, but he does bark at them. There are some children in this block, however, who insist on hanging over my fence and poking their fingers through the wire. Am I responsible if they get bit? To whom should I complain about too much noise in the library?—MRS. F. O. BRANDT.

A city ordinance requires that all dogs be muzzled when loose. If your dog bit someone, whether outside or inside your yard, you would probably be held responsible. The best remedy is to tie the dog in the back yard. If there is too much noise at the library, complain to the chief librarian. The best remedy, however, would seem to be to apply for a card and take books home, where you can read in comfort. Otherwise, hunt another library.

Editor The TRIBUNE: Will you tell me what henna is used on the hair for? What is the cause of a person's hair turning gray before the person reaches the age of 30? Is there anything sold that is safe to turn the hair? Can one who has wine tastes, one's friends at home? When taking out naturalization papers, does a woman have to answer the same questions as a man?—SUBSCRIBER.

Henna is made from a plant by that name which grows in Egypt. It is a reddish dye and when applied to the hair turns it to a light red, somewhat darker than blonde. There are a number of causes—worry, sudden fright and sickness. The natural reason is insufficient nourishment for the hair, usually caused by poor blood circulation. There is nothing sold that will turn the hair. There are several hair dyes, however, which, if used every few weeks, will keep the hair artificially darkened. The law says that wine may be kept in the home for personal or family uses only. A woman is required to answer practically the same questions as a man when making application for citizenship papers.

Editor The TRIBUNE: When a wife dies, does the husband that she leaves still lawfully remain brother-in-law to her sisters and brothers?—SUBSCRIBER.

No.

The New Salons for Fine Sports Apparel for Women and Men, and for Golf Lessons are now ready on the Second Gallery—Annex

A page would be none too much to describe this charming Specialty Shop with its quaintly arranged Lattice-work and its sensibly arranged Stocks of American and Imported Merchandise

So far as we have been able to ascertain there is nothing else like this Salon with its Rest Corner, its fine Alcoves for Golf Lessons and other Correct Appointments. So please be gracious enough to take advantage of a visit, and recognize that this invitation does not imply obligation to buy. We want you to see that which has given us so much pleasure to prepare for your comfort and convenience. Come often.

Choosing from the Great Stocks that are so beautifully displayed—
A Few Representative Garments

A—An English Tweed Suit, and a very distinctive Hat; but price means nothing unless you examine the apparel. So that will be your pleasant duty.

B—Such an attractive Plaid Skirt from the dozens; and the matching hat and tie that are so intriguing in their sprightliness. Just the "fatigue" uniform you are seeking.

C—And who shall say that Plaid Suits are not the very most sportsmanlike that England has given us. Browns and blues prevail as color notes in these.

D—Waistcoats that are as adorable as they are masculine; and some of them are in the most delicious tones of green; others are in heather mixtures, etc., etc., etc.

E—White Pongee chooses this youthful model to make as fetching a frock as ever went out to a Golf Links. And the bewitching face is made so, by the clever hat lines.

 Comedy holds sway on the program which opens today at the Pantages. "Oh, Mike," a musical farce in one act, has been an instant hit over the Empire circuit. Paul Quinn and Frank Caverly also appear in a clever number entitled "The Submariners." The music interspersing the chatter is a harmonious repertoire of songs.

AN FRANCISCO, April 24.—News from the East is to the effect that the railroad strike has revived interest in Governor Coolidge's candidacy on the one hand, and caused the fortunes of Attorney-General Palmer to perk up on the other. Governor Coolidge came into prominence through his prompt and effective action regarding the Boston policemen's strike, and his name for a time was familiar in the discussions as that of a Republican possibility. The reason given for the failure of his boom to grow is that the leaders in his State had committed themselves to others before his emergence, and that he therefore failed to materialize as a favored son; but his qualities now seem to be recalled by what has transpired, and there is a belated warning to him. Attorney-General Palmer gets his new impetus from a similar cause—his course of action in the coal strike of last December, when he came out strong against the court-defying miners. Palmer's chances are strengthened through the necessity of his party endorsing in its national platform its action in its capacity as administrator of the government, which would include its course in the coal strike. Coolidge's chances would seem to be of the dark horse order, which in the rather acrimonious striving of the leading candidates of his party is not inconsiderable.

Governor Cox Heard From

We haven't heard much of Governor Cox, of Ohio, but he is still in the ring as a Democratic candidate for President, and though the despatches that find promulgation hereaway take no account of it, or at least none that leaves the idea that he is aggressive and expectant, in the East some notice is taken of his campaign. For example, it is told that he said in an address before the Jefferson club at Marion, Indiana, that "some one is trying to buy a governmental underhold." Linking profiteering and campaign contributions he declared that "profiteering, from which the public now suffers, is the result for the most part of conditions carrying opportunity, if not preference, to one class over another. Quite naturally, therefore, there is universal distrust of the ostensible patriotism from which flows millions of political contributions. Some one is trying to buy a governmental underhold." Governor Cox vouchsafed no hint as to the source of the "millions"; he did not even indicate which side the reprehensibility is to be charged against; but as Republicans just now have no kind of a governmental hold, the reference must be to someone within his own party, whom he feels it to be the part of wisdom to identify with extreme caution.

The Well Known Straw Vote

The Literary Digest is indulging in the straw vote, endeavoring to size up the public predilection for President by that well-known method. Being impartial its effort is attracting rather more attention than is sometimes accorded such attempts. It is sending postal cards broadcast, if not to every voter of record, certainly to very many in every community. The voter who receives a postal card is willing to co-operate state his party affiliation at the top. At one side appears a list of Democratic candidates, and at the other a list of Republican candidates. At the bottom, halfway between the Democratic and Republican columns appears the name of Herbert Hoover. Thus, half of Hoover's name is on the Democratic side, and half on the Republican. Of Hoover's total vote recorded in the first week of the poll there are more Democratic than Republican. Of a total of 2968, 1719 are Democratic and 1249 Republican. Johnson's Republican vote is 1710. It would seem that Hoover is more popular with Democrats than Republicans, which might be taken as an indication that he had guessed wrong after all in finally casting his lot with the Republicans, and so definitely burning his bridges as to the Democrats.

The President and Roger Sullivan

Those who represented California in the National Democratic Convention eight years ago have a lively recollection of the dramatic incident of William Jennings Bryan reading Roger Sullivan out of the party. They belonged to the faction which Sullivan belonged to, the faction which favored Champ Clark—but which was completely circumvented by the Nebraska coup. As Bryan was rewarded with the Secretary of State ship for his considerable services, the Sullivan entity was passed on to President Wilson; but upon Bryan getting out of the cabinet, and another campaign coming on, the breach was healed and four years ago saw Sullivan pulling in the regular party races, with most cordial relations established with the White House. Wherefore, the President sends a special representative to Roger Sullivan's funeral, and it is exemplified again how time works things curiously around. Sullivan, though held up to the country by Mr. Bryan as a horrible example, must have been thought something of right at home, which is a pretty fair test. All the business of the city, county, state and Federal offices was stopped during the funeral services, and there were scores of political leaders and public officials in attendance. They came from all over the country to pay their last respects to the dead politician. Which leads to the conclusion that there must have been something of character in the man that was misrepresented in the sweeping denunciations of eight years ago.

Concerning the Political Boss

In discussing the Roger Sullivan case one is tempted to go further and discuss the political "boss" case in general. The era of the political "boss," as he once flourished and as we knew him by popular reputation, is over; but the question may now occur whether all the bosses, so-called, really were as bad as they were made out. The era of the political boss was succeeded in some States and cities by the "reformer," and the experience in all instances has not been such as to mark a transition from a bad domination to a perfect one. Even as our politics is managed here, prior times are remembered not with absolute disfavor. The denunciations of men and measures in that other time were more violent, but they were not inspired by conditions that were worse. At least there was a popular sentiment that could be aroused. There does not seem to be now. The taxpayers have been bruised into submission. And who says they are better off, or that the people are better governed than in the "bad old days" which are referred to once in a while? All of which is not intended as a defense of the boss, or a pessimistic survey of present conditions, but seems to be allowable when the President sends a special representative to attend the obsequies of one of the most famous bosses of his time.

The Mayor Thoughtful

The city hall has also noticed, and guardedly discussed, the fact that since the State election the mayor has been considerably subdued. He no longer piles into controversies that are capable of being sidestepped, nor bawls out persons who say or do things that are contrary to his ideas. It will be remembered that formerly one was always aware that the mayor was on his job. One explanation why he is not so apparent now that has been vouchsafed is that the mayor is sore over the fact that he did not get the governorship—sore and chagrined that he did not get it, though receiving the majority of votes of both parties. He is inclined to feel a resentment against some of his advisors. Another cause of his subdued manner is said to be that he hesitated too long in coming out, which was also due to bad advice. Also it is said that his eye is firmly set on the governorship next time, and that he has already commenced to build fences around that candidacy. To that end he is avoiding friction. But the political forecasts about the city hall are various, and the "dope" cloying. Attention is called to the fact that if Hiram Johnson receives the presidential nomination a senatorship will be vacated, and who would be in a more commanding position to succeed to it than the mayor of San Francisco?

A Hatchet Buried

In the appointment of Daniel J. McCoy as Commissioner of Public Works the city hall sees a change of situation. The appointment had been hanging fire six months. The Mayor wanted to appoint McCoy; but it was published several months ago that City Engineer O'Shaughnessy had issued an ultimatum to the effect that he would resign if McCoy was appointed. City Engineer O'Shaughnessy is about the only official they stand in awe of at the city hall. He is a big man professionally, and a determined man constitutionally. Considering the very important matters in hand, chief of which is the Hetch Hetchy project, the administration realizes that a very high order of talent is necessary in the engineer's office. A mere job holder would not do. Still there was not an absolute surrender in McCoy's case. The matter dragged, and was dragged when the Mayor went on his trip to Honolulu. The city hall has a theory that he left carte blanche with the Mayor pro tem, to fix the matter up. Mayor Pro Tem McLean appears to have been a better diplomat than Mayor Rolph, for the appointment of McCoy was soon announced, coincident with an O'Shaughnessy interview to the effect that the city engineer was satisfied—and there it is, all fixed up.

All Hands Opposed the Strike

The recent switchmen's strike was the first railroad strike of record which found the railroad managers, the heads of the brotherhoods and the innocent bystander in thorough accord. Probably it was the first strike of any kind in which such interests converged; wherefore, to the railroad managers it proves a cloud with a silver lining. This outlaw strike not only threatened industry, but the Brotherhood chiefs looked upon it as a "leak in the dyke" which would soon destroy the whole structure of the four brotherhoods unless promptly and effectually plugged. It is figured that some 1200 S. P. switchmen went out in California. The time limit set for them to come back, when they would still retain their priority and pension rights, was a week ago last Saturday.

About 70 per cent failed to avail themselves of that clemency, but many have come back since, and it is expected that practically all will ultimately be at work again—that is, all who are desired, as those who now get back have to make personal application. There are likely to be some who will not be needed. The status of the railway unions have not been improved through the strike, though this is no fault of theirs. But they are likely to discipline in some way those of their members who would not listen to reason. This incident is believed to have had a sobering and wholesome effect on railroad men generally, who have had it brought home that in the preservation of industry will be found the common ground for capital and labor.

Tappers and Switchmen

There were several alleged causes of the outlaw strike, though really it would seem there didn't have to be a cause, or that if one is given it is not necessarily a real reason. To begin with, the switchman's job is a rough one, somewhat hazardous and never overpaid. Naturally, a good many buskies gravitate to it. Trainmen and others in railroad employ do not exactly look down on switchmen, but are not given to looking up to them. An illustration of this is related of the "tappers," those men who go along a train as it pulls into a town and tap the wheels with a hammer, to see if a flaw has developed in the last run. There are not the highest class mechanics—the switchmen seem to think they rank below them; but somehow, in the readjustment of wages when the government was in charge, the tappers' pay was put above that of switchmen, when formerly they got less. The story is that the tappers, on pay day, would display their checks before switchmen, and "rub it in" by making observations more or less derisive. This is represented to be one of the quiet grievances of the men who sought to tie up the transportation lines of the country, though of course it was never given as a justification for striking.

Fourteen Years After

The convocation at the Palace Hotel Monday was really a fourteen-years-after celebration. The exact anniversary was the eighteenth, which was Sunday, and consequently the observance took place, after the rule in such date clashes, on the following day. And the proceedings were not reminiscent of the terrible days of 1906. Those who assembled did not consider that they were present mainly to rehearse their experiences on that occasion, or to congratulate themselves over their avoidance from the catastrophe, but rather to discuss ways and means to prevent such another dreadful happening in the main, and to forestall the fire destruction in general. The Governor was there, and sounded the keynote, which was that a fire is a menace to life and a loss to the entire community, however those affected may be insured; and it is the duty of good citizenship to protect lives and property from such destruction. Jay W. Stephens, head of the Fire Protection Bureau of the State, presented some interesting facts. It has been proven that all the greater fires were largely of the kind that could have been prevented had the simplest rules of fire prevention been followed. But the showing of Fire Chief Murphy was the most impressive. Since 1906 there have been 32,280 alarms turned in. Of these, fires he knew from personal observation that 90 per cent could have been avoided had the proper steps been taken. For the maintenance of San Francisco's Fire Department during the coming fiscal year the sum of $2,302,344.66 has been asked, of which but $10,000 is for fire prevention; yet he was sure that such an allowance for prevention will do a great deal more to safeguard against fire than many times that sum appropriated for the fighting of fires after they are under way. Since 1906, the total sum of $20,341,087 has been expended by the city of San Francisco for the fighting of fires, and not a cent for their prevention. The $10,000 included in the budget is the first distinct appropriation for that purpose. A chapter of the National Protection Association was organized with 430 members—said to be the largest in the United States. Above six hundred attended the luncheon, there being guests from Bakersfield to the State line. Supervisor Shannon did the honors in behalf of the city, representing Acting Mayor McLean.

The Late Percy T. Morgan

The self-destruction of Percy T. Morgan was inexplicable to the large circle in which he moved. He was one of the best known financiers of the city. He had splendid vitality, and seemed to have an inordinate zest for living. He was in the prime of life, and associated with the foremost men of affairs of the city, was eminently successful in business, fully trusted and well thought of. He was in the prime of life, and seemed to have everything to live for. In some of the notices of his death it is mentioned that he was suffering from an injury sustained in an automobile accident; but the mention was so casual that serious consideration may not have been given it. Yet to this is attributed the motive that prompted him to take his life. The injury was to his spine, and was much more serious than his friends knew. A short time ago he went East and sought the most eminent surgical assistance of the country at Johns Hopkins university. His case was given a most scientific diagnosis, with the result that the surgeons were unable to assure him that his recovery to normal condition was possible. He faced the certainty of being a life invalid, and that appeared to be mendacious after having been so vigorous and active.

The Normal School Project

The campaign to establish the State Normal school on the site of the former California building at the exposition grounds has perished, and it is probable that the effort has been abandoned, though no formal notice to that effect has been promulgated. It would seem that formal notice would be necessary, because so much was said and done; so many legislative acrimonies indulged in; so much of the State's money was appropriated and expended in amplifying the site. The idea of locating the Normal School there was one of the holdover obsessions from the glories of the exposition. There was a general desire to preserve some of the architectural features of this city beautiful. People remembered the effect of its completeness, and rallied to the effort to preserve it in part, as it was conceived the preservation of the California and Fine Arts buildings would do. But with the exposition city razed, and the site levelled and wind-swept, this enthusiasm has evaporated, and it is made manifest that this isolated and inhospitable site is not suitable for a great State school. The State, however, has acquired a ten-acre site in a commercial situation that is one day sure to become of great value—though it will have to appreciate considerably to catch up with what it has cost.

Japanese Bonuses

When it comes to liberality in the matter of bonuses to employees the Japanese have all others of record distanced. At least, that is the representation of a Japanese newspaper regarding the largess bestowed by a Japanese steamship company on its directors and clerks, though the story is something of a tax on Caucasian credulity. The Osaka Asahi is authority for the statement that the Nippon Yusen Kaisha distributed $2,750,000 among its fourteen directors, and $2,100,000 among the members of its staff. The statement particularly emphasizes the effect that the higher salaried clerks and heads of departments received a bonus equal to eighty times their monthly salaries. Thus, a clerk on the payroll for an equivalent of $150 a month received a bonus of $12,000. Shipping men hereabouts are not inclined to distrust this, but are rather prone to question the generosity must be exercised on the other side. The reason why the Japanese companies are getting away with the traffic is because those who man Japanese ships are willing to work for such a very moderate wage, and will stand treatment that most Caucasian seamen would draw the line at.

Take Elevator to Glacier Point

A while ago there appeared in the current news an account of the government having projected a perpendicular tunnel through the solid granite that forms the walls of Yosemite canyon, so that an elevator might be operated through it to convey passengers from the bed of the canyon to Glacier Point, a distance of 3164 feet. There is a modern hotel at Glacier Point, and an altogether magnificent view; but a very large per cent of tourists never attain that interesting eminence of the Yosemite because it involves a mountain climb, or an exhausting horseback ride over a rough trail, or a very wide detour in an automobile over a road that is represented to be death on fire. The projected tunnel is so extraordinary that scientific papers are discussing it. Where now attaining Glacier Point is a twenty-five trip for the tourist unused in outdoor effort, when the tunnel is completed it will simply be like going to his room in an upper story of a modern hotel. The Glacier Point hotel is closed now during the winter season. With the elevator running it will be open the year around, and afford tourists a winter vista such as they cannot obtain elsewhere. But the statement that this project will be completed next year may be optimistic. It must be remembered how government work has been known to lag.

News From an Eastern Shop

The Bethlehem Ship Corp., which now stands its familiar name as an Eastern publisher, gives some particulars of what happens in Eastern shipbuilding yards. "Five years ago there were 245 rivets thrown around city a particular gang) and three pounds of coal was used. Forty-seven of the rivets were burned and of no further value. This is probably below average in a day's work. But accepting it for 200 gangs, the wastage would be 1,596,000 rivets a year, or 713 tons, or $63,840. The wastage in coal, even at the medium of three pounds per gang, would be $322, but the cost of reclaiming 245 rivets per gang—3025 tons of rivets—would amount to $135,660. The wastage in this one particular alone would thus amount to $200,000." This is reprinted because there is such a large contingent in this immediate vicinity which is interested in any shop news. They like to learn how things are going in distant plants. It is believed a better report could be made up as to the yards here.

abouts. At least, it is understood that some of the easy ways that obtained as late as a year ago have been considerably corrected, and that operations are proceeding during working hours with a reasonable approach to normality.

The New President of Bohemia

Genuine bohemiares are immensely pleased over the election of Haig Patigian as president of the Bohemian Club. It has been several years since one has been chosen to preside over the destinies of this world famous club who is acutely representative of the artistic world. The club was founded and attained its fame as an organization of painters, writers, sculptors and devotees of arts various, without much reference to anything else than the foregrounding of kindred spirits. Then commercialism invaded, and while creature comforts improved, the care-free spirit was subdued, and presidents came to be elected more with reference to their ability to do things material than their ability to add to the social joy of living. Club housing and club equipment came to be vital matters, and were only to be encompassed by members who recognized the commercial idea—and the average bohemia, especially of a bygone period, was rather shy of that. So there has been a considerable period of what the bohemia element regard as commercial dominance, especially in the club offices. Patigian's election is hailed as a grateful break. He is popular in all circles, however, as there was no opposition candidate.

Slow Traveling in Mexico

Oregon has a good many friends here. During the last four years he has made several visits to this city, seeking to realize the desirability of establishing friendly relations. When he declared himself a candidate for the presidency there was hearty approval, because of the prospect, in the event of his success, of improved relations between the two countries. There are those here who are watching his fortunes, and who are better able to understand his movements than the casual person who relies on the somewhat halting despatches. When a somewhat inexplicable despatch states that he is "within a fortnight of Sonora," they are able to explain that, having with some difficulty escaped from the City of Mexico, it is necessary for him to go by devious ways, to hunt friendly zones, sometimes to make wide detours, to avoid coming up with the enemy. Should he encounter any considerable force of Carranzistas, his own State, of Sonora being in open rebellion, there is scarcely a question as to what would happen to Oregon. Which is an explanation of why it takes him weeks to get home from wherever he was in the enemy's country.

Has Not Made Headway

The Diesel engine was tried out pretty thoroughly, or at least it seemed so, at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The great motor that supplied power to exposition machinery was a 500-horse-power Diesel, and one of the inspiring sights was this almost noiseless and extremely compact engine in operation. At once it was seen that such power, if there were no drawbacks incidental to marine application, would be just the thing for ships, saving immense space and simplifying the stoking. But it has been almost five years since the exposition closed its doors, and the Diesel has not made headway. William Denman of this city, for a few months chairman of the United States Shipping Board, recently interviewed Admiral Benson in Washington, being an enthusiast on the subject. He reports having found the admiral in a favorable attitude, being thoroughly conversant with both the technical and commercial sides of the problem. It would be interesting to know why, in the unparalleled era of shipbuilding that we have seen and are seeing, this power has not been more generally applied.

A Campaign of Education

The Southern Pacific company is petitioning for a freight rate increase of 25 per cent, and has embarked on a comprehensive campaign of education to prepare the public for contingencies. It seems to be considered that any increase of freight charges is likely to be seized on by the public as an excuse for hoisting prices. Anybody disposed to complain will be reminded that freight rates have been advanced 25 per cent, and that of course it cannot but be expected that prices must go up. The Southern Pacific company, with endeavor to convince the ultimate consumer that the actual increase in the cost of any commodity on account of an increase of 25 per cent in its freightage will in all cases be inconceivable, and in many infinitesimal. The freight on a suit of clothes from New York, weighing five pounds now approximates 23 cents. When that is increased 25 per cent it will legitimately add about six cents to the price, which will not at all justify the increase on two to five dollars. It costs three-thousandths of one cent to transport a dozen eggs from Petaluma to Alameda. The increase will make it four-thousandths of a cent, which certainly will not warrant any material increase in the retail price. But it seems to be expected that any increase in freight rates will be seized upon as justification for jumping prices to a profiteer extent.

By TIM HOLLIHAN

financial assistance have been made by Southern California to the Lincoln Highway Association to change its western terminus, making Los Angeles the new "end of the line" on the Pacific coast end of the trail across the continent. Lincoln Highway officials have turned a deaf ear to these appeals, notwithstanding the fight which was being made against the proposed change.

The main argument in favor of the Overland Trail route as against the Lincoln Highway, is that once a tourist chooses the first named route, he has no other choice. The northern part of the state, whereas, if he takes the Lincoln Highway out of Salt Lake City there is more than a good chance that energetic paid southern California agents will win him over to Nevada, will direct him over a route from Ely into Los Angeles. All of which has some truth in it. However, the business-like way to compare the two routes is to be employed at Ely men who are completely ignorant of the merits of the more eloquent in behalf of the northern part of the state. The building of another highway along the old Overland Trail will not cut down the Lincoln Highway motorist, nor having staff at work in Salt Lake City to continue sending as many tourists as possible into Los Angeles first.

The TRIBUNE'S view of the two routes is that the Lincoln Highway, as conditions now prevail, has first call for assistance from California motorists and if a request for help is sent out in the next few months by the Lincoln Highway of California, it will be a generous response from this section. When the amount which might be asked by the Lincoln Highway association has been given it is then to heed the demands of the motorists to southern California, or to the permanent highway along the Overland Trail.

Although it was announced that the county would not allow the 1928 U. S. Annual Socialability Run into the Yosemite Valley would officially close on April 29, a few days' grace were allowed on account of the unusual weather. The run closed this year and the list closed last night with a record number of contestants enrolled.

With the closing of the entry list, preparations made at Camp Curry for the accommodation of participants during their stay in the valley, and Foster Curry, genial host of the event, were all anxious to get used to make every moment of their visit one to be pleasantly remembered.

As has been previously stated, the run will extend from Saturday morning, May 8, to Monday, May 9. Late the preceding Friday afternoon a Buick pilot car, driven by Ferdie Bessie, veteran driver, will set the post the route with signs so that those unfamiliar with the roads into the valley will have no opportunity to go astray.

Following morning will find the San Francisco dealers aboard the 5 o'clock flyer, headed for Oakland, where they will join the local contingent. The Buick car will be checked out for the great Sierra playground. The last of the procession is expected to be sent away by 7 o'clock.

Joe Davis has been named, honorary judge of the tour and will head the line in the trail-blazing car, a Kissel tourster from the Western Motors Company, which entrants will follow as a number and then will follow the trail-blazer in the sequence of their respective numbers. Two of the county's despatch riders will control the procession to see that the contestants conform to the rules of the run—and, incidentally, to the county speed regulations. Those who do not conform without violating the rules governing it will be awarded perfect score certificates by THE TRIBUNE.

The fact that it is to be a "blind run" has already much comment and speculation as to who will check in at Camp Curry closest to the running time set forth in the sealed envelope. The fact that the run will be held at a dance and entertainment to be held Saturday night in the valley the victors will be given their prizes.

A motion picture camera man will accompany the run and the run will be immortalized in celluloid. The film will be shown the following week at the T. & D. theater, and those who are curious how they look piloting an automobile through miles and miles of the most wonderful scenery in the world may see for themselves.

As for the rather novel feature of the jaunt is a mobile tire store. Manager Frank Cary, of Chandler & Lyon's Oakland branch, has volunteered to equip the huge Buick car with a spare tire and a full-grown tire establishment, which will carry a complete assortment of Les tires and tubes. In the event that misfortune befalls a contestant in the way of a blowout or puncture, and he is without a "spare," he has merely to signal one of the motorcycle despatch riders and the need-

Coroner Gives Warning to Drivers

The following communication to the TRIUMPH from Coroner Grant Miller is worthy of close attention from every motorist. It follows:

RULES OF THE ROAD.

The California State Motor Vehicle Act, Sec. 20, reads:

"(a) . . . Two vehicles which are passing each other in opposite directions shall have the right of way, and no other vehicle to the fear of either of such two vehicles shall pass or attempt to pass such two vehicles. On all occasions the driver or operator of any vehicle in or upon any public highway shall travel on the right half of such highway unless the road ahead on the left hand side is clear and unobstructed for at least one hundred yards ahead.

I feel it necessary to call the attention of automobile drivers to this section, the non-observance of which ran off the road, and the machine was driving overturned. The driver, who was riding without a helmet, was seriously injured and shocked. Accidents of this class are frequent and easily avoided by a prudent precaution. Drivers are advised that a failure upon a start to observe this section of the motor vehicle act may result in a similar accident, and that by violation of this section they are liable to a fine of $100.00.

It is hardly necessary for the writer to explain the beauty of the road to Walnut creek. Hundreds of touring parties frequently use this highway.

Starting from the TRIBUNE building the route follows out Broadway, down College avenue to Claremont. This course is followed till Walnut creek is reached. Close observation of the map should be taken as there are many roads branching off the highway and one can easily be misled.

SCENERY ENJOYED.
The road out of Concord is anything but good, in fact the poorest section of the trip lies between Concord and Brentwood, a distance of about twenty-seven miles. Slow driving is necessary during the trip over this region but the scenery beyond Clayton is exceptional and the roughness of the roads is soon forgotten.

Marsh Valley offers the disciples of Isaac Walton a chance to try their luck in beautiful streams and deeper waters which are to be found along the route.

One mile and a half past Marsh Creek station don't be surprised or disappointed if you find no trout. You are meeting a stream crossed by the road at what you must ford. There are four more to be crossed after that one about a half a mile apart. Nervous drivers should not attempt to take this trip. Don't be misled that any one should not take this trip. The writer simply mentions these facts so that there will not be a lot of letters attached to your Sunday out-

WAY OUT OF ANTIOCH.

Prosaville street should be taken out of Antioch. It is not paved but is in fairly good condition for travel.

Pittsburg is entered on East Tenth street, then on Railroad street, which will take you to the state highway.

For three miles after leaving the Pittsburgh the roads are rough. This is due to the recent rains. The Pay and the main road need repairs and in order to reach the point it is necessary to pass through Martinez first.

At 10 a. m. the road is a good road should be reached by 1 o'clock. A schedule allows for a rest in the Antioch hills.

It might be advisable to take your lunch as there are places along the route are few and far between. There is a choice of two routes. The route via Martinez to Oakland. The route via Walnut Creek, or over the hills. The latter which is a very scenic trip in itself and offers a wonderful view of San Pablo Bay.

BIG BASIN ROAD OPEN, BUT NOT IN GOOD CONDITION

The Big Basin road from Saratoga to Big Basin is open, but is not at the best of condition, due to the failure of the state to remove water breaks, according to George B. Grant, manager of the touring bureau of the California State Automobile association.

Grant also announces that the road to Big Basin is open to the public and advises motorists not to attempt its use pending improvement.

New road signs are being erected by the association in Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and Piedmont, and have been ordered for Yolo and San Joaquin counties and preliminary

VELIE FIRST TO ARRIVE IN YOSEMITE

Fighting its way through snow drifts five and six feet deep, over mountain grades that ordinarily test the power of the motor of any car, but under winter conditions with ice and sleet and slush, are almost impassable, the Velie Six, model 34, the smaller Velie, which was sent out two weeks ago from this city to get into Yosemite valley, reached the floor of the valley last Friday.

A wire received by A. W. Rawling, head of the A. W. Rawling Company, told in detail of the endurance shown by the car on the long hard run. For years the honor of being the first into Yosemite valley each season has been much sought after and an achievement highly regarded by automobile men in California.

The story of the trip is interesting to California motorists, who in seasons past have made the trip to Yosemite.

The trip into the valley in the winter has always been considered a test of the power of the motor, the sturdiness and dependability of the car, a trial that should find any weak spots in either the motor or the automobile itself.

show. Otto Wallfisch, prominent of "rubber" will be brought to him at the regular price. The emergency truck will also be provided with a supply of fuel, oil and implements that might be useful in case of accidents—which are most improbable.

Among the latest entrants are H. G. Markham, of Markham & Zinner, in an Oldsmobile; Sam Keener, manager of the L. D. Allen Company's local branch, in a Cole Aero Eight, and the Pacific Motors Company of San Francisco has entered a King Eight. Just what car W. L. Huggins, of San Francisco, intends to drive still remains a profound secret in automobile circles, though he was among the first to send in his entry blank. A surprise is anticipated when he rolls up to the Perry building on the eventual Saturday morning.

The automobile editor has been the recipient of many applications for entrance in the tour from parties outside of the automobile industry, but he has, with the exception of a few, who were known to be skillful pilots, been forced to reject their applications, much as he would have liked to favor them, although their interest is appreciated. An inexperienced driver could easily bring about a serious accident in the valley.

The entertainment to be afforded the visitors in the valley promises to outshine New York's Winter Garden oil man and Olympic Club affairs, is chairman of the entertainment com-

WAIT TILL WE GET BACK FROM OUR TROUT TRIP

An angling excursion last week had as participants Ernest Petter, N. Nicholson, shop and service superintendent of the M. O. Harrison Company, and F. L. Perkins, a writer of automotive advertising and publicity.

The trio rose at 2:30 a. m. and the result of their preparation filled Nicholson's Essex car. They were so hopeful that each promised several admiring friends a mess of trout for the next day. They returned long after the shades of night had fallen. And the stories they told—"wonderful luck," the "big fellow that got away," and all the rest of it.

In point of fact this peerless aggregation of sportsmen brought back eight little dinky trout. But they helped establish the reputation of the satirist.

Auto Trade Night Success Seen Seat Sale Progress Is Rapid

Judging from the advance sale of seats for the annual Orpheum night of the Alameda County Auto Trade association, the S. R. O. sign promises to be conspicuous on Monday evening, May 17, when the event takes place.

At a recent smoker the boxes were auctioned among the dealers, and Walter Crinnion, assistant secretary of the association, reports that a goodly portion of the seat tickets have already been taken up.

Outside of the regular Orpheum program, those attending will witness the state championship title changing contest, which is really the star attraction of the evening. A glance at the rules of the contest convinces one that in order to make even a passable showing, those competing must be in the pink of condition.

Tires on rims, inflated to 80 pounds air pressure are placed around the stage in a circle, the contestants drawing for position. At a given signal they proceed to let the air out, remove the tubes, entirely from their casings, replace them again and inflated to their original pressure of 80 pounds. With the style of pumps used, this operation requires over two hundred strokes, and inasmuch as last year's event was won in about four minutes twenty-five seconds—which is considered slow time—one can readily see that the contest will be no tame affair.

The platoon of Boy Scouts which made the beds showing in cleaning up refuse during Safety First week, were awarded a theater party by the Auto Trade association and will enjoy the Orpheum program with the dealers. W. E. Strel is chairman of the committee in charge.

GERMANY OFFERS PRIZE.

Believing that motor vehicles would play an important part in future wars, a prize of $20,000 was offered by the German Government for the best war automobile twenty years ago.

USED CAR PRICE INDICATES VALUE

What is more indicative of the true value of a motor car than its volume of new sales is the price which is paid for it at the used car market, according to Charles Hebrank, manager of the Hebrank-Hunter Auto Company, dealers for the Elgin Six.

"Our estimation of re-sale value," Hebrank claims, "is based upon a comparison of a car's depreciation, during a given length of time, with other makes both within and above its own price class."

When taking long trips burn the lights occasionally, thereby lowering the charging rate and preventing an overcharged battery.

EQUIPMENT IS NEEDED ON TOUR

Has it ever occurred to motorists that accessories for automobiles become necessities, from year to year? That those things which were formerly bought after the car was in use are now, to a great extent, supplied by the manufacturer. But there is still demand for a lot of things that the manufacturer can not equip his cars with, and the maker knows it.

"It is just these things that make motoring more of a joy than simply traveling," points out Jack O'Brien, retailer of automobile accessories.

Why the Cleveland Six is Multiplying Its Friends

The Cleveland Six is making new friends every day, thousands of them every month, because it brings them so much more than they had even dared to expect,—so much more of the pleasure of driving, and the ease of driving and of the comfort of riding.

The motor of the Cleveland Six—designed by the Cleveland company's own engineers, tested in road work and engineering shops for three years before being offered to the public, and now built in the company's own great factory—is something new to countless thousands of motorists who prefer the light six type of car.

They have never driven behind just such a motor as this. The wonders of its pick-up and flexibility are exceptional and the brakes sure. Low underslung spring construction and soft restful cushions give the Cleveland unusual qualities of comfort.

Since first sent out on its journey into the big world of motordom, last July, the Cleveland Six has made friends, and multiplied them. Thousands of owners know what a good car it is and they tell their friends.

The lasting friendships made by MAXWELL are due to fine steels

You never forget the lasting qualities of fine shoes, fine gloves, or fine furniture. They linger in your memory.

So it is with a Maxwell. The lasting friendships for this remarkable car multiply day by day.

These are friendships built upon steels, fine steels.

Steels that equal, pound for pound, those in any car built.

They are steels that make possible that wonderful combination of light weight and great strength.

For a Maxwell is built to be light in weight. A light car means economical transportation—if its steels stand up.

That means paying the very top price for its steels.

But it has earned ever-increasing friendships for Maxwell.

It has given impulse to Maxwell sales. It has spread all over the world ready acceptance for Maxwell.

Reduced to figures, it shows nearly 400,000 Maxwells now in operation. 100,000 more in 1920.

Yet this number will supply but 60 per cent of the demand.

STANFORD IS BEAUTY SPOT FOR TOURING

Editor's Note: The following brief descriptive sketch of the Leland Stanford Jr. University, situated at Palo Alto, containing an outline of the principal points of interest, is printed for the information of motorists and suggested as one of the many short trips on which out-of-town visitors may be taken during a limited stay.

Not much more than an easy hour's drive by automobile from San Francisco over the century-old El Camino Real, originally laid out by the Franciscan fathers, and perhaps better known as the Peninsula highway, is a place of eternal youth, the Leland Stanford Jr. University.

Here the jaded outlook of those made tired by years of the battle of life may be changed and freshened by the spirit of youth that pervades the atmosphere of this comparatively young and modern university. Men and women whose vision has lost its clarity may rehabilitate themselves and get a happier if not truer perspective of life by a visit to the beautiful campus of Stanford, every acre of which breathes of the freshness and enthusiasm of youth.

WHERE YOUTH PREVAILS

Youth! That is the dominant characteristic at Stanford—the buildings, the trees, the modern touch everywhere, and at the present time pretty clouds, with eyes that calmly smile into the future, and young men with resolute looking out from clear eyes, yet above resolute chin—youth dominant—making lumps come into your throat and your eyes shine with more admiration, the whole creating an inspiring thought that the future of the world will be safer and better perhaps under the guiding hand of these admirable young men and women.

Eastbay motorists may choose two routes to Stanford, one via San Jose, the other via San Francisco. If the San Francisco route is chosen an ideal road to take in reaching the university is that which leads through Golden Gate Park along the beach, over the bewilderingly beautiful road that leads to the main highway and that passes golf links and beautiful homes on the western outskirts of San Francisco; thence on the Peninsula highway through Burlingame and San Mateo on to the very gateway of the university at the junction of the Palo Alto road with the highway.

leads through an arboretum fringed with beautiful palm trees and that contains over a hundred varieties of trees.

Aside from the spirit of eternal youth permeating every nook and cranny of the place the one big attraction at Stanford that every one should see is the Memorial church, erected by Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford in memory of her husband, Leland Stanford. Over the tops of the trees and beneath the spires of other buildings the golden apex of the facade of the Memorial church may be seen as one drives up the avenue of palms.

Leland Stanford Jr. University was founded by Senator Leland and Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford as a memorial to their son, who died abroad at the age of 18, on March 12, 1884. The founders decided to devote nearly their entire fortune to the endowment of a university. It is estimated that the property of Stanford University at the present time is worth $40,000,000.

NOTED AGES VISITORS AT AERO SHOW

One of America's foremost aircraft designers, two members of the famous 94th "Hat in the Ring" aero squadron, one of them an ace with seven German officials to his credit and one of the few Americans who have made a non-stop airplane flight of 500 miles, made up a quartet of visitors from Los Angeles at the Pacific aeronautical show which is being held at the Civic Auditorium. They drove up in an Oldsmobile Eight to be present on Friday, which is "Age Day," and Saturday, which had been set aside as Los Angeles day.

The two members of Eddie Rickensbacher's famous squadron are Captain Harvey Weir Cook and First Lieutenant Ward Fowler. Captain Cook is a former commander of this famous squadron which had the first American ace, more than any other squadron, been down more Germans than any other squadron and incidentally brought down the first and last foe by Americans in the war. Captain Cook has seven official victories, consisting of four balloons and three planes and wears a D. S. C., Legion of Honor and Croix de Guerre. Lieutenant Fowler only reached sea from a few days before the signing of the armistice, but has a service ribbon with three silver stars denoting official citations for valor. Both former flyers are connected with the automobile business south of the Tehachas. Captain Cook being connected with the Bearings Service Company and Lieutenant Fowler being automobile editor of one of the Los Angeles papers.

The two civilian members of the party are Donald W. Douglas, the well-known aeronautical engineer, and William M. Henry. Dr. Douglas is a consulting engineer of the United States army air service and is credited with having designed more successful government airplanes than any other man in the country.

The Determining Influence Among Motor Cars

ONLY things of acknowledged worth can acquire and retain the prestige of leadership. The world is not disposed to patronize failures; but it is quick to emulate success. Consider the recent marked changes in the design and construction of motor cars. Then recall which car it was that first introduced these striking advancements.

Cole Creations Strike New Note

The low bevel-edged body panel; the high cowl; the square corners at the rear; the valanced top; the keen aeroline from stem to stern have become the outstanding characteristics of motor car designing.

All of these trace their origin to the Cole Aero-EIGHT.

Aerotype construction with its attendant 15,000 miles on tires; its wealth of reserve power; its tenacious road adherence; its increased gasoline economy; its swift acceleration and wide range of performance have elevated automobile standards.

And aerotype construction was first applied to the automobile by Cole engineers.

Acknowledged as the sponsor of the present vogue in motor car design as well as a leader in mechanical achievement, the Cole Aero-EIGHT is seasons ahead.

Its prestige is being reconfirmed again and again by the determining influence it continues to exercise over the works of its contemporaries, who have accepted Cole standards as the ones to which they, themselves, would build.

And with the ownership of the Cole Aero-EIGHT goes that feeling of pride in the possession of a thing whose worth is acknowledged by the eagerness of others to follow its example.

NEW SCENIC ROAD OPENED TO AUTOISTS

Motorists who plan long tours this year will be interested in the motor possibilities of the new scenic road, which is now open to the public. It is a new road, built by the state, and is a most beautiful one. It is a new road, built by the state, and is a most beautiful one.

In order that information might be available for tourists, Captain Owen S. Bird of Los Angeles was invited to survey this country by C. H. Sigel, division road engineer of Utah, and secretary of the Arrowhead Trails association, a man who has spent nine years in the study of this problem and who has laid out many of the roads that are now an absolute necessity for the accomplishment of the great Colorado project.

Captain Bird selected a Stephens Scout car and went into the back country ahead of the season, while the roads were yet snow bound in many places, was able to cover the prominent features of the new country. The Stephens Scout Six was out eleven days and in that time covered the 1551 miles, 1249 of which were in desert, mountain snow, mud and canyons.

NEW COUNTRY OPENED. Last year nearly 5000 motor cars passed over the Arrowhead Trail between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City, but comparatively few were able to enter Zion, the Cedar Breaks or the Rim of Brice, while none were able to make the North Rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

At Cedar City, for instance, the city is building a popular description, a modern hotel for the purpose of accommodating the motor tourists who are to visit this region of the country. At Zion City also a large new camp is being constructed that will care for several hundred tourists. This is right in the heart of the canyon and this tent city is reached by a government road over the Bamberg grade.

Zion Canyon will be dedicated as a national park on May 15, at which time an extensive program of exploitation will be undertaken.

GORGEOUS SCENERY. Motorists marvel at the wonderful colors in Zion Canyon. The formation of the entire region beginning at the Valley of Plio with its vivid cauldron of burning red sandstone, gives you the impression of passing through a great furnace. It is just one long vista after another with miles of blue desert rolling away to the foot of lofty snow-capped peaks, with here and there a startling oasis of green.

Leaving Zion, the Stephens was sent over a volcanic trail, which is a giant's table land from whose heights two states can be seen. The road leads toward the North Rim. Here the eye grows weary absorbing the tumbled wild, yet natural beauty of great gash in the side of nature.

This year the road will be open and motorists must be prepared to sleep out as there are few hotels along the route. It is safe to say that within another year it will be a much traveled highway, as it is the nearest road from southern Utah into Arizona.

A gas-driven street sweeper has been adopted by several eastern cities, which does the work of four horse-drawn sweepers.

CARRIES CAMPING OUTFIT ON AUTO

If there is in any one's make-up any trace of gypsy fever, it would be difficult to find a better, more enjoyable cure than by following the example set by G. E. Lawrence with his mobile hotel.

Lawrence, whose habitat, when not following the "open road," is in Los Angeles, is a confirmed tourist, but traveling in a touring car never quite fitted into his idea of vacationing. His problem solved itself when his roving eye encountered a pneumatic tire equipped Oldsmobile Economy Truck. Onto the chassis he purchased he had built a special body which he then proceeded to equip with all the comforts of home—beds, stove, storage spaces for food and luggage—in fact everything needed for a long trip.

A few days ago, nearing the completion of one of his lengthy journeys, he drew up before the establishment of Markham—Purser, local Oldsmobile dealers, with his portable bungalow. He told the dealers that his initial expedition had been to the Yosemite, then over Kings Pass into Lake Tahoe country, then over the mountains into Nevada. This year he is out for new fields.

"Whenever we find a pretty spot, we stop and camp," he said, "when we want to go we pick up our luggage and go. We're as free in our truck as the mountains themselves."

CANADA BUYS MANY CARS. Canada purchased 522 passenger automobiles and 2184 motor trucks in the United States last year. This record of sales exceeds that of any other country.

Swatting Flies Kills Poetry of Horses

Granted the horse affords one a much more poetic means of transportation than the automobile, still it is hard to realize it while swatting the flies from your neighbor's stable.

Aconcagua, Chile, with an altitude of 23,083 feet, is the world's loftiest volcano.

ADVOCATES TRUCK AS RAIL HELP

"Some wise old-timer once made the remark that foresight was enough sight better than hindsight, or words to that effect," remarks W. A. Daley, manager of the local branch of the Moreland Motor truck company. "Our company in common with other truck companies has been preaching the gospel of the efficiency of the truck in transportation and the value of preparedness in getting equipped with trucks at the earliest possible moment."

That isn't just advertising talk, everybody knows the condition of the railroads. Everybody knows or has been told by the railroad men themselves, that they can't expect even with billions of dollars and years of time to catch up with the requirements for perfect transportation even now, but that it would be of necessity a matter of years. They need relief and the people need relief or there will be no resumption of the normal prices or conditions of living.

"On top of this is the unsettled conditions of railroad labor, which makes it utterly impossible for them to catch up. The truck is the only solution at hand and has been and is being demonstrated to be an ideal solution every day in every section of the land."

"The recent strike was another awakening. Had there been no trucks the stagnation of business and suffering would have been greater."

Does saving several hundred dollars interest you?

IN a renewed Marmon 34 you will obtain all that a new car affords in satisfaction. You get infinitely more than in a like priced new car.

For every Marmon of the 34 series is the same basically—the new models have a number of refinements, of course, but all cars of this 34 series are far in advance in design and engineering.

A renewed Marmon looks like a new car. And acts like one. For, in fact, renewal brings it up to its original standards. You get a beautiful car. One that is sound in body and chassis, one that you can keep new.

And it is not only the initial saving that should attract. Low upkeep cost, minimum operating expenses are two other money-saving items.

There is not an over-supply of renewed Marmons. But from week to week our Renewal Department produces one or two of these rare bargains.

The cars that we are offering carry a ninety-day guarantee, with service, insuring your investment

Gluttons for Punishment

Lee Tires ask no favors of the road. On rough country roads their tough treads travel almost unharmed over sharp and jutting points that would tear the heart out of less sturdy tires. On paved streets and boulevards Lee Tires wear down surprisingly and pleasantly slow.

If you know how to make tires and none but the best would satisfy you, the Lee Tire is the kind you'd build.

So thoroughly good are Lee Tires that you'll get an entirely new idea of tire mileage and satisfaction from the first one you try. Let us show you why.

BIG SEASON AHEAD SEEN BY VISITOR

E. T. Strong, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Co., and one of the big men of the automobile industry, is a San Francisco visitor. Accompanied by Charles S. Howard, president of the Howard Automobile company, Strong drove up the coast road Thursday from Los Angeles where he had been met upon his arrival from the east by Howard, R. F. Thompson, general manager of the Howard Automobile company, and Frank S. Howard, Los Angeles manager.

Strong, who is making a swing of the most important Buick territories, brings to San Francisco an optimistic view of the general business conditions. He says there are no "weak spots" in the entire United States and all signs point to the greatest year that the automobile industry ever had.

"I have been asked by bankers at various points if there are any points of business depression," said Strong. "In our position at the factory we are in touch with all the sections, we are enabled to note the general and local conditions. So I was able to tell the bankers that the entire country is going big, with a greater demand for motor cars than ever before."

He found conditions particularly healthy in the Pacific coast section. You out here did not feel the financial pinch which came just previous to the war. Millions of dollars have been brought into this part of the United States in the last few months and in addition there are the tremendous resources which nature has given so bountifully to this section.

"We have had many handicaps to overcome in the adjustment period following the war. But how well we have succeeded may be shown in the fact that last month's production was the largest in the history of the Buick factory. We turned out more than 13,700 completed cars and as many as 600 cars were driven away from the factory daily by dealers."

DEALER MAKES ARRANGEMENTS TO SELL CARS

With contracts signed and arrangements made for the distribution of a high grade automobile in eleven western states, Fred W. Hauger, San Francisco, will soon start for home, and finish his plans for an active sales campaign.

This is the word sent by wire to his representatives here. Hauger has organized the Fred W. Hauger Motor Co., Inc., and the company is now starting construction of a salesroom and service station.

Hauger refuses to divulge the nature of his contract or the car he will handle, but assures his associates that it is a high grade, six cylinder car.

Early carburetors were clumsily connected to the motor by a pipe often 12 to 18 inches long.

While this makes only a total of twenty-three, it is expected by those interested that fully fifty will be in line when the train of trucks starts out from Oakland on the morning of May 17, the beginning of national ship by truck week.

Plans for the national week as reported from Washington show that tentative plans have been made in every section of the country to tie up to the advertising and publicity which will be given good roads and motor truck transportation by the automobile industry and others benefiting in any way by either of the two big movements—ship-by-truck, good roads.

The Oakland Chamber of Commerce, through their trades extension committee, will be represented by a speaker, and also the Motor Car Dealers' Association of San Francisco and the California Automobile Association.

GOODS BY TRUCK INSURANCE GIVEN

AKRON, Ohio, April 24.—Removal of the final barrier to the stabilization of the motor transportation industry, was seen here today in the announcement from the headquarters of the Firestone ship by truck bureau that a plan has been adopted by underwriters which will permit adequate insurance at reasonable rates on goods shipped by motor truck.

Under the plan adopted protection afforded carriers and shippers in the short haul motor transportation field will be as full and complete, it was said, as that afforded those sending goods long distances by railway freight and express.

Burning Car Toots Electric Horn and Calls Its Owner

A Packard twin six roadster, belonging to Howard Will of Syracuse, N. Y., caught on fire recently while in its garage. While the car was burning the insulation on the horn wires evidently was destroyed for a connection was made and the horn on the car began to blow in a call for help.

This is the first instance on record where a car of its own volition has turned in a fire alarm while it was being burned up. The owner states that as far as he knows it is the first time the car ever called for help of any kind.

DORT

The true value of the marked simplicity and accessibility of Dort design is becoming more and more apparent to buyers.

The simplicity of the car is directly responsible for its infrequent need of service attention.

And the accessibility of its construction makes it very simple to give the Dort mechanical attention at those rare times it does seem desirable.

Both of these factors contribute in an important measure to the well-known economy of the car in operation.

This new style idea creates a sensation

THE first thing a person notes when he sees the new Mitchell is its graceful harmony of lines. Then he analyzes.

He sees that the radiator, instead of its old-time bluntness, is now at a slight angle, corresponding with the windshield, doors, louvers. All this gives a suggestion of action, of motion, of fleetness.

Then one notes the finish of this car, at a distance and up close. Scrutiny shows all the details that one usually associates with the most expensive cars. The Mitchell is able to add these costly extras because it builds its own bodies, and puts the profits in the car instead of paying them to an outside builder.

Then lift the hood of this Mitchell Six. Note the accessibility of the engine and all parts. Let us point out all the improvements in the chassis.

Then if you wish, let us drive out on pavements and country roads. You'll again be surprised, for there is roadability in this car—a smooth, responsive power, a well-balanced body, comfortable seats, unusual room.

In every particular this new Mitchell represents values not found elsewhere. We urge comparison. We know you'll save money when you invest in this new Mitchell. Come in today.

RAIL STRIKE HITS OUTPUT IN MID WEST

By F. ED. SPOONER.

DETROIT, April 24.—It was naturally supposed, when the railroad strike first started, that factories throughout Michigan and the Middle West would be able to continue the manufacture of motor cars. Drive-ways, which have been the rule rather than the exception, even during the severe winter, were looked upon as the solution. This was not the case. Scarcity of gasoline compelled the rationing of fuel in pretty nearly every manufacturing center. Even officials of automobile companies located in several cities of Michigan, outside Detroit, were unable to get gasoline to run their own cars. It was impossible for the factories to give in many instances more than a gallon to a car being away, and gasoline stations, whose supply was limited, would sell but five gallons. There was no guarantee to be had that stations along the route would be able to supply gas for the cars, and therefore many of the makers wired their distributors and dealers and sub-dealers that they need come for the cars.

STORAGE SPACE LIMITED.

This created a situation which was serious, for storage space was only possible up to a certain limit, after which manufacturing had to stop, due to the damage done to cars held for any length of time in the open spaces available for storage. This forced shutdown with the makers, who had their own power, and were not dependent upon the gas company or the Edison company, and who were able to go on manufacturing. The present situation is going to make serious inroads with the production for the season, as it will be some time after the settlement of the railroad strike before it will be possible again to place the factories at top production.

ON TOUR OF WORLD.

L. J. Ollier, vice-president of the Studebaker corporation, writing from Durbin, South Africa, says under date of March 5 that South Africa looks good to him. Ollier and his wife are on a two years' trip around the world and the orders received by the Studebaker corporation have been sufficient, according to President A. R. Irskine, to take the entire output of the company for the next several years to come.

launched May 1 with 75 high-class taxicabs. Within a year Ferris expects to have in operation 150 cabs. The Los Angeles Yellow Taxicab company, as the organization will be known, will in reality be a branch of the well known Waldon W. Shaw Yellow Taxicab company of Chicago.

Ship-by-Truck Week for Country Planned

National ship by truck, good roads week, to be observed May 17-22 inclusive, is being planned throughout the country, according to Washington headquarters of the ship by truck bureau. Tentative plans include a motor truck tour, lasting through the week and covering virtually every section of the country, according to reports received from sixty-five cities where branch offices have been established.

Retirement of Chic, Fair One, Blessing

Among the many other blessings the ending of the war brought is the retirement to private life of the female fit person who thought she looked chic in a motor corps uniform.—American Motorist.

SPRING ENHANCES MOTOR COMFORT

Comfort is something that automobile designers are continually striving for. Beauty and power, of course, are important in a motor car, but if we can be transported from place to place in genuine comfort at a reasonable speed, we are satisfied.

Henry Siebel seems to have solved the problem of comfort so far as motor vehicles are concerned. He admits it has taken him twelve years to do it, but a recent demonstration to newspapermen of the air-spring he has perfected proves that the dozen years were well passed.

This spring, which Siebel is planning to manufacture on a large scale within the near future, holds promise of revolutionizing motor car construction. A description is somewhat difficult—it should be seen to be appreciated—but the following should be of interest to every motorist:

The air-spring is constructed somewhat on the principle of a pneumatic tire. It consists of a circular casing of a rubber and fabric composition, containing an air-filled rubber inner tube. This bowl-shaped pneumatic rests on a cone-shaped deformer above the axle of the vehicle to which it is attached. The function of the deformer is to fold the casing walls inwardly without cramping.

When the inner tube is inflated the flexible casing presses against the deformer, thereby creating the area necessary to support the load or blow. The air-spring has no connections. Its vital part, the inner tube, is one piece, consequently there is no leakage of air due to joints. It is easily assembled or taken apart. It has been proven that the spring will enable heavy vehicles to use steel tires.

Siebel has been working on the system since 1908, but at last has perfected it to the point where he believes it is ready for the market. He has opened headquarters on Folson street, and has an active representative in C. A. Shelhamer. The organization that will manufacture the product will be known as the Siebel-Air-Spring company.

DISTRIBUTOR PRAISED FOR NEW PLANT

If it were not for the fact that he was able to announce the approval of plans for further increases to the factory that will make possible a production of 25,000 cars, it is doubtful if J. E. Roberts, general sales manager of the Cole Motor Car Company of Indianapolis, would have had the temerity to face the many disappointed dealers in California. As it was, his reassuring news made him welcome, with the result that he spent a pleasant vacation here as the guest of L. D. Allen, the Cole Aero-Eight distributor for Northern California and Nevada.

DEALER REPORTS SIGNAL SUCCESS OF VISIT EAST

F. J. Linz, head of the F. J. Linz Motor Company, National distributors, has wired from the factory at Indianapolis that he has made his expenses for his trip East. The shortage of Nationals, due to slow shipments and an increasing demand, has made the office of the Linz company a very comfortable place for the officials. Not only were the retail purchasers in San Francisco continually inquiring for cars but the out-of-town dealers were hounding Linz and his associates for more cars.

That his trip was successful was learned from a telegraphic communication which stated that in addition to getting away the regular schedule of cars he had been able to get in all five carloads started for San Francisco.

The French Government presented to the markets and leading generals of that country the motor cars they used during the war.

J. E. ROBERTS, GENERAL sales manager of the Cole Motor Car Co., a recent visitor here.

STATE HIGHWAY BUILDING WILL BE CONTINUED

Highway construction work in California will be continued during the summer months. The board of control and Governor Stephens, with whom the State Automobile association filed a protest following the publication of a report that highway work would be suspended, are now in conference. State Highway Engineer A. B. Fletcher said yesterday that a way will be found to continue the work despite the condition of the bond market.

GEAR TESTING IS DELICATE WORK

The comparison of a motor car to the delicate mechanism of a fine watch is nothing new, it is true. Nearly all automobile salesmen and automobile advertising men have it filed in the archives of their "talking points" for quick reference. However, the following interesting description of the inspection of gears in the Maxwell factory leads one to believe that the comparison is not entirely amiss.

E. H. Bellows, manager of the Western Motors company Maxwell department in Oakland, tells the story.

The inspection of gears is perhaps the most important part of the work in the gear shop. Gauges from Switzerland are used for this purpose. The tool and inspection departments set these instruments to the desired point and then seal them with wax so that nothing can change or disturb them.

If the gears pass this inspection and there is still any question as to their accuracy they are taken to the "silent room" for final inspection. The "silent room" as its name implies, is built of heavy timber, lined with heavy felt and paper, so that all sound is excluded. The gears are set on bevel-gear test machines meshed with a master pinion and the power is applied.

A 20-ton brake is applied so that the greatest possible strain is placed on the gears during the test.

MONEY ALWAYS TALKS.

Ever notice how much noise a little loose chair can make than a wad of greenbacks? Same with automobiles.

DON'T TRY IT ON FLEMING.

It is valuable to have a judicial decision to the effect that a motorist may call a traffic policeman a monkey, but it would not generally be advisable to do so.

25% Added to the Tread Life of a Tire

The hardest thing in tire making is to build a tread to match the modern tire.

We have vastly increased tire mileage in the past few years. Thousands of miles have been added to Fabric Tires, and the Cord Tire adds thousands more. Then the great problem was to make a tread to last like them.

We have solved that problem in Millers. Not one Miller Tire built with our new tread has come back to us with the tread gone.

We have solved it better than others. Our factory tests show that Miller treads outlast the best of others by 25 per cent.

A difficult task

A tread must be more than enduring. It must be resilient to protect the balance of the tire.

Some tough treads are hard and brittle. They shorten the life of the tire. They easily cut, and then they form no protection to the tire.

The problem was to make resilient tread which would outlast the best tire we could build behind it.

Make daily tests

We made such a tread and proved it. Then the problem was to every day make treads exactly like that.

The only way to do that was to test each lot of tread stock. Every day a sample comes to our laboratory. There it is vulcanized and tested before the treads are made. And no tread stock which fails in this test ever goes in a Miller.

We run these treads millions of miles in our tests, to know their actual mileage. We constantly compare them with rivals, and we know how they excel.

The best treads ever developed for tires are on the Miller Tires of today.

The Leader at Home

About 70% of all American tires are made in Akron, the home of the Miller. There Miller tires at retail, outlast all other makes combined.

On a retail business of $500,000 yearly, the average of defectives is but 15 tires a year.

Double Anti-skids

In these treads we combine two anti-skid features. The center is smooth, so it runs like a plain tread. This part has suction cups to firmly grasp wet asphalt.

At either side is our Geared-to-the-Road tread which meshes like cogs in dirt. For front wheels we make a ribbed driving tread for those who desire that type.

Pay nothing extra

Some claims are made that a better tire can be bought for an extra price.

Our factory tests, made against five leading makes, show that Millers constantly excel.

In countless contests, where up to 20 makes are run against the Millers, Miller Tires are winning.

The Miller mileage is the talk of Tiredom. It is everywhere discussed.

A better tire has not been built. If it ever is built, we are bound that this concern shall build it.

Make a test. Put an extra-price tire on the opposite wheel. See how it compares with the Miller under like conditions.

When you buy a new car insist on Miller Tires. Twenty car makers now supply them and there is no extra charge.

Tread Patented

"BUY Firestones" was the word that went around when this cord was announced.

It was the first Cord built to the largest standard oversize established by the industry.

In this big Firestone tire was greater air-capacity, more bulk of rubber and cord.

It was natural to expect more in such a tire—extra mileage and extra endurance for hard usage.

Through a year of performance, on over half a million wheels it has fulfilled the Firestone pledge of most miles per dollar.

The Tire That Turned The Tide

The balance of favor has swung to Firestone. Low cost mileage has won definite leadership in the field of cord tires.

NEW PEACOCK HOME DRAWS BIG CROWDS

Opening of the new Peacock building in San Francisco last Wednesday and the Chandler and Cleveland dealers' convention on Thursday made up two of the outstanding features of the past week's automobile circle.

Thousands of visitors, represented and affiliated dealers of Northern California and Western Nevada and hundreds of business and social friends of the three Peacock companies of the bay cities were guests of the organization during those two days.

According to seasoned automobile fans, both as owners and followers of the automotive industry, no occasion of its kind ever attracted so much widespread attention in this part of the state.

Visiting dealers came from as far south as Los Angeles and as far north as Eureka.

Adding much to that spirit of the gathering of the dealers on Thursday noon was an address on co-operation delivered by Wayne Hearn, automotive merchandising counsel who recently conducted classes in San Francisco and Oakland which were attended by all of the leading dealers and their respective employees. Hearn's remarks were filled with prophecies regarding the future of the industry based, as he explained, upon conferences with the great national leaders of the industry and the financial interests that in many instances are back of many of the factories plus the conclusions of his own observations covering a period of many years plus his actual experience as an automobile salesman which likewise covered several years.

Advertising, which is one of the principal phases of the automobile business, was discussed by W. H. E. Fowler, formerly one of the best known automobile editors of the San Francisco bay region and now business manager of the San Francisco Chronicle.

J. Chas. Nagel, manager of the E. L. Peacock Auto Company of Oakland, illustrated with charts, a system of handling the dealer problem, which to many dealers and distributors was the source of much trouble and grief, principally on account of the potential losses that could and do occur in that feature of selling automobiles.

NEW CAR HAS MANY GOOD REFINEMENTS

The 1920 Liberty Six shows considerable improvement over previous models, both in body lines, in details of comfort and convenience, and in features of design and construction.

The wheelbase of the car has been lengthened to 117 inches. It was found possible, also, to revise the body dimensions in such a measure that more liberal space is provided in both compartments, and a readjustment of these interiors has resulted in undoubtedly better provisions for the comfort of passengers.

Other improvements that will appeal to owners are: Interior fastening side curtains, plainly marked, which are carried in a very accessible compartment back of the front seat; plate glass rear curtain, light of generous size; improved seat cushions upholstered in genuine leather, fitted over Marshall cushion springs; slanting windshield; newly designed top holders, etc.

The mechanics of the car have also shared in the general smoothing and refining. The motor has been bettered. And this we are told, is due entirely to the talent of the Liberty engineering staff, which for two years past has held to the task of perfecting this already great engine.

Other details of mechanical improvement include somewhat larger brake drums on the rear wheels, slightly heavier frame side members, and one or two others of a very minor nature.

Canada is now the second nation in the world in the manufacture of automobiles and number of cars owned. The United States is first and Great Britain third.

The estimated production of agriculture type motor tractors for 1920 is 300,000.

Sacramento, Cal., has provided "stalls" designated by painted diagonal strips on centrally located streets for parking automobiles.

DESIGN OF NEW MODEL WINS PRAISE

The lines of the new Mitchell continue to win from local observers comment that presages a cordial reception of it and they have produced more style arguments than usually attend the welcome given to the arrival of an automobile.

The history book of the present car is some two years old. The Mitchell organization in Racine wanted to produce a car whose lines were in keeping with a motive suggesting speed.

Christensen, manager of the Victory Motor Sales Company, is authority for the statement that the sleek line of the hood, matched by sloping louvers, windshield, cowl and door lines, gives the new Mitchell the graceful, smooth appearance of a trim schooner. Indeed, the sloping masts and funnels of the smart yacht, typifying smooth, swift travel, were partly responsible for our tilting all vertical lines.

The molding running around the entire body suggesting in some degree the deck line of a sailing vessel, heightens this impression. The angle of the hood edge is carried forward to the radiator to unite the lines of the body with those of the chassis, eliminating the impression of a break between the hood and the body, which is so common on modern cars.

All of these features now seem so simple that it is wondered why they were not thought of before.

We had the reward for all our efforts, however, concludes Christensen, and the pleased comments of visitors both in and out of the trade.

Gasoline Necessity, Is Ruling of Court

In discharging two Huntington garage owners in West Virginia, who were charged with having sold gasoline in violation of the "Blue Law," Magistrate Samuel Wright ruled that gasoline is as necessary for an automobile as feed for a horse.

Even if used to pull tractors on public highways, farm tractors in Georgia are not subject to the motor vehicle license, it has been ruled by S. G. McAdams, secretary of state.

Coyote Is Run to Earth by Auto Bounty Helps to Pay Trip Costs

Paying expenses of an auto trip into the country in search of distributors for the Grant Six cars, with a coyote scalp is the latest story brought to auto row by Frank O. Renstrom.

Renstrom in company with George M. Hodges, Walter O'Malley and Harry Mueyer, left last Tuesday for Mendocino county on business.

The party was driving along a road near Ukiah when a large coyote stepped out from behind a low sage bush and took the road ahead of the machine.

Immediately Renstrom started in pursuit and after about a half mile, the animal swerved and started across on open prairie. To the surprise of his fellow passengers Renstrom also left the road.

He drove the car in the path of the coyote, at times gaining on the animal until it seemed the car would run him down. Finally the coyote, turned in his tracks and disappeared. Convinced that he could have found refuge in only one spot, which was a huge rock pile, the party left.

In a small cave they found the animal, the glare of his eyes in the darkness exposing him.

Renstrom and Hodges remained near the cave while the other two took the machine and drove seven miles to a sheep ranch where a gun was procured.

They returned and shot the animal, dragging the body from the cave with a long stick in which mules had been driven.

The animal was seven feet in length and weighed 120 pounds. They brought the carcass to Ukiah, expecting to get a bounty of $10. To their surprise they learned that with the bounty offered by the Sheepmen's association, the total received for a scalp is $65.

Renstrom received word that the supervisors would allow his claim within a few days and he has already received a tidy sum from the sheepmen. The party expect to make another trip into the country soon and declare they will take a gun along next time.

Prepare for Meeting of Traffic Officers

The Traffic Officers' Association of California has opened offices in San Francisco at 1026 Market street, and is shaping plans for a great campaign in order to get traffic officers here from all parts of the country for the national convention which will be held in the auditorium next August.

L. W. De Mar, well-known safety expert, is in charge of the display and has just completed a trip through California, lining up distributors of safety devices, who will have exhibits at the show.

TO dominate the open road in a handy, quick-about, light-weight car—this is the trend of the time.

Long have we waited for a car so thoroughly well balanced that its every movement is forward—so shorn of surplus weight that its up-keep cost is negligible—so inherently fine in line and design as to gratify every desire for beauty and elegance.

Jordan cars were built only after careful study of all American and foreign cars had revealed the prime car needs of today. For its wheelbase, the Jordan is the lightest car on the road.

Men wearied with the excessive cost of driving big and bulky cars, choose with joy the Jordan.

PARK SPACE IS NEED OF ALL CITIES

Now that the winter is ended it is time to talk again about automobile camping grounds for the thousands of tourists that come into San Francisco every summer. Other cities of the country have provided space and facilities for parking, but so far San Francisco and Oakland have not.

The movement for automobile parking spaces started in Ashland, Oregon, so far as can be traced, and the movement has grown into nationwide prominence. At Ashland, there is provided a great open space near the town, to which gas is piped and electricity and water supplied. All the comforts of home are there and the "autobobo" drives in, unpacks his or her kit and stays for a while, as long as the spirit moves them.

When they get ready to move they pull up stakes and go, but most of them leave considerable money behind them, in the form of gasoline and oil and minor repairs to the cars, and in food bought.

There is no reason in the world why Oakland should not have an adequate parking ground for visiting motorists. We have the room and certainly get the tourists in droves in the summer time. Some of them come from Los Angeles, and other points south and the roads of the entire west always lead to Oakland.

"It would not cost much and the revenue derived from the camping spots would more than pay its expenses. I have stopped at one or two of these camping places in my travels and I like them," says Phillip S. Cole, distributors of Haynes cars. There is no effort made to hamper

FRANK FAGEOL GOES EAST TO CLOSE CONTRACT

Frank Fageol, manager of the Fageol Motors company of this city, left for Cleveland and other Eastern points last Monday.

As this trip is a most important one, in that it is made particularly for the closing of pending contracts which will insure the early delivery of materials required for the contemplated greatly increased production of Fageol products, and as Fageol expects to be away for several weeks, the event was made the occasion Sunday evening of a surprise party to him at his residence in Claremont, at which some hundred or more of his employees gathered and presented him with a token of their regard and esteem. Monday morning there was a large gathering at the station of his headquarters and of the officials of Butler-Velch, the distributors of Fageol products, to wish him God speed.

California Battery Promises Big Things

"The arrival of the Yankee battery in Oakland offers automobile owners a chance to see what home products are made of," according to Charles Newman, local distributor for this line.

Newman is enthusiastic over the California product and claims that this battery has many features that will do away with troubles encountered by automobile owners. The factory is located in San Diego and work is completed on all batteries before leaving for distribution.

NEW SPORT CARS MADE TO ORDER

In pursuance of its announced plan to continue enlarging and improving the equipment and service until every salient feature of automotive work is included the Hull Motor Company recently has begun the building of special designs of motor cars. The determination to do this class of work was reached shortly after the installation of a battery department.

In its initial venture the company has taken the standard parts of a well known make of machine to form the chassis, though certain additions and refinements in construction mark the work even on this part of the automobile, upon which is to be placed a specially designed body. The motor is to receive certain mechanical improvements greatly increasing its power and speed. The completed product will be known as a sport car or speedster.

"If we find the demand for such cars warrants," said K. P. Orth, financial manager of the company, "we will adopt as regular procedure the making of any car of special design, with the basis the standard parts of any motor car in the market."

In the last week the company has added to its staff of mechanics two who until lately had been employed in large local automobile establishments—Eddie Donald and O. Olsen.

CAR IN HAND WORTH MANY IN FACTORY

Drive-away sales are increasing in popularity in these days when a car "in the hand" is worth half a dozen in the factory. One of these was negotiated a few days ago by Roger Marran, sales manager for Charles W. Griffiths, Pacific Coast distributor of American Balanced Sixes.

It was Marran's first wholesale order since joining the Griffiths force and he made it a good one. The McKelvey Company of Fresno, American dealers for that portion of interior California territory, sent an inspection party down to Los Angeles the latest models. Their intention was to order one more car.

Marran showed them the latest touring models and the result was the sale of two cars of this design to the McKelvey forces. A roadster was added and when Marran began talking sedans the Fresnoites decided to take a few of them also. Unfortunately there were only three in their party, so they drove off with the touring cars and roadster and will return only next week for the ordered sedans.

SHOW CHORUS SELECTS AUTO

Stepping high, wide and handsome should be second nature action for a group of chorus girls like those of the Passing Show, a recent theatrical offering at Ye Liberty. However that may be, when an aggregation of beauty from the Passing Show decided to take advantage of their stay on the Eastside of the bay to step around and look the way over they picked on one of the new Kiesel Speedsters that the Western Motors Company recently received from the factory.

The car had just been sold, but the purchaser became very obliging when he heard who wanted to use it, even volunteering to "chauff" for the would-be motorists. Being modest, like most married men are supposed to be, he asked Jim Gray, manager of the Oakland branch of the Western Motors Company, and S. J. Kennedy, who heads the Kiesel sales department and who sold him the car, to aid and abet him in keeping his name out of the public prints. Suffice it to say that a trip was made to the principal points of interest on the higher side of the bay and that the fair passengers declared they "admired the Kiesel Speedster to death," according to Kennedy's account of the sight-seeing tour.

CORPORATION LAUNCHED TO MAKE BODIES

Another step in the development of the American Motors Corporation, manufacturers of the American Balanced Six, was taken recently in the organization of the Plainfield Body Corporation, which will supply bodies to both the Plainfield and Greenboro, N. C., plants of this company.

According to Charles Griffiths, Pacific Coast distributor of the American Balanced Six, the new body concern is capitalized at $250,000 of 8 per cent participating preferred stock and 25,000 shares of common stock having no par value.

Through ownership of the common stock it is understood the American Motors Corporation will exercise control of the company. Construction is to be started immediately on a new building containing more than 40,000 square feet of floor space. The plant will have a capacity of over 1500 bodies a year.

Armleder Radius Rod Construction

Armleder radius rods are exactly the same length as the rear propeller shaft and are exactly parallel with it. The front ends of the radius rods are the same distance below and behind the front end of the propeller shaft, as the rear ends are below and behind the rear end of the propeller shaft. The result is that the frame may move up and down to any extent as the truck passes over rough places in the road and the radius rods and propeller shaft will continue to be parallel. This means that it is never necessary for the propeller shaft to slip back and forward in the universal joints.

This saves the universal joint and greatly reduces the trouble at that point.

It increases the life of every other part of the drive system. Armleder radius rods hold the rear wheels in absolute alignment. They are fastened to the rear axle by the spring pad, which is accurately machined to fit and clamp over the axle.

SANDOW TRUCKS

Offer You Protection Against Many of the Usual Costs of Motor Truck Service

With the proved service value of standard specifications Sandow Motor Trucks offer you money saving protection against many of the usual costs of truck service.

The Motor Rocker Block—saves the expense of broken motor legs and cracked crank cases—one of the largest items of expense with the majority of trucks.

The Quick Motor Remover—saves time charges in overhauling the motor—the mechanic may take the motor out of the chassis in an hour.

The Power Increaser—cuts down fuel costs by eliminating the power wasted in other trucks through back pressure in the muffler.

The Safety Starter—saves the cost of employees' liability suits by eliminating causes for accident through back-fire in the motor when cranking.

LOCAL BUSH CHAMPS TO TANGLE AT THE SAN LEANDRO PARK

Halton-Didiers vs. Best Tractors Is a Feature Event on Today's Bush Program.

By BOB SHAND

The 1920 bush season in three more towns will be ushered in this afternoon. The Richmond Elks after being forced to twice postpone their opening because of rain, will get started on their home lot this afternoon when they meet Bobby Vaughn's Tacoma Tigers. The Hollister and Salinas teams started in the Mission league race last Sunday, but will play their first games at their home lots this afternoon. So this is going to be a big Sunday for the fans of those towns and the managers are prepared to handle record crowds. But those games are only being considered second to the game that the local fans are calling their "big bush one" for today. The big game in this locality will be at San Leandro where the C. L. Best Tractors of that town and the Halton-Didiers of Ala-media are to play the final game of their series. There are a number of other games to be played on local lots that are being discussed by the bush fans.

The Tractors walloped the Holts last Sunday so hope to keep up the good work at it's expense of the All-Americans this afternoon. Next Sunday the Tractors travel to Stockton for a return game with the Holts. A win today means that many fans

HOLLIS ON JOE AGAIN.—The first early season rumor that Babe Hollis would be back in the Richmond bats, was given its final confirmation when Manager Otto Dietrich of the Cardinals announced that Hollis will be with his big right arm in the Omaha Tigers in the opening game today at Hammond. About every spring there is a rumor that Hollis will be back in a valley town club, but somehow Dietrich is always able to have Babe on the job. Babe will be at Richmond this afternoon to help in ushering in the season.

Crosby has arranged for the Moose to play the Milwaukee Elks at Cotton Mills nine at the Oakland League Park on May 18. The Milwaukee Elks will be the home team. The game is to be part of the benefit anti-war program to be staged by the Boiler-makers' Union.

Al Schammel will be on the mound for the Elks when they meet the Maxwell Hardware team at Bushrod Playground at 1:30. Doc Moskowitz, former Coast League hurler, will play first for the Elks. The Elks

The Sing Fats will cross bats with the St. Joseph Athletic Club at Bushrod at 1:30.

The Melrose Merchants are feeling like first raters after their long battle with the Moose, and will meet the Big Brother Elks at the Melrose diamond at 2:15.

The San Jose team will meet the Hollister team of the Mission League at the latter town, while Watsonville will help Salinas usher in the season at the other town. While those games will be taking place, Gilroy and Menlo Park will be staging a little argument of their own.

AIR TRAVEL ILLUSTRATED AT BIG SHOW

"FLY!"
The counterclaim, passport and airword of aviation, "Fly!" is the motto of the first aeronautical show ever to be held on the Pacific coast, which is in progress at the exposition auditorium, and which will remain open until midnight Wednesday, April 28.

For every one of the thousands of spectators who have thronged to the auditorium already to see the huge dirigible, the tiny single-seaters, the "fliers" of the air, the "pomp" and the many other attractions of the air show have realized as never before that the era of every-day aviation is much closer at hand than most of us had considered possible.

With planes ranging in price from $500 to many thousands of dollars, and in use from sport or pleasure vehicles to freight-carrying, multi-engine planes suitable for either land or ocean routes, and aerial Pullmans capable of taking a dozen or more passengers on regular schedules from one city to another, there is some kind of aircraft to suit almost every use, and there soon will be a sufficient variety of models to also suit every purse.

For the first time in the brief history of the aircraft industry, San Francisco and the Pacific coast at large have their first opportunity to get a first hand understanding of the vast progress made in the past few years of the aviation game.

DOLLING LIZZIES BECOMES AN ART

Transforming the popular "Lizzy" into a high-grade sport car has developed into a high grade art within the last twelve months. With all respect to the "Lizzy," since it was first shown on the market in such large numbers, owners have been devising means to "camouflage" it to make theirs a little different from the ordinary "Lizzy."

First, the movement started in the some workshops, in the way of tripping the little car of its fender and adding a bit of disguise here and there such as cowls and radiators, low, however, the demand has become so great for "tailor-made" bodies that large concerns have entered the field and are building them in great quantities.

According to Bernard Breeden of Breeden & Cole, pioneers in this new department of the automotive industry, here and in San Francisco, only different attractive types of peashooter bodies are now selling rapidly.

Both new and re-newed Ford motors are used in making up the peashooters, which makes possible a considerable range in price, but using an attractive type of small car within the reach of everyone.

Body builders have shown remarkable skill in the number and variety of the types they have originated, while in the details of the color, style of the top and upholstery, there is a large variety from which to choose.

One indication of the popularity of the speedster is the number of Ford owners who are having their cars rebuilt along speedster lines, or turning in their old models in order to purchase speedsters of the latest design, Breeden declares.

Wide Spark Gap May Make Cylinder Miss

When missing occurs in one cylinder at slow speed, while the firing is all right when the speed is raised, it is a pretty good guess that the fault lies in too wide a spark gap, or the plug of that cylinder.

After we have paid a few repairs and replacement bills a lot of us begin to wonder if we really know as much about a car as we thought we did.

Permit for Service Station Is Denied

The California Highway Commission has denied the application of S. T. Sherer for a permit to erect a service station at the junction of the State highways, one mile west of Davis, Yolo county, for the reason that it is against the policy of the commission to permit the construction of buildings within state highway rights of way.

French pedestrians pay little or no attention to traffic when crossing the highways.

Do not adjust brakes too tightly, as friction will result and the unit become hot.

Radius Rods Mean Long Life And Security to Man and Truck

You don't find the truck driver making light of these absolutely essential aids to his chances to reach old age—not the wise owner, either.

It's a mighty comfortable feeling to know when driving a heavy load over a winding mountain road skirting a precipice or under other dangerous conditions of rough western everyday service, that, in case of spring breakage, your rear wheels are going to keep rolling in the same direction the rest of the truck is steered.

It is also pleasant for the owner to know that in such a case instead of the expense and delay of a tow, or a difficult roadside repair, his truck can be driven right along to the nearest repair place.

Moreland trucks in all models are equipped with rugged radius rods suspended to the frame by ball and socket joints at each end, producing the same results as full type universals. All twists and strains otherwise absorbed by the frame and axle are taken up. The balls are made of bronze to prevent rust in case water passes the gaskets.

Radius rods keep the axle always in line and are a certain necessary contribution to the long life of both truck and driver. Until such time as steel and spring manufacturers can absolutely guarantee against wear and breakage Moreland trucks will continue to use radius rods. It believes in long life and safety first and in spite of added manufacturing costs will install everything in its products that the best engineering and manufacturing skill can produce to this end.

Below are shown the radius rod assembly and details of ball and socket suspension as used in Moreland trucks.

All Moreland service stations are large stocks of all parts, many of them standard units. They are always ready to help owners of other trucks, using these units, keep them moving.

JOHNSON BOOSTS FOR GOOD ROADS

Although the various presidential candidates may differ radically on almost everything from the cause of the high cost of living to the best way of handling the League of Nations problem, there is one thing on which they agree.

The opinions of the various candidates were expressed in statements recently made to the Travel and Transport Bureau of the U. S. Goodrich Rubber Company.

Senator Hiram Johnson: "We have had a great object lesson of the value of good roads in the paved highways of my own state of California. They have been a great factor in the development of the state, opening up regions which hitherto were inaccessible, and adding to the prosperity of all. The improvement of the highways of the nation undoubtedly will be of great economic value to the country as a whole, relieving the congestion which now exists on other transportation facilities and making distribution of the nation's commodities easier and cheaper."

Inspect Your Ball Bearings Regularly

Few owners pay the attention to the ball bearings that these latter deserve. They usually wait until the garage man calls attention to the injury done by breakage. At least once in six months ball bearings should be inspected, the rough or worn balls replaced with perfect ones and the ball run filled with graphite grease.
